Turkey Warned Not to Ship Food to Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Cyprus President Makarios warned Turkey Friday if it proceeds with intentions to convoy supplies to the Turkish enclave at Kokkina "the consequences will be very grave."

Archbishop Markarios said, "We shall not permit any arbitrary action and we are determined to react with every means at our disposal to any arbitrary Turkish action."

Turkish Premier Ismet Inonu said in Ankara the Turkish government had decided to send food to Kokkina in the "next few days" to relieve the Turkish Cypriot population suffering as a result of the Greek Cypriot economic blockade. Inonu added any interference "will be considered an attack and answered the same way."

The archbishop denied Turkish allegations that Turkish Cypriots were starving and accused Turkey of indulging in "false propaganda in order to embarrass the Cyprus government."

"In order to expose the false and baseless Turkish allegations we have no objection if representatives of the U.N. peace force and the International Red Cross, accompanied even by the Turkish charge d'affaires, should visit Kokkina in order to verify the existing situation regarding food supplies," Makarios said.

Defense Minister Polycarpos Georgadjis warned the Turkish a shipment would be opposed as "a kind of invasion" unless it got Cyprus' permission and paid import duties.

Chile Marxists Crippled Again By Walkout

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Chile's Marxist movement suffered a new blow Friday when the People's National Vanguard, a small leftist party, walked out of the Communist-led Popular Action Front (FRAP).

The walkout came on the heels of the FRAP's crushing defeat in the Sept. 4 presidential election.

FRAP candidate Salvadore Allende, a far-left Socialist, was soundly whipped by President-elect Eduardo Frei, a reform minded Christian Democrat.

The sting of the defeat has reached all the way to Havana where Fidel Castro said in a speech Thursday night that Allende's defeat had been brought about by "lies, fear and money."

Castroites had hoped Allende would become the first freely-elected Marxist to head a regime in Latin America. Allende's defeat moved Castro to again proclaim that "the armed revolutionary fight" is unavoidable.

The People's National Vanguard was one of five parties making up FRAP, a Moscow-leaning alliance dominated by the Communist party and Allende's Socialists.

The Vanguard's leader and lone senator, Baltasar Castro, was reported to have led his party away from FRAP because he resented the growing in-

Love Asks for Kickout Drive For Johnson

DENVER (AP) — Republican Gov. John A. Love, speaking on the eve of Democratic vice presidential nominee Hubert Humphrey's visit to Denver, called Friday night for a "Campaign Kickout" dedicated to Lyndon B. Johnson.

Love made the suggestion in a speech prepared for a Republican "campaign kickoff" meeting at East High School in Denver.

"I move that we change the name of this meeting from Campaign Kickoff to Campaign Kickout and dedicate it to Lyndon Baines Johnson," Love said in beginning his talk.

In his speech, Love called for election of Republican Barry Goldwater, whom he fought to the very end at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco two months ago.

"The theory of something for nothing, to some extent, points up the basic issue of this campaign, and the campaigns we have been waging here in Colorado and across the nation," Love said.

Win Seen for Rocky's Wife in Custody Fight

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (UPI) — Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller's closed-court fight to regain custody of the four children she gave up to marry New York's governor appears headed for success, legal sources said Friday. The lawyer for her ex-husband all but admitted defeat.

The custody battle closed out the second week Friday and neared an end.

Vincent J. Malone, attorney for Dr. James Sloter Murphy, appeared depressed as the hearing recessed for the weekend with only one more witness to be heard from Monday.

"Do you think the hearing will be wound up Monday," a newsman asked.

"Yes," Malone replied. He paused, then said quietly: "Pray to St. Jude — isn't he the saint of lost causes?"

Mrs. Rockefeller, who surrendered the four children to Murphy in order to obtain an Mexican divorce and marry the New York governor, is trying to get complete custody of them and reverse the earlier agreement. She contends the children's "health and personalities" may be harmed if they are not with their mother.

Georgia Vote Points to Fight

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia primaries in which pro-Johnson Democrats encountered serious trouble confirmed Democratic fears of a difficult fight in the presidential election.

But the Wednesday primary results produced no great surprises for Gov. Carl E. Sanders, solidly backing President Johnson and the national party.

Sanders was not impressed with the size of the Republican primary vote, although he conceded this did not reflect what might come in November.

The voting was considered a strong anti-Johnson, by another political figure, James H. Gray of Albany, former state Democratic chairman, who now is supporting Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

"I think the landslide show very definitely that conservatism, whether of the Goldwater type or not, is very strong," Gray said.

DENVER (AP) — Seventy-eight faculty and staff members of Southern Colorado State College Friday asked the Board of Trustees of State Colleges to urge President Marvin Knudsen of the college at Pueblo to withdraw his resignation.

They expressed the view in a telegram to Gov. John A. Love.

The governor, when he disclosed receipt of the telegram at a news conference, said he talked to Knudsen last week and "asked him to at least hold tight for a moment" until the other committee could look into the disagreement with the board.

Knudsen announced his resignation Thursday night after the trustees refused to support him in a controversy which flared out of his dismissal of Dr. Donald Shaw as head of the English Department. The action

City May Spend $8.4 Million For Growth in Next 5 Years

Affect on Mill Levy Unknown

By JOHN KUGLIN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

City Manager John Biery said Friday that a proposal has been given the City Council to spend $8.4 million over the next five years — in addition to normal operating budgets — to hire half again as many policemen and expand other city services and facilities.

He did not say how much this would increase the city mill levy.

The five year plan, Biery said, would include hiring 30 additional firemen and building three fire stations, undertaking an ambitious storm sewer program and improving the park system.

The city manager listed where the money was proposed to be spent: $2.5 million, parks; $1.2 million, police; $3.3 million, storm sewers; and $1.4 million, fire department.

The proposal recommends spending $1 million to start the program in 1965, then gradually larger amounts for the succeeding four years, Biery said.

He said the five year plan was necessary to keep apace with an expected increase in the city's population due to water adequate for a population of 250,000 with the Homestake project. The first Homestake water, from the headwaters of the Eagle River near Leadville, is expected to be running into Colorado Springs' mains by the early summer of 1968.

The city manager said the $2.5 million for parks, if paid from the city mill levy, would

Arabs May Divert Jordan

ALEXANDRIA (AP) — Leaders of the Arab world ended a weeklong second summit session Friday night with pledges to begin Jordan River projects in defiance of Israeli threats of armed retaliation.

The final communique read by Arab League Secretary-General Abdel Khalek Hassouna at Montaza Palace left vital military questions unanswered.

It pledged, however, to go ahead with Arab schemes to thwart Israel's use of the Jordan River for irrigation and also to build up the Arab armies, which at present are no match for the 250,000 fighting men Israel could muster.

The communique signed by representatives of the 13 Arab states declared they "agreed on the necessity of utilizing all their resources to face the threat of imperialism and Zionist defiance."

Jordan's King Hussein told a news conference he would turn to the Soviet Union or anywhere else for the arms his country needs, if the Western world fails to meet those needs.

Hussein reiterated he preferred to get arms from the West, primarily Britain, which has equipped his 40,000-man Arab Legion in the past.

Miller Claims Medicare Means Socialization

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller told an overflow crowd in the nation's insurance capital Friday that a program of medicare would lead to "the socialization of private insurance in this nation."

"Barry Goldwater voted against medicare and so will I when it comes before the House," declared Miller, the Republican vice presidential nominee.

The remark drew one of the biggest ovations from the crowd of more than 1,000.

He reached Hartford at midday during a grueling tour of Connecticut.

Miller continued in what has become a basic pattern on the first full week of his campaign — hitting out at the Democrats as a party of recklessness, a party that "led this nation into war four times in this century and has failed to stem corruption in government or lawlessness in the streets."

Goldwater's stand in these areas is sound and reasonable, said Miller.

Miller said the medicare bill passed recently by the Senate and now in the Senate-House Conference committee would provide up to 45 days hospitalization a year for persons over 65.

But, he said, the next election campaign will be fought on the issue of doubling that time, and the next election campaign will be fought on the basis of adding medical and surgical care, and the next election campaign on the basis of providing wigs and false teeth.

Crewmen Saved As Ship Burns

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thirty-seven crewmen were pulled to safety aboard a rescue ship Friday night after their 13,795 ton freighter caught fire and burned fiercely in the Atlantic 300 miles southeast of New York City.

The crewmen took to lifeboats when flames raced through the Globe Explorer late Friday afternoon.

At 11:36 p.m. EDT the 544-foot Pan American freighter La Pintada notified all U. S. Coast Guard headquarters in New York by radio that all crewmen had been rescued.

"All hands accounted for," the La Pintada's message said "Vessel burning fiercely but looks like it will stay afloat."

Another message, also reporting all crewmen safe and apparently originating on the La Pintada, was picked up by a Coast Guard rescue plane.

$20 Million Damage Left Behind as Dora Subsides

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Damage to Florida from Hurricane Dora was set at $200 million Friday as President Johnson paid a surprise visit to the stricken areas of Florida and Georgia.

The damage estimate, by Col. H. W. Tarkington, state Civil Defense director, placed the destruction well above the $115 million caused in Florida by Hurricane Cleo two weeks ago.

Tarkington said about $184 million of the damage was to private property.

The President made an apparent spur - of - the - moment decision to tour the battered areas with Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida and Georgia Gov. Carl E. Sanders.

The President earlier had declared all sections of the two states mauled by the mighty hurricane a major disaster area, opening the way for federal rehabilitation grants.

Labor Asks for Nationalization Of U.K. Steel

LONDON (UPI) — The opposition Labor party Friday offered British voters an election platform based on the pooling of Western nuclear weapons and the strengthening of the United Nations as a potential world government.

On the domestic front, the manifesto, called "The New Britain," advocated the renationalization of the steel industry, the "purposive planning" of the national economy, and the eventual integration of Eton and other private schools into the state school system.

Labor party leader Harold Wilson presided over the news conference that marked publication of the manifesto and was in effect the opening of the general election campaign. Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas Hume was expected to announce the actual date for the elections

Antlers Razing Bids Are Asked

Bid specifications for the demolition of the Antlers Hotel were mailed Friday to interested companies.

According to a report received by the Gazette Telegraph, the bids are being sent throughout the United States only to those demolishing companies that have submitted written requests for permission to bid on the job.

All such bids must be returned to the First National Bank trustee no later than Oct. 8, 1964, and will have to do solely with the removal of the Antlers Hotel.

Crewmen Saved As Ship Burns

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thirty-seven crewmen were pulled to safety aboard a rescue ship Friday night after their 13,795 ton freighter caught fire and burned fiercely in the Atlantic 360 miles southeast of New York City.

The crewmen took to lifeboats when flames raced through the Globe Explorer late Friday afternoon.

At 11:36 p.m. EDT the 544-foot Pan American freighter La Pintada notified U. S. Coast Guard headquarters in New York by radio that all crewmen had been rescued.

"All hands accounted for," the La Pintada's message said "Vessel burning fiercely but looks like it will stay afloat."

Another message, also reporting all crewmen safe and apparently originating on the La Pintada, was picked up by a Coast Guard rescue plane.

ITU Tackles Extra Sessions

HONOLULU (UPI) — The International Typographical Union convention scheduled extra sessions Friday to handle the huge load of business that a spokesman said had to be completed before the end of the convention.

Night committee sessions were held Thursday as the delegates discussed a series of resolutions and proposals placed before the national convention which has been meeting all week at the Princess Kaiulani Hotel.

A spokesman said the convention has before it more propositions than at any other ITU convention in the past six years, years. The convention was scheduled to end Friday, but the amount of business probably will delay the finish.

Whooping Crane Rescued by Chopper

OTTAWA (AP) — A young whooping crane with a broken wing was rescued by a wildlife biologist Friday. He picked it up by helicopter in Wood Buffalo National Park.

"Bird in hand" was the message relayed to the Canadian Wildlife Service here, ending fears that the bird, member of a nearly extinct species, might fall prey to predators.

The young whooper is to be turned over Saturday to an official of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service who will fly it to a special hatching and rearing station operated by the service at Monte Vista National Wildlife Refuge in Colorado.

The bird was spotted Wednesday in a routine aerial survey of the whooping crane nesting grounds in the Sass River area of the park, which straddles the Alberta-Northwest territories border.

Nick Novakowski, biologist of the Canadian Willife Service who made the discovery, returned Friday and found it.

The other whooping cranes will leave their northern nesting grounds later this month on their annual migration south. The world's known wild population of the big birds numbers only 32.

did not affect Dr. Karr's status as a professor or his salary.

The trustees' action came by a 4-2 vote in a telephone polls.

Knudson said his resignation was made verbally to Barnard Houtchens of Greeley, chairman of the board. He fixed Oct. 1 as the effective date.

The signers of the telegram to the governor expressed confided by the irresponsible actions of a minority."

Love commented that he has confidence both in Knudson and the board. The governor said he hopes to talk the situation over with board members but had been unable to contact any of them during time he had available Friday.

He said he wants to be certain "there isn't something beyond what meets the eye." He did not elaborate.

Love said resignation of a college president falls within an area of concern of the state.

Dr. H. Grant Vest, secretary of the board, could not be reached for comment on the telegram. A secretary said he will return to his office early next week.

The teelgram said:

"We the undersigned members of the faculty and staff of the Southern Colorado State College wish to submit the following statement:

"We have been shocked and dismayed by the resignation of Marvin C. Knudson, president of Southern Colorado State College. We are aware that the actions of a small minority of our colleagues, aided and abetted by a group of disgruntled citizens, have attracted unfavorable publicity concerning our institution. But we believe this situation was settled.

"We were gearing all our efforts to meeting all the challenges posed by the enthusiastic response of the students and citizens of the Pueblo area to the four-year program at S uthern Colorado State College.

"Press releases indicate that the board of trustees does not have confidence in our president. Perhaps we have been remiss in making our feelings concerning our confidence in Mr. Knudson's administrative ability known. We therefore reaffirm our support of Mr. Knudson.

"We are convinced that the moral integrity of our community and our institution has been violated by the irresponsible actions of a minority.

"If but once in the lifetime of every man he is privileged to dedicate his efforts to a moral principle, he has secured for his own generation and those generations to follow a meaningful benefit.

"We the undersigned here now dedicate ourselves to what we firmly believe to be such a principal. We openly commit ourselves to a trust and belief in the principle of moral integrity. We voluntarily pledge our support and loyalty to President Knudson and we solicit those free minds and hearts to join with us.

"We respectfully request the board of trustees to urge Mr. Knudson to reconsider his resignation."

State Tax Levy Set on Monday

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — Five state officials will meet Monday to set the state tax levy on property — perhaps for the last time.

The five will meet as the State Board of Equalization, which is required by law to convene Sept. 15.

It ratifies the state's taxable valuation set by the State Tax Commission and the 63 county assessors and has authority to change the valuation placed upon classes of property.

Gov. John A. Love, discussing the forthcoming meeting at a news conference today said no protests have been received by the board this year.

The tax commission reported a state valuation of $3,923,377,076, an increase of $63,530,431 over last year.

This 1.62 per cent increase, the tax commission advised the governor today, is the smallest since the reappraisal program of 1952. Of the increase, $20,689,690 is on public utilities assessed by the state tax commission and $42,840,741 was made by the various local assessors.

The increase came in the face of a reduction in the rate of assessment on stocks of merchandise from 35 per cent of actual value to 30 per cent and despite a sharp drop in the valuation of cattle and sheep.

The taxable value of the cattle and sheep in the state dropped from $75,175,326 to $62,633,324.

The current state mill levy is 1.31 mills and the new levy is expected to be about the same or a shade lower. All of the money goes to support state colleges and institutions under a 10-year program which expires in 1965. The new mill levy, which will be paid by state taxpayers next year on the basis of 1964 valuations which the Board of Equalization sets, will wind up the mill levy program. Unless the legislature enacts a new state property tax the state will be completely out of the field in the future.

Georgia Vote Points to Fight

rowly missed unseating state Sen. Frank Coggin. Calvin Craig, a Klan dragon, polled 2,916 votes to Coggin's 3,618 in what was viewed as mainly anti-civil rights reaction.

The biggest surprise was the opposition vote encountered by freshman Rep. Charles L. Weltner in Atlanta's 5th congressional district. Weltner said that when he voted for the Civil Rights Bill he had anticipated "substantial reaction against it."

Weltner had 36,786 votes to 23,483 for attorney Wyman C. Lowe, who in five unsuccessful races never had a significant vote before.

In two south Georgia districts where Reps. J. L. Pilcher and E. L. Forrester are retiring, the anti-Johnson feeling was dominant in the campaign. Many candidates endorsed Goldwater. Most were so anti-Johnson it almost got to be no issue.

In Atlanta, the so-called white backlash against civil rights led to provide segregationist Judge Durwood T. Pye of Superior Court with another term without a runoff. Pye, who gave maximum sentences to integration demonstrators, led the three-man race but is in a runoff against Paul Webb Jr. who was endorsed by some Negro leaders.

Webb presumably will get the votes of the third man, Donald Hollowell, a Negro attorney. The Webb and Hollowell vote the first primary exceeded Pye's total.

In an upset, a Negro, Horace Ward, defeated incumbent Oby T. Brewer for the nomination for a state Senate seat.

Steel Merchants Deny Accusation

DENVER (AP) — Attorneys for five warehouse distributors of steel porducts entered innocent pleas to anti-trust charges in U. S. District Court Friday.

They were indicted by a federal grand jury Aug. 6 on charges of conspiring to raise and fix the price of steel products during 1963 in restraint of trade.

The companies are the Empire Steel Corp., Steel, Inc.; Silver Corp., and Midwest Steel & Iron Works, all of the Denver area, and the Marsh Steel & Aluminum Co. of Kansas City, which has a warehouse here.

Judge William E. Doyle gave the attorneys 30 days for filing motions.

Baby Girl Dies Under Car Wheels

DENVER (AP) — An 18-month-old Denver girl was crushed Friday when she ran from her mother's car and was run over by an automobile in a car wash parking lot, police reported.

Officers said the girl, Rhonda D. Flohr, was killed instantly when a car driven by James R. Benton, 24, of Rusk, Tex., backed into her. The left rear tire of the car passed over Rhonda's head.

Traffic Investigator Gerald V. Deaney said the girl's mother, Mrs. Judy Flohr, 20, had driven into the parking lot when a friend opened the car door. Young Rhonda ran from the car into the path of Benton's vehicle.

City May Spend $8.4 Million For Expansion

save the city extra charges connected with a bond issue.

Council agreed last year to present a park bond issue to a vote of the people. It never was. Biery said that funds for capital park improvements were deleted from this year's budget on the basis that the people would vote on the bond issue.

Biery said the 1949 bond issue of $175,000 for parks was "spread so thin over the entire park system it was hard to see."

The extra funds for the police department would allow the addition of another 53 policemen to the present force (which numbers 107), Biery said. He noted that Police Chief Cecil McKissick's request for six additional men for this year was not provided for in the 1964 budget.

The $3.3 million storm sewer project, Biery said, would relieve flooding in such areas as East Bijou Street and Union Boulevard, Little and Big Shooks runs, 31st Street and Camp Creek and on portions of Winnipeg Drive and Fontanero, Madison and Van Buren streets. He said federal funds might be available for Big Shook Run.

Said Biery on expansion of the fire department:

"The citizens are either going to pay for a better fire department or higher fire insurance rates." He said Fire Chief Fred Lausch recommended spending $2.5 million instead of the $1.4 million finally arrived at, for the fire department.

"We have attempted in the past to stretch things and keep the mill levy in line," Biery commented. He did not predict what the budget and mill levy proposal for 1965 will be.

City Councilmen were reminded at Tuesday's session to begin thinking about the budget, by Mayor Harry Hoth. A budget must be arrived at and a mill levy for the city certified by Oct. 10.

Biery predicted continued expansion in population and area of the city, noting that since Jan. 1, 1963, the city's area increased 75 per cent, from 12,000 to 20,000 acres. He estimated that $30 million in city building permits might be issued in 1964.

Biery said fire and police facilities have "slipped" though the city has not neglected most city services such as park and street maintenance "even with area."

Biery explained the five year plan during a talk to the Colorado Springs Rotary Club in the Acacia Hotel.

$20 Million Damage in Wake of Dora

on their feet, another hurricane whirled below the eastern horizon far out in the Atlantic.

She was Ethel, a storm with peak winds of 95 miles an hour that were frothing the sea about 350 miles south-southwest of Bermuda and heading toward the U.S. mainland.

It was too early to tell where Ethel would go, but she was on the same path taken by her late, destructive sister, Dora and churning along at about 5 m.p.h.

Wet Dora limped weakly westward through the Florida panhandle, her fury spent along the Atlantic shore and in a slow trek across the inland pine forest.

Damage in Jacksonville and surrounding Duval County was estimated at $100 million by Jack Weatherford, the city-county Civil Defense director.

At Brunswick, about 60 miles north of Jacksonville, damage was estimated at $4 million.

St. Augustine, a picturesque city of 15,000 about 30 miles down the coast from Jacksonville, still had water a foot deep on some streets.

There were no official estimates of damage in St. Augustine, the nation's oldest city, but there seemed little question that it would reach many millions.

More than 30,000 persons who spent two nights trying to sleep on the floors of churches, schools and armories in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, returned to their homes.

Some had no homes to return to. Others found their houses flooded by waves that had climbed 20 feet out of the sea or soaked by wind-driven rain that swept through shattered windows.

Fourteen houses along U.S. A1A north of St. Augustine were demolished. Huge tides and waves sucked the land from beneath them and they toppled and were pounded to pieces by the sea.

Dozens of beachfront buildings along 150 miles of coast from St. Augustine to Brunswick also were damaged or destroyed, and uncounted others farther inland suffered wind damage.

Florida's valuable citrus crop escaped with little damage from wind, but growers said there was danger of root rot from water left standing from torrential rains.

All across Dora's path lay tons of leaves, limbs, shingles, signs, awnings, antennaes, tiles, glass, wires, poles, trees, broken pavement, bricks and boards.

Thousands of homes were without electricity or telephones.

Dora lashed the state capital of Tallahassee and other parts of thinly populated northern Florida for hours Thursday night but caused little damage.

She was downgraded to a tropical storm and her highest winds were about 45 m.p.h.

The Weather Bureau said Dora was expected to continue moving west - northwest and gradually wear herself out.

to 335,630 for Peabody.

Both Peabody and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who had voiced strong support for the governor, urged the party to back Bellotti against former Gov. John A. Volpe, who won the Republican nomination for governor without opposition.

During the campaign, Kennedy's office sent letters to the senator's campaign workers urging them to aid Peabody.

The Volpe-Bellotti contest will mark the first time in Massachusetts history the two major parties have backed sons of Italian immigrants for governor.

Peabody told his supporters, "I have no regrets whatsoever. We gave our all as governor. We gave our all as a candidate for governor."

Bellotti commented: "Clark Peabody was a great competitor."

From New England Baptist Hospital where he is confined with a broken back suffered in a plane crash, Kennedy issued a statement saying "Bellotti deserves the congratulations of every Democrat for the hard, courageous campaign which brought him victory and he deserves the support of every Democrat in the coming election."

Kennedy was supported for nomination for a fifth six-year term in the senate next year by his nephew, the late president, John F. Kennedy.

Woman Pleads Guilty to Forgery Friday

Bernice Tullock, 40, 411 W. Willamette Ave. pleaded guilty in District Court Friday to forgery and had pre-sentence investigation set for Sept. 25 by Judge William M. Calvert.

The defendant is accused of issuing a forged check for $47 to the First National Bank July 13 bearing the signature "Ed Golden."

Frank Everett Williams entered a guilty plea to petty larceny. Originally he was charged with burglary and pleaded innocent July 14. Trial date which was vacated had been set for Oct. 20. Pre-sentence investigation is Sept. 25.

On Friday Deputy District Attorney Dick Webster amended the charge to the lesser offense and the defendant then pleaded guilty.

Williams, 19, 821 Yuma St. was alleged to have broken into the J and M Superette, 729 Willamette Ave. June 12.

John Harvey Toombs, 23, 622 W. Kiowa St. also changed his plea to guilty after the charges had been amended.

He was first charged with burglary, larceny and conspiracy and alleged to have broken into the Manick Drug Co. 320 E. Fontanero St. Feb. 5 and stolen drugs and other items worth a total of $988.47. The third charge accused him of conspiring with David Charles Trefethen and Douglas Kreibich.

On July 14 the defendant pleaded innocent to all three charges and trial had been set for Sept. 15. On Friday Deputy District Attorney Webster dismissed the larceny and conspiracy charges and Toombs pleaded guilty to burglary.

Pre-sentence investigation is Oct. 2.

Three Plead Innocent in District Court

Three defendants pleaded innocent in District Court Friday before Judge William M. Calvert.

The first was Joe Fred Mascarenas, 28, 602 N. Corona St. who will be tried Nov. 12 for rape.

He is accused of raping a local housewife at her home in southeast Colorado Springs Aug. 2. According to a police report, the woman who was an acquaintance of his, was showing him her house when the alleged incident happened. The report also says the defendant admitted intimacy took place but denied that force was used.

Matt Ryan pleaded innocent to grand larceny and had his trial set for Oct. 26.

Ryan, 45, 2222 E. Platte Ave. is alleged to have stolen two transistor radios and two prescure worth a total of $220 from the Nob Hill Cleaners, 2205 E. Platte Ave. Aug. 15.

Ryan also pleaded innocent to a second charge of forgery and will be tried Nov. 4.

He is accused of issuing a forged $49.35 check bearing the signature "Orville Saylor" to the Wagon Wheel Night Club, 2205 E. Platte Ave. Aug. 14.

Robert Louis Anderson, also known as James Alvey Dodd, 31, Panama City, Fla. will be tried Nov. 18 for forgery.

According to the documents he signed his name to a $49.35 check Aug. 19 with the signature "Charles R. Anderson" and gave it to the J. C. Penney Co.

Wide Search Ends on Thankful Note

"Dear Sheriff and Men," read a letter received by the Sheriff's office Friday from a seven-year old girl, "I apologise for running away and causing you and the men and other people so much trouble. I hope you will forgive me and my friend. Truly yours."

The two girls, both seven, disappeared from their home Sept. 2 and an extensive search conducted by Sheriff Earl L. Sullivan, members of this staff, the Broadmoor Fire Department, sheriff's posse and numerous citizens followed.

The children were finally found later that night and apparently had just wandered off with their three dogs and were on their way home when picked up.

Motor License Revenue Shows Increase in '64

Cash receipts for the first eight months of 1964 in the Motor Vehicle Division of El Paso County, totaled $2,177,306.15, an increase of $369,618.56 over the same period in 1963, according to Mrs. Eleanor Oaks, chief deputy county clerk in the office of Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk and recorder.

Accounting for part of the increase was the sale of 8,881 more license plates than during the same time in 1963.

Chattel mortgages on motor vehicles filed from Jan. 1 through Aug. 31, 1964 amounted to $12,769.20, an increase of $4,697.95 over last year.

Money collected for automobile titles during the eight months came to $89,699.50, an increase of $6,275 over 1964, Mrs. Oaks said.

Labor Asks for Nationalization Of U.K. Steel

Tuesday. The most favored date was Oct. 13.

Wilson said that although the manifesto was a re-statement of issues raised by Labor spokesmen for the past year or two it added up to a "Democratic social revolution" that would strengthen Britain's position in the world.

The manifesto seemed to propose the end of the British independent nuclear deterrent.

"We are not prepared any longer to waste the country's resources on useless duplication of strategic nuclear weapons," it said.

The manifesto also:

—Called for re-negotiation of the Nassau pact which provides for the sale of U. S. Polaris missiles for use in British submarines.

—Opposed the Americans-planned multi-lateral nuclear force.

—Urged balancing of Britain's conventional forces.

—Called for pullout of "all NATO's nuclear weapons unless effective political control is put into the system in the alliance have a proper part in their deployment and control."

The platform urged better German relations by the Germans Oder-Neisse line in the east and said that "the division of Germany and Berlin is the result of the cold war and not the cause of it."

UAW Begins Talks With Ford For New Pact

over the next three years, UAW President Walter Reuther asked Ford to match the settlement or better it.

"I am hopeful we can get an agreement as quickly as possible and avoid crisis bargaining against a strike deadline," Reuther told newsmen after a two-hour morning session.

The agreement with Chrysler was announced Wednesday just 55 minutes before a scheduled walkout of about 74,000 UAW members.

Reuther said the question of setting a similar deadline at Ford will depend on how fast the negotiations move.

As they entered the bargaining room, Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president-labor relations, said the UAW apparently got not only a cake "but also the frosting and candles with it" in the Chrysler settlement.

Denise said he wasn't sure the UAW would get any more from Ford. He expressed hope the negotiations might wind up in less than a week.

Traditionally, the first contract settlement in auto labor negotiations sets the pattern for the rest of the industry. But the UAW has insisted that working conditions must be improved at Ford and at General Motors, the other member of the automotive Big Three, before a contract will be signed.

Rings Valued At $1,200 Reported Stolen

Two diamond rings worth a total of $1,200 and $60 in cash were stolen from the home of Mrs. Sarah E. Murphy, 320 N. Hancock Ave. the police department reported Friday.

According to the report, Mrs. Murphy was out in her front yard watering Thursday and when she returned to the house she smelled cigarette smoke and immediately became suspicious. Investigation showed the rings which were in a chest of drawers had disappeared, also the money from a purse.

One of the rings valued at $1,000 consists of two diamond solitaires in a heavy gold setting and the other ring has a 1 1/2 carat...

$10,000 Bond Set by JP In Robbery Case

A charge of aggravated robbery was filed in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Friday against Ronald Clell McDaniels, 23, Tulsa, Okla. and bond set at $10,000.

According to the information against the defendant, he robbed Ulysses Hamilton of $66 while armed with a dangerous weapon on Wednesday.

A police report at the time said the incident happened in front of the Stardust Lodge, 141 E. Navajo Street. Grant and a female companion, Wanda York, both of 727 E. Colorado Ave. were giving McDaniels a lift and he asked to stop there for a few minutes. According to the report he disappeared inside then came out with a gun and took $66 from the couple.

He was picked up some hours later after he allegedly became involved in another incident at 619 E. Willamette St. where he attempted to rob a woman but was beaten over the head with an ash tray and received a flesh wound in the back from a gun. He was admitted into Memorial Hospital where his wounds were described as not serious.

He was then transferred to City Jail and from there to County Jail Friday night.

did not affect Dr. Karr's status as a professor or his salary.

The trustees' action came by a 4-2 vote in a telephone polls.

Knudson said his resignation was made verbally to Barnard Houtchens of Greeley, chairman of the board. He fixed Oct. 1 as the effective date.

The signers of the telegram to the governor expressed confied by the irresponsible actions of a minority."

Love commented that he has confidence both in Knudson and the board. The governor said he hopes to talk the situation over with board members but had been unable to contact any of them during time he had available Friday.

He said he wants to be certain "there isn't something beyond what meets the eye." He did not elaborate.

Love said resignation of a college president falls within an area of concern of the state.

Dr. H. Grant Vest, secretary of the board, could not be reached for comment on the telegram. A secretary said he will return to his office early next week.

The teelgram said:

"We the undersigned members of the faculty and staff of the Southern Colorado State College wish to submit the following statement:

"We have been shocked and dismayed by the resignation of Marvin C. Knudson, president of Southern Colorado State College. We are aware that the actions of a small minority of our colleagues, aided and abetted by a group of disgruntled citizens, have attracted unfavorable publicity concerning our institution. But we believe this situation was settled.

"We were gearing all our efforts to meeting all the challenges posed by the enthusiastic response of the students and citizens of the Pueblo area to the four-year program at S uthern Colorado State College.

Press releases indicate that the board of trustees does not have confidence in our president. Perhaps we have been remiss in making our feelings concerning our confidence in Mr. Knudson's administrative ability known. We therefore reaffirm our support of Mr. Knudson.

"We are convinced that the moral integrity of our community and our institution has been violated by the irresponsible actions of a minority.

"If but once in the lifetime of every man he is privileged to dedicate his efforts to a moral principle, he has secured for his own generation and those generations to follow a meaningful benefit.

"We the undersigned here now dedicate ourselves to what we firmly believe to be such a principal. We openly commit ourselves to a trust and belief in the principle of moral integrity. We voluntarily pledge our support and loyalty to President Knudson and we solicit those free minds and hearts to join with us.

"We respectfully request the board of trustees to urge Mr. Knudson to reconsider his resignation."

Several witnesses told police they saw her go in and come out with a gun. Simms was apparently unhurt and has told officers that he will not press charges against Miss Edwards.

When she was picked up, a butcher's knife was found in her purse. There was no trace of the gun but shortly afterwards she took the officers to a clump of bushes on East Boulder Street from where it was retrieved.

State Tax Levy Set on Monday

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — Five state officials will meet Monday to set the state tax levy on property — perhaps for the last time.

The five will meet as the State Board of Equalization, which is required by law to convene Sept. 15.

It ratifies the state's taxable valuation set by the State Tax Commission and the 63 county assessors and has authority to change the valuation placed upon classes of property.

Gov. John A. Love, discussing the forthcoming meeting at a news conference today said no protests have been received by the board this year.

The tax commission reported a state valuation of $3,923,377,076, an increase of $63,530,431 over last year.

This 1.62 per cent increase, the tax commission advised the governor today, is the smallest since the reappraisal program of 1952. Of the increase, $20,689,690 is on public utilities assessed by the state tax commission and $42,840,741 was made by the various local assessors.

The increase came in the face of a reduction in the rate of assessment on stocks of merchandise from 35 per cent of actual value to 30 per cent and despite a sharp drop in the valuation of cattle and sheep.

The taxable value of the cattle and sheep in the state dropped from $75,175,326 to $62,633,324.

The current state mill levy is 1.31 mills and the new levy is expected to be about the same or a shade lower. All of the money goes to support state colleges and institutions under a 10-year program which expires in 1965. The new mill levy, which will be paid by state taxpayers next year on the basis of 1964 valuations which the Board of Equalization sets, will wind up the mill levy program. Unless the legislature enacts a new state property tax the state will be completely out of the field in the future.

Georgia Vote Points to Fight

rowly missed unseating state Sen. Frank Coggin. Calvin Craig, a Klan dragon, polled 2,916 votes to Coggin's 3,618 in what was viewed as mainly anti-civil rights reaction.

The biggest surprise was the opposition vote encountered by freshman Rep. Charles L. Weltner in Atlanta's 5th congressional district. Weltner said that when he voted for the Civil Rights Bill he had anticipated "substantial reaction against it."

Weltner had 36,786 votes to 23,483 for attorney Wyman C. Lowe, who in five unsuccessful races never had a significant vote before.

In two south Georgia districts where Reps. J. L. Pilcher and E. L. Forrester are retiring, the anti-Johnson feeling was dominant in the campaign. Many candidates endorsed Goldwater. Most were so anti-Johnson it almost got to be no issue.

In Atlanta, the so-called white backlash against civil rights led to provide segregationist Judge Durwood T. Pye of Superior Court with another term without a runoff. Pye, who gave maximum sentences to integration demonstrators, led the three-man race but is in a runoff against Paul Webb Jr. who was endorsed by some Negro leaders.

Webb presumably will get the votes of the third man, Donald Hollowell, a Negro attorney. The Webb and Hollowell vote the first primary exceeded Pye's total.

In an upset, a Negro, Horace Ward, defeated incumbent Oby T. Brewer for the nonination for a state Senate seat.

Steel Merchants Deny Accusation

DENVER (AP) — Attorneys for five warehouse distributors of steel porducts entered innocent pleas to anti-trust charges in U. S. District Court Friday.

They were indicted by a federal grand jury Aug. 6 on charges of conspiring to raise and fix the price of steel products during 1963 in restraint of trade.

The companies are the Empire Steel Corp., Steel, Inc.; Silver Corp., and Midwest Steel & Iron Works, all of the Denver area, and the Marsh Steel & Aluminum Co. of Kansas City, which has a warehouse here.

Judge William E. Doyle gave the attorneys 30 days for filing motions.

Baby Girl Dies Under Car Wheels

DENVER (AP) — An 18-month-old Denver girl was crushed Friday when she ran from her mother's car and was run over by an automobile in a car wash parking lot, police reported.

Officers said the girl, Rhonda D. Flohr, was killed instantly when a car driven by James R. Benton, 24, of Rusk, Tex., backed into her. The left rear tire of the car passed over Rhonda's head.

Traffic Investigator Gerald V. Denney said the girl's mother, Mrs. Judy Flohr, 20, had driven into the parking lot when a friend opened the car door. Young Rhonda ran from the car into the path of Benton's vehicle.

City May Spend $8.4 Million For Expansion

save the city extra charges connected with a bond issue.

Council agreed last year to present a park bond issue to a vote of the people. It never was. Biery said that funds for capital park improvements were deleted from this year's budget on the basis that the people would vote on the bond issue.

Biery said the 1949 bond issue of $175,000 for parks was "spread so thin over the entire park system it was hard to see."

The extra funds for the police department would allow the addition of another 53 policemen to the present force (which numbers 107), Biery said. He noted that Police Chief Cecil McKissick's request for six additional men for this year was not provided for in the 1964 budget.

The $3.3 million storm sewer project, Biery said, would relieve flooding in such areas as East Bijou Street and Union Boulevard, Little and Big Shooks runs, 31st Street and Camp Creek and on portions of Winnipeg Drive and Fontanero, Madison and Van Buren streets. He said federal funds might be available for Big Shook Run.

Said Biery on expansion of the fire department:

"The citizens are either going to pay for a better fire department or higher fire insurance rates." He said Fire Chief Fred Lausch recommended spending $2.5 million instead of the $1.4 million finally arrived at, for the fire department.

"We have attempted in the past to stretch things and keep the mill levy in line," Biery commented. He did not predict what the budget and mill levy proposal for 1965 will be.

City Councilmen were reminded at Tuesday's session to begin thinking about the budget, by Mayor Harry Hoth. A budget must be arrived at and a mill levy for the city certified by Oct. 10.

Biery predicted continued expansion in population and area of the city, noting that since Jan. 1, 1963, the city's area increased 75 per cent, from 12,000 to 20,000 acres. He estimated that $30 million in city building permits might be issued in 1964.

Biery said fire and police facilities have "slipped" though the city has not neglected most city services such as park and street maintenance "even with area."

Biery explained the five year plan during a talk to the Colorado Springs Rotary Club in the Acacia Hotel.

on their feet, another hurricane whirled below the eastern horizon far out in the Atlantic.

She was Ethel, a storm with peak winds of 95 miles an hour that were frothing the sea about 350 miles south-southwest of Bermuda and heading toward the U.S. mainland.

It was too early to tell where Ethel would go, but she was on the same path taken by her late, destructive sister, Dora and churning along at about 5 m.p.h.

Wet Dora limped weakly westward through the Florida panhandle, her fury spent along the Atlantic shore and in a slow trek across the inland pine forest.

Damage in Jacksonville and surrounding Duval County was estimated at $100 million by Jack Weatherford, the city-county Civil Defense director.

At Brunswick, about 60 miles north of Jacksonville, damage was estimated at $4 million.

St. Augustine, a picturesque city of 15,000 about 30 miles down the coast from Jacksonville, still had water a foot deep on some streets.

There were no official estimates of damage in St. Augustine, the nation's oldest city, but there seemed little question that it would reach many millions.

More than 30,000 persons who spent two nights trying to sleep on the floors of churches, schools and armories in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina, returned to their homes.

Some had no homes to return to. Others found their houses flooded by waves that had climbed 20 feet out of the sea or soaked by wind-driven rain that swept through shattered windows.

Fourteen houses along U.S. A1A north of St. Augustine were demolished. Huge tides and waves sucked the land from beneath them and they toppled and were pounded to pieces by the sea.

Dozens of beachfront buildings along 150 miles of coast from St. Augustine to Brunswick also were damaged or destroyed, and uncounted others farther inland suffered wind damage.

Florida's valuable citrus crop escaped with little damage from wind, but growers said there was danger of root rot from water left standing from torrential rains.

All across Dora's path lay tons of leaves, limbs, shingles, signs, awnings, antennaes, tiles, glass, wires, poles, trees, broken pavement, bricks and boards.

Thousands of homes were without electricity or telephones.

Dora lashed the state capital of Tallahassee and other parts of thinly populated northern Florida for hours Thursday night but caused little damage.

She was downgraded to a tropical storm and her highest winds were about 45 m.p.h.

The Weather Bureau said Dora was expected to continue moving west - northwest and gradually wear herself out.

to 335,620 for Peabody.

Both Peabody and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who had voiced strong support for the governor, urged the party to back Bellotti against former Gov. John A. Volpe, who won the Republican nomination for governor without opposition.

During the campaign, Kennedy's office sent letters to the senator's campaign workers urging them to aid Peabody.

The Volpe-Bellotti contest will mark the first time in Massachusetts history the two major parties have backed sons of Italian immigrants for governor.

Peabody told his supporters, "I have no regrets whatsoever. We gave our all as governor. We gave our all as a candidate for governor."

Bellotti commented: "Chub Peabody was a great competitor."

From New England Baptist Hospital where he is confined with a broken back suffered in a plane crash, Kennedy issued a statement saying "Bellotti "deserves the congratulations of every Democrat for the hard, courageous campaign which brought him victory and he deserves the support of every Democrat in the coming contest."

Kennedy was unopposed for nomination for a full six-year term in the Senate seat once held by his brother, the late President John F. Kennedy.

Howard Whitmore, former mayor of suburban Newton, had no opposition for the Republican nomination to oppose Kennedy in November.

Woman Pleads Guilty to Forgery Friday

Bernice Tullock, 40, 411 W. Willamette Ave. pleaded guilty in District Court Friday to forgery and had pre-sentence investigation set for Sept. 25 by Judge William M. Calvert.

The defendant is accused of issuing a forged check for $47 to the First National Bank July 13 bearing the signature "Ed Golden."

Frank Everett Williams entered a guilty plea to petty larceny. Originally he was charged with burglary and pleaded innocent July 14. Trial date which was vacated had been set for Oct. 20. Pre-sentence investigation is Sept. 25.

On Friday Deputy District Attorney Dick Webster amended the charge to the lesser offense and the defendant then pleaded guilty.

Williams, 19, 821 Yuma St. was alleged to have broken into the J and M Superette, 729 Willamette Ave. June 12.

John Harvey Toombs, 23, 622 W. Kiowa St. also changed his plea to guilty after the charges had been amended.

He was first charged with burglary, larceny and conspiracy and alleged to have broken into the Musick Drug Co. 309 E. Fontanero St. Feb. 5 and stolen drugs and other items worth a total of $908.47. The third charge accused him of conspiring with David Charles Trefethen and Douglas Kreibich.

On July 14 the defendant pleaded innocent to all three charges and trial had been set for Sept. 15. On Friday Deputy District Attorney Webster dismissed the larceny and conspiracy charges and Toombs pleaded guilty to burglary.

Pre-sentence investigation is Oct. 2.

Three Plead Innocent in District Court

Three defendants pleaded innocent in District Court Friday before Judge William M. Calvert.

The first was Joe Fred Mascarenas, 23, 622 N. Corona St. who will be tried Nov. 12 for rape.

He is accused of raping a local housewife at her home in southeast Colorado Springs Aug. 3. According to a police report, the woman who was an acquaintance of his, was showing him her house when the alleged incident happened. The report also says the defendant admitted intimacy took place but denied that force was used.

Matt Ryan pleaded innocent to grand larceny and had his trial set for Oct. 29.

Ryan, 46, 2212 E. Platte Ave. is alleged to have stolen two transistor radios and two sweaters worth a total of $139 from the Nob Hill Cleaners, 2332 E. Platte Ave. Aug. 15.

Ryan also pleaded innocent to a second charge of forgery and will be tried Nov. 4.

He is accused of issuing a forged $42.20 check bearing the signature "Orville Sayles" to the Wagon Wheel Night Club, 2308 E. Platte Ave. Aug. 14.

Robert Levie Andrews also known as James Alonzo Daniel, 21, Panama City, Fla. will be tried Nov. 24 for forgery.

According to the information filed against him he forged a $47.53 check Aug. 17 with the signature "Charles R. Andrews" and gave it to the J. C. Penney Co.

Wide Search Ends on Thankful Note

"Dear Sheriff and Men," read a letter received by the Sheriff's office Friday from a seven-year old girl, "I apologise for running away and causing you and the men and other people so much trouble. I hope you will forgive me and my friend. Truly yours."

The two girls, both seven, disappeared from their home Sept. 2 and an extensive search conducted by Sheriff Earl L. Sullivan, members of this staff, the Broadmoor Fire Department, sheriff's posse and numerous citizens followed.

The children were finally found later that night and apparently had just wandered off with their three dogs and were on their way home when picked up.

Motor License Revenue Shows Increase in '64

Cash receipts for the first eight months of 1964 in the Motor Vehicle Division of El Paso County, totaled $2,177,396.15, an increase of $369,018.56 over the same period in 1963, according to Mrs. Eleanor Oaks, chief deputy county clerk in the office of Mrs. Harriet Beals, county clerk and recorder.

Accounting for part of the increase was the sale of 8,891 more license plates than during the same time in 1963.

Chattel mortgages on motor vehicles filed from Jan. 1 through Aug. 31, 1964 amounted to $12,769.30, an increase of $1,407.95 over last year.

Money collected for automobile titles during the eight months came to $58,030.50, an increase of $6,275 over 1964, Mrs. Oaks said.

Labor Asks for Nationalization Of U.K. Steel

Tuesday. The most favored date was Oct. 15.

Wilson said that although the manifesto was a re-statement of issues raised by Labor spokesmen for the past year or two it added up to a "Democratic social revolution" that would strengthen Britain's position in the world.

The manifesto seemed to presage the end of the British independent nuclear deterrent.

"We are not prepared any longer to waste the country's resources on endless duplication of strategic nuclear weapons," it said.

The manifesto also:

—Called for re-negotiation of the Nassau pact which provides for the sale of U. S. Polaris missiles for use in British submarines.

— Opposed the American-planned multi-lateral nuclear force.

—Urged bolstering of Britain's conventional forces.

—Called for pooling of "all NATO's nuclear weapons under effective political control so all the partners in the alliance have a proper share in their deployment and control."

The platform urged United Nations membership for Communist China. It also called for United Nations sponsored summit conferences and said, "For us world government is the final objective — and the United Nations the chosen instrument."

UAW Begins Talks With Ford For New Pact

over the next three years, UAW President Walter Reuther asked Ford to match the settlement or better it.

"I am hopeful we can get an agreement as quickly as possible and avoid crisis bargaining against a strike deadline," Reuther told newsmen after a two-hour morning session.

The agreement with Chrysler was announced Wednesday just 55 minutes before a scheduled walkout of about 74,000 UAW members.

Reuther said the question of setting a similar deadline at Ford will depend on how fast the negotiations move.

As they entered the bargaining room, Malcolm Denise, Ford vice president-labor relations, said the UAW apparently got not only a cake "but also the frosting and candles with it" in the Chrysler settlement.

Denise said he wasn't sure the UAW would get any more from Ford. He expressed hope the negotiations might wind up in less than a week.

Traditionally, the first contract settlement in auto labor negotiations sets the pattern for the rest of the industry. But the UAW has insisted that working conditions must be improved at Ford and at General Motors, the other member of the automotive Big Three, before a contract will be signed.

"But we have at the head of our ticket this year a man, Sen. Barry Goldwater, who believes, as I do, and as I am sure you do, that there just isn't any such thing as a free lunch. Somewhere, somehow, by some generation, the meal is paid for and all of the Minnesota verbiage and the tall Texas stories can't change this fact of life."

Love's prepared text made no other direct reference to Humphrey.

The governor accused the Democrats of using "warmed-over political mush" and called for honesty in government.

Rings Valued At $1,200 Reported Stolen

Two diamond rings worth a total of $1,200 and $98 in cash were stolen from the home of Mrs. Sarah E. Murphy, 222 N. Hancock Ave. the police department reported Friday.

According to the report, Mrs. Murphy was out in her front yard watering Thursday and when she returned to the house she smelled cigarette smoke and immediately became suspicious. Investigation showed that the rings which were in a chest of drawers had disappeared, also the money from a purse.

One of the rings valued at $1,000 consists of five diamonds in a yellow gold with a platinum setting and the $200 one is set in white gold.

$10,000 Bond Set by JP In Robbery Case

A charge of aggravated robbery was filed in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Friday against Ronald Clell McDaniels, 23, Tulsa, Okla. and bond set at $10,000.

According to the information against the defendant, he robbed Ulysses Hamilton of $66 while armed with a dangerous weapon Wednesday.

A police report at the time said the incident happened in front of the Stardust Lodge, 141 E. Navajo Street. Grant and a female companion, Wanda York, both of 727 E. Colorado Ave. were giving McDaniels a lift and he asked to stop there for a few minutes. According to the report he disappeared inside then came out with a gun and took $66 from the couple.

He was picked up some hours later after he allegedly became involved in another incident at 619 E. Willamette St. where he attempted to rob a woman but was beaten over the head with an ash tray and received a flesh wound in the back from a gun. He was admitted into Memorial Hospital where his wounds were described as not serious.

He was then transferred to City Jail and from there to County Jail Friday night.

IN FURNISHING, START WITH A "FLOOR PLAN"

If you want to "decorate" instead of just "furnish," start with a floor plan. If you do not have an architect's original floor plan, take a yard stick or tape measure and measure all your walls the width of your doors and windows, and the height of windows from the floors.

Make a sketch showing all of the necessary dimensions and then sketch in the furniture pieces you plan to use.

If you would like someone to help you, we shall be glad to take these measurements and make this lay-out, for you.

In this way, you are eliminating the guess work and you may then select pieces that will not only fit into your home but will fit perfectly. This is the only sensible and correct way to do a real decorating job in your home. You must know just what will fit into your room and your wall space before buying.

Call 633-2593, or stop in. We'll be glad to help you with no obligation. It's part of our free decorator service. And it's the smart way to decorate.

House Plans You Can Buy

By Hiawatha Estes, AIBD

Here is a home with an informal look and a very practical floor plan. If you start listing the many features of this design, you will probably want to start packing so you can move in right now.

Although there are four bedrooms in this plan, one has been separated from the others, and this offers many advantages. For instance, the separate room could be used as the master bedroom if one desired more privacy as it has direct access to the three-quarter bath. It might be used as a bedroom for an older child or an in-law or as a guest room. Its advantage in being utilized as a TV room, study or office are obvious.

From the wide front entry, one steps into a living room which is far larger and more spacious than expected in a home of this size. The secret lies in the "open" planning which was obtained by using a partial wall to separate the living room from the kitchen hall, no partition between the dining and living areas and the wide expanse of glass in the sliding doors at the rear of the room.

Outdoor living has been carefully planned for privacy by locating the living room and its sliding doors at the rear of the design.

Built-ins have brought about a new look and spirit in today's modern kitchen. Proper use of these built-ins plus good design have considerably reduced the drudgery formerly associated with kitchen chores. Couple these features with a roomy nook and an abundant amount of storage space - note the wide pantry - and you have a dream kitchen which should appeal to the most fastidious housewife.

The three-quarter bath is accessible from the service and rear yard. This eliminates much wear to the house as children playing outdoors will not have to be constantly walking through the house. Both baths have pullman lavatories while the family bath has twin lavatories.

The carefully planned rustic exterior adds much to the overall attractiveness of this distinctive home. Note how the brick veneer on the front wall of the garage continues to tie-in with the brick planter. Also, the interesting garage roof line obtained by the roofing of this planter.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $8.50 for the first set and $5.00 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until January 6, 1965. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. The following home plan books are also available: Hallmark Homes - $1; Homes By Hiawatha - $1; Town & Country Homes - $1; Homes For Living-$1; Distinctive Homes - $1; Ranch & Modern Homes - $2. All books - a $7 value - only $5. Send all orders for either plans or books to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 494-K, Northridge, California.

You Can Be Artist Do-It-Yourself

By URSULA M. S. DADRAS

One of the most successful Sketchbook designs ever presented in the series is "Modern Art," a beautiful, simply-made abstract you can make yourself. You become a do-it-yourself artist. It is presented here by popular request of many readers.

"Modern Art" is so popular because it provided a way to create a striking artistic effect for the living room even though you never had an art lesson in your life. You are the interior decorator making something that is an attractive, eye-catching display for your wall.

The materials required are a few dollars worth of wood, a box of brads, and a couple packages of cotton - covered elastic sewing thread. The photograph at right shows the final result. With only a few hours of work you can duplicate this beautiful abstract geometric design, right down to the last line. It looks complicated, but following the Sketchbook plan even a child could do it.

Actually the black-and-white picture doesn't do it justice. The shadow box edge is jet black, the background dead white. There are three overlaid patterns in the design, two in black and one in red. Long tapered wedges raise two of the three baselines up to 1⅜ inches off the background, so that the shapes are three dimensional.

Size is 30 inches by 40 inches. The Sketchbook plan leaves nothing to chance, placing precisely every brad.

It's fun, quick, inexpensive, and your friends will be positively amazed.

Teenagers Aided By Proper Study Furniture

The proper desk and chair in your teen-ager's room can make a tremendous difference in the way he goes at his homework.

The same ideas used in furnishing study areas in college dormitory rooms can be put to use in a student's room at home, advises a leading maker of furniture for college dormitories, Shelby Williams Industries.

"A desk of his own can be a tremendous psychological boost for the student getting down to the business of homework — which is more important than ever these days. But be sure to select a desk and chair designed for study, not merely for show," points out Manfred Steinfeld, chief executive officer of Shelby Williams.

"They should be roomy enough for comfort — but not massive. Neither the huge executive-size office desk nor the dainty lady's writing table is conducive to study," he says.

Height is the number one consideration. The chair seat should be 17 or 18 inches high, and the desk 29 or 30 inches high.

"A contour chair is important, probably with a certain amount of foam padding," the Shelby Williams executive continues. "Remember — your teenager will be spending a lot of time there."

In making dormitory furniture Shelby Williams has found that the right desk and chair combination has a lot to do with good study habits. "Otherwide they'll try to study sprawled on the floor or slumped in an easy chair — and their teachers have found that they simply can't concentrate as well that way," Steinfeld explains. "There are just too many books and papers and written assignments — and studying calls for the kind of concentration that can be achieved only at a desk."

A student's desk and chair can be in any decorative style, so long as the size and shape are conducive to studying, he concludes.

Tips Offered On Thermostat Placement

Your thermostat may be the "mind" of your home heating stystem, but if it's improperly located, it can make heating "lose its head" in confusion.

The Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau advises that modern thermostats are extremely sensitive and accurate, and must be placed where they can best determine comfort needs.

Basically, the control should never be more than five feet or less than three feet from the floor on an inside wall of the home. For best operation, always avoid placing a thermostat in the following locations:

1. On an outside wall of the home.
2. On an inside wall closer than one stud space to an outside wall
3. Where cold air currents can strike it.
4. In bathrooms, kitchens, hallways.
5. Near television sets or where heat might affect it.
6. On walls near or over a chimney.
7. Where the sun can strike it.
8. On walls exposed to heat on either side from a range, water heater, automatic washer dryer, etc.
9. In concealed spaces such as closets, behind doors, or where there is poor circulation.
10. At the foot of a stairway.

In the hydronically (hot water) heated home, two or more thermostats can be used to control heating "zones." In this way, separate temperature levels may be maintained for different rooms or parts of the home, depending upon the heating requirements for each.

All thermostat installations should be made by an experienced heating contractor. There is a great deal of know-how required in making a correct installation and it is definitely no job for a "do-it-yourselfer."

CABINET DIVIDES PORCH — An unusual divider in this remodeled porch also is a wall-suspended storage cabinet for books, games and other items used in the room. The divider is finished in Masonite Royalcote woodgrain paneling for striking appearance and damp-wipe maintenance. A peg-board panel inside the cabinet increases capacity and utility. Doors of brightly-painted hardboard give easy access from each side. Alongside the suspended cabinet is a vertical closet for additional storage.

Hung Cabinet Can Serve as Room Divider

Take a tip from an old adage in planning your finished family room or remodeled porch: Divide and conquer.

You can divide the room into specific areas and conquer storage problems at the same time with a wall-suspended cabinet that will add a striking decorator touch to the room.

Chances are, you will want to use part of the room for entertaining and part for family activities — a hobby center, for instance, or a study area which doubles as Mom's "business office." The combination divider-cabinet will separate the two areas while at the same time tying them together.

Finished in Masonite Royalcote woodgrain paneling, the unit will combine stylish decor, low costs, and easy maintenance.

It will be up to you to determine the right location for your divider, but just inside the door to the new room is a perfect place in many cases. It is both convenient and eye-catching here.

The suspended cabinet has four doors on each side, so that one side can be used as a bookcase and the other side to store linens, silverware, games, or other smaller items.

The doors, made of hardboard on 1x3-inch wood framing are painted in bright colors to provide an exciting contrast to the dark woodgrained paneling. They are secured with magnetic type latches.

A unique idea which will greatly increase the capacity of the cabinet is the use of a Peg-Board divider in the middle. The wide range of metal and plastic fixtures now available will help eliminate the clutter and confusion found in many storage cabinets.

The factory-finished Royalcote paneling with which the exterior of the cabinet is finished is splinter-free and is easily installed over the framing. Special moldings, matching nails, and colored putty are available to complete a professional-looking job.

One amateur craftsman who built this type of divided-cabinet in a remodeled porch used the suspended cabinet to frame an attractive planter display. The base for the planter was made of white plastic-surfaced hardboard, which has high resistance to wear.

Another feature added in this case was a narrow, vertical closet with a full-length door alongside the suspended unit. The closet is ideal for storing game equipment and other items which won't fit into the cabinet.

The same woodgrained Masonite paneling with which the suspended cabinet and vertical closet were finished was used on the wall surfaces, soffits, and for built-ins in the remodeled porch, creating a unified decorating scheme set off by contrasting doors and other accents.

CEDAR PROTECTS

You don't have to wrap or package clothes or furs stored in closets lined with aromatic red cedar, the moth-repellent wood that can be put in any ordinary closet. Aromatic red cedar closet lining generally offers ample protection against moths if closet doors are kept tightly closed between uses.

GOOD WEEKEND JOB

Lining a closet with cedar is a good weekend project for the home handyman. It does not require tearing down old walls or plaster. Cedar closet lining is applied over any existing wall surface. Start at the bottom and work up. Do one wall at a time. Nail into the studs. No finishing is needed, since paint or varnish would seal in the wood's moth-repellent fragrance.

Teenagers Aided By Proper Study Furniture

The proper desk and chair in your teen-ager's room can make a tremendous difference in the way he goes at his homework.

The same ideas used in furnishing study areas in college dormitory rooms can be put to use in a student's room at home, advises a leading maker of furniture for college dormitories, Shelby Williams Industries.

"A desk of his own can be a tremendous psychological boost for the student getting down to the business of homework — which is more important than ever thse days. But be sure to select a desk and chair designed for study, not merely for show," points out Manfred Steinfeld, chief executive officer of Shelby Williams.

"They should be roomy enough for comfort — but not massive. Neither the huge executive-size office desk nor the dainty lady's writing table is conducive to study," he says.

Height is the number one consideration. The chair seat should be 17 or 18 inches high, and the desk 29 or 30 inches high.

"A contour chair is important, probably with a certain amount of foam padding," the Shelby Williams executive continues. "Rember — your teenager will be spending a lot of time there."

In making dormitory furniture Shelby Williams has found that the right desk and chair combination has a lot to do with good study habits. "Otherwide they'll try to study sprawled on the floor or slumped in an easy chair — and their teachers have found that they simply can't concentrate as well that way," Steinfeld explains. "There are just too many books and papers and written assignments — and studying calls for the kind of concentration that can be achieved only at a desk."

A student's desk and chair can be in any decorative style, so long as the size and shape are conducive to studying, he concludes.

Tips Offered On Thermostat Placement

Your thermostat may be the "mind" of your home heating system, but if it's improperly located, it can make heating "lose its head" in confusion.

The Plumbing - Heating - Cooling Information Bureau advises that modern thermostats are extremely sensitive and accurate, and must be placed where they can best determine comfort needs.

Basically, the control should never be more than five feet or less than three feet from the floor on an inside wall of the home. For best operation, always avoid placing a thermostat in the following locations:

1. On an outside wall of the home.
2. On an inside wall closer than one stud space to an outside wall
3. Where cold air currents can strike it.
4. In bathrooms, kitchens, hallways.
5. Near television sets or where heat might affect it.
6. On walls near or over a chimney.
7. Where the sun can strike it.
8. On walls exposed to heat on either side from a range, water heater, automatic washer dryer, etc.
9. In concealed spaces such as closets, behind doors, or where there is poor circulation.
10. At the foot of a stairway.

In the hydronically (hot water) heated home, two or more thermostats can be used to control heating "zones." In this way, separate temperature levels may be maintained for different rooms or parts of the home, depending upon the heating requirements for each.

All thermostat installations should be made by an experienced heating contractor. There is a great deal of know-how required in making a correct installation and it is definitely no job for a "do-it-yourselfer."

CABINET DIVIDES PORCH — An unusual divider in this remodeled porch also is a wall-suspended storage cabinet for books, games and other items used in the room. The divider is finished in Masonite Royalcote woodgrain paneling for striking appearance and damp-wipe maintenance. A peg-board panel inside the cabinet increases capacity and utility. Doors of brightly-painted hardboard give easy access from each side. Alongside the suspended cabinet is a vertical closet for additional storage.

Hung Cabinet Can Serve as Room Divider

Take a tip from an old adage in planning your finished family room or remodeled porch: Divide and conquer.

You can divide the room into specific areas and conquer storage problems at the same time with a wall-suspended cabinet that will add a striking decorator touch to the room.

Chances are, you will want to use part of the room for entertaining and part for family activities — a hobby center, for instance, or a study area which doubles as Mom's "business office." The combination divider-cabinet will separate the two areas while at the same time tying them together.

Finished in Masonite Royalcote woodgrain paneling, the unit will combine stylish decor, low costs, and easy maintenance.

It will be up to you to determine the right location for your divider, but just inside the door to the new room is a perfect place in many cases. It is both convenient and eye-catching here.

The suspended cabinet has four doors on each side, so that one side can be used as a bookcase and the other side to store linens, silverware, games, or other smaller items.

The doors, made of hardboard on 1x3-inch wood framing are painted in bright colors to provide an exciting contrast to the dark woodgrained paneling. They are secured with magnetic type latches.

A unique idea which will greatly increase the capacity of the cabinet is the use of a Peg-Board divider in the middle. The wide range of metal and plastic fixtures now available will help eliminate the clutter and confusion found in many storage cabinets.

The factory-finished Royalcote paneling with which the exterior of the cabinet is finished is splinter-free and is easily installed over the framing. Special moldings, matching nails, and colored putty are available to complete a professional-looking job.

One amateur craftsman who built this type of divided-cabinet in a remodeled porch used the suspended cabinet to frame an attractive planter display. The base for the planter was made of white plastic-surfaced hardboard, which has high resistance to wear.

Another feature added in this case was a narrow, vertical closet with a full-length door alongside the suspended unit. The closet is ideal for storing game equipment and other items which won't fit into the cabinet.

The same woodgrained Masonite paneling with which the suspended cabinet and vertical closet were finished was used on the wall surfaces, soffits, and for built-ins in the remodeled porch, creating a unified decorating scheme set off by contrasting doors and other accents.

CEDAR PROTECTS

You don't have to wrap or package clothes or furs stored in closets lined with aromatic red cedar, the moth-repellent wood that can be put in any ordinary closet. Aromatic red cedar closet lining generally offers ample protection against moths if closet doors are kept tightly closed between uses.

GOOD WEEKEND JOB

Lining a closet with cedar is a good weekend project for the home handyman. It does not require tearing down old walls or plaster. Cedar closet lining is applied over any existing wall surface. Start at the bottom and work up. Do one wall at a time. Nail into the studs. No finishing is needed, since paint or varnish would seal in the wood's moth-repellent fragrance.

HANDY CONVENIENCE

A basement washroom is a potular addition to any home. Its admirers include the home hobbyist, the man with the workshop, home gardeners and backyard swimmers.

Answer to Laura Obert

It would be difficult to find a letter more passionately worded and more wholly in error than the one we are publishing today from the pen of Laura Obert.

Miss Obert is eagerly awaiting the "Great Society" in which all men will be regulated and controlled, all goodies provided, and a benevolent state will control everyone for their own "good." This is the "Great Society" which was attempted by the Soviet Union in 1917 and has since been emulated by Mao's China, and in a minor way by Castro in Cuba.

But Miss Obert's basic error is in supposing that men who want to be free are seeking to turn the clock back. Now, we will not debate the fact that some people may be seeking to turn back the clock. Indeed, we will contend this is precisely what Miss Obert is trying to do. She has in mind the controlled society of Sparta under Lycurgus, or the total regime of Germany under Hitler. This is what she wants for the United States. We trust she will fall short of her objective.

The dichotomy of her view is shown in her revelation that men in a primitive condition were not free. She is correct here. They certainly were not free. They were bowed beneath the weight of tribal superstition and taboo. And as they began to throw off the weight of the witch doctor and the shaman, they all too eagerly accepted the political burden of the warrior chief and his military organization, which evolved finally into modern governments.

But the place where Miss Obert reveals an enormous innocence is in her understanding of economic affairs. As she sees it, all advances have come from the enlargement of government. This is precisely in error. All advances have come from men outside of government who have been free enough to produce in spite of what the government could and would do to them.

Government is nothing more than the very condition she professes to see in the market place. Government is strong, and it wrests the property of the producers from them and appropriates it for itself and for the non-producers. This does not create progress. And it is because we believe in progress that we must refute her position as best we may.

Government is force and violence. Production is not. And Rome was great because it first relied upon producers and on trade. When the government began to provide police protection, the police finally became the army and the army devoured the substance of the producers and even the substance of producers in other nations.

The government did not provide the water, although it did build aqueducts. And the tribute it collected to pay for the aqueducts and the other grand roads and buildings finally wrecked the nation. But Rome did have "free" government schools. Fire protection was voluntary. Social security did exist and, after Diocletian, assisted in demolishing what was left of the economy.

The first postal systems in this country were inexpensive. They were also private. Government could not stand the competition and passed a law to make it a criminal act for a private businessman to carry a first-class letter for a fee. Since then, our postal system has become the most costly and one of the least efficient in the world.

As for government schools, the only nations which have insisted entirely on government in the education business have been those under dictators. Wherever some freedom remains, there some means of educating privately remains.

Apparently Miss Obert believes that the government can prevent panics and business cycles. Well, the government got into the business of preventing panics and depressions back in 1913 when it enacted the Federal Reserve Act. We call to her attention the fact that the most serious depression we have ever experienced occurred in the 1930's AFTER the government began to meddle in money and credit under the Federal Reserve Act. If government could prevent depressions, that would have been a good time to demonstrate the ability.

The fact is that the market was so seriously injured by government intervention that the government took us into a war to regain our economic equilibrium. This did not cure the problem. In fact, at this moment we are precariously poised over an abyss due to the outflowing of our gold reserves, under government direction and management.

The Pitch

The fellow who insists on playing ball with you is really looking for a catcher.

The Great Society

We are continuing here with our answer to Laura Obert. Her letter appears elsewhere on this page.

Miss Obert is apparently wholly uninformed of economic matters. She imagines that business and industry create monopoly which injures people by compelling them to pay high prices. She further imagines that government prevents this from happening.

The government is a monopoly of force and deals entirely in monopolies and in special privileges. However, fortunately for us, the market place in which economic rules obtain, prevents monopolies.

The only reason any firm is patronized by anyone is because it offers to sell goods or services at a price people will willingly pay. If it charges too high a price, people refuse to buy. And the reason today that prices are as high as they are (prices are high in large measure from our taxing program by government which compels manufacturers and merchants to charge more than what a product is worth. In the market place, customers set the prices. They set them by refusing to pay more than they wish to pay for anything. Thus, if a manufacturer charges a product at a high price and finds that another manufacturer is willing to produce the same product at a lower price, the first manufacturer must lower his price or lose his customers.

The pricing process in the market regulates the market by making the customer king. The customer regulates the market by patronizing what he wishes to patronize and withholding his patronage where he pleases.

Every since the government began to intervene in the pricing area, if Miss Obert will examine the facts, prices have been going up and up and up. This is not because government protects us from monopolies; it is because government induces monopolies. And what is called a monopoly price can only exist where government passes laws to compel that price. An example of this is the post office, where the government prevents competition by law.

We believe that a Great Society can be built. But we deny that it can be built on a program of universal aggression against producers. Theft is not a solid procedure to be used to build a lasting society. And our government operates on the universal concept of grand theft, "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need." That slogan, if Miss Obert will check, was written by Karl Marx and provides the basic core of communist theory.

Now, if Miss Obert will take a close look at American history she will discover that we began our prosperity, and with the Constitution, the most pro- that no government, regardless of its form, could rightfully remove those rights from us. Indeed, the Declaration went so far as to state that men not only have a right to hold their government in check, they have a duty to do so.

The concept of "civil" rights is a corruption of the concept enunciated in the Declaration. There it is revealed that all men have certain unalienable rights which proceed from the Creator or nature, and are not and cannot be added to or subtracted from. Thus, government cannot enact rights, nor can it rightfully remove them.

All rights relate to what we own. Every natural right is a right of people to acquire property honestly and to manage what they acquire. Life itself is a property, and so is liberty. These are very precious properties and they derive from natural law and not from governmentally enacted legislation.

The Great Society is not an aggressively governed society. It is a society of self-regulation and self-control. As Thomas Paine was to point out: "All the great laws of society are the laws of nature." And these laws hold society in check with far greater wisdom and far greater efficiency than any law the government may impose or interpose.

Miss Obert's problem is that she is out of step with the times. She is seeking to bring back to the United States the worst ideas of total government which were discarded centuries before but have been re-vamped by socialists and communists in Russia, China and elsewhere.

To have a Great Society is to have a great people. And greatness in people arises when they govern themselves individually, not when they place themselves under the domination of an organized body of men who plunder producers so they may divide what they have not produced.

THE TIME TURNERS

To the Editor:

For ages men have wanted to invent a time machine to turn the clock back for various reasons. Today we are confronted by a group of people who want to turn the clock back for political reasons. This small group of people is a serious threat to our society and the hopes of those who would benefit from progress forward. All men would benefit from progress forward. This group of time turners, no matter what they claim, want to reverse the course of progress.

Parts of this group of people can be classed according to how far back they want to go.

One group would like to go back to the stone age and earlier. This part of the time turners group claims that all government is evil. They are total anarchists. They claim that freedom is what they are after. With complete freedom from government, would man really be free? Was the stone age man free? Of course, he had no laws, taxes or government to hamper him, but he substituted one master for another. Instead of being ruled by a just government, composed of the strength of many, in which he had a say, he fell prey to other masters. The strong took advantage and ruled the weak pretty much as they pleased. If the oppressed had combined their strength, they could have stopped the few strong tyrants, but they could not because there was no system to bind them together. Also, each man fell a victim to the natural disasters and diseases of nature because there was no group system to combine the little strength each had to make the great strength of a group to overcome these hardships. What person would want to go back to then? What person would want to live in a society where there was no government? A few want this. Do you?

Then there are those who believe that a government should take on only the slightest responsibilities such as a police force and water supply. It was somewhat like this in ancient Rome. In this society citizens were provided with police protection, water and other services. They paid few taxes, but what did they get? They received no free, public schools, no inexpensive postal service, no fire protection, and no social security, to name just a few things that they lacked. Sure, we pay more taxes, but look at what we get.

The third group of time turners would like to go back about 100 years. By then men had established public schools (although they weren't nearly as adequate as they are now), more adequate police protection, fire protection, an inexpensive postal service, and many improvements over ancient Rome. We had surely gained a lot and we paid low taxes. What didn't we have? We had no controls on our economy to prevent hardship bringing panics and depressions, no laws to prevent dishonest companies from building monopolies and charging high prices, a far less adequate public school system, no social security, and nobody to see that suppressed minority groups got their just civil rights. Who can say that men were better off then? Although they had lower taxes and fewer government controls, they had other masters such as old age without an insured pension to live on, business monopolies that charged what prices they wanted to, and panics and depressions that left so many jobless. Who can say that these masters are better than more taxes and a few more government controls? Some do.

Today this group of time turners threatens to gain control of our country. I ask you, are we going to blow out the candle of hope for so many people who would benefit from the Great Society? Are we going to undo all the progress that has been made in the last 30 years? Are we going to do this in hopes of fewer government controls and lower taxes? Ask this of yourself.

Those who say that the Great Society can't be built should look at what we have done. We have come from a society where men were savages to our present state. We can eliminate poverty. We can insure civil rights for all. We can build the Great Society. We can do all this if we elect the right leaders and lawmakers to govern.

This is the choice facing us today. And we cannot fail to make the right choice for the sake of mankind. We can't afford to go backward.

LOTS TO LEARN

To the Editor:

I am nine years old and I have a lot to learn, but I have a better chance now as I am going to private school this year.

We are reading "Youth on a Pendulum." First Mom reads a little, then Ann reads, and then I read. Then we talk about it.

Have you heard of UNESCO? Five out of seven members are Russian communists and they write some of the books for public schools.

FLAG USAGE

To the Editor:

I note that the local headquarters of the Republican Party, whose candidate for President frequently remarks upon his own undoubted patriotism, is today displaying the United States flag incorrectly. Perhaps a passing Boy Scout could be induced to instruct the local party in proper flag usage.

POETIC VIRTUE

Behold in me a villain and a crook,
A boastful liar and a cheerful cheat,
Whose morals aren't according to the book,
Whose waywardness would be quite hard to beat.
A strutting, stocky, sawed-off simpleton,
A chiseler and a cad of low degree.
A sinner; yet, despite the wrongs I've done,
Two claims to virtue still abide with me.

The muse of verse, whom I have wooed so long,
Knows I have kept my writing honor bright.
To poets' ethics I have done no wrong,
My main endeavor's been to keep them right:
I never wrote a filthy, obscene line,
Nor claimed a bit of verse that was not mine.

THE NEW GOLD RUSH

Maybe I am old fashioned, but I was born 50 years too soon to enjoy smutty stories in a mixed company. Profane and obscene words on lovely feminine lips still shock my sensibilities. I am no shining moral light, but I believe there are some aspects of human behavior that are better left unsung. We all sometimes have obscene thoughts in the dark recesses of our minds but, until lately, we kept them there.

Nowadays, our literary lights drag these thoughts forth in lewd words and sell them to magazines. They write luridly of indiscretions, immoralities and debasements. They boast of irregularities and perversions. Critics praise their filth as art and it is offered to the public by all the book clubs in the form of "best sellers." And the public laps it up. But there's the crux of the whole problem of "trashy" literature. WHY does the public go for it? If the public didn't buy it, it wouldn't be produced in such huge quantities.

The old story of the "Farmer's Daughter," that used to be told behind the barn door in two or three sentences, is now a book-length novel on sale in the "better places." The same plot has been used by a thousand writers in the past few years. The rush for the new "pay dirt" equals the gold rushes of the last century. The printing presses are working overtime flooding the country with the trashiest literature ever published. And for those who can't read, there are plenty of magazines that "say it with pictures."

It seems that the way to become a famous novelist in these times is to be a sexual pervert and brag about it. Anybody who is trying to break into print nowadays is advised to "make it sexy, the sexier the better."

I do not believe the younger generation is going to the dogs, I believe the older one has already gone there. I look to the youngsters to lead us back to a saner way of living. Students of history assure us that morals run in cycles comparable to the swinging of a great pendulum, going to extremes at either end, being either "too good" or "too naughty," with a few generations of sensible happy medium in the middle of the swing. Let us hope that we start back toward the middle during the coming generation. We must surely have reached an extreme in this one.

After having been promised "a choice, not an echo," we are being forced to listen to two echoes as the two candidates for the presidency try to out echo each other. Johnson is me-tooing Goldwater and Goldwater, that paragon of conservatism, is me-tooing Johnson. As the one or the right marches swiftly leftward, the one on the left is marching to the right. Will the campaign close by Johnson being the top conservative and Goldwater being the head liberal? Are they both walking backwards so we won't notice that they have faced and are going the wrong way? And will bets be placed on what point on the campaign trail they will pass each other?

Goldwater was nominated by the conservatives in his party. He may conceivably have been elected if he had stayed on their side. In going all out to solicit the liberal vote, he is apt to lose most of his conservative support. This will leave him way out on a limb because the liberals are all going to vote for Johnson, anyhow. They know where he stands, regardless of the pose he takes. Goldwater is echoing himself out of the race.

A Tough Way to Go

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

In connection with the rising interest in private education, correspondents have asked a good many questions which I will try to answer in this column. The fact that each of the questioners asked, "What would you do?" limits me to purely personal opinion and I would not, at this late date, ask or beg or fight government for special privilege.

The first questioner asked if I would go the corporate route in trying to raise funds for the operation of a private school and my answer is NO! In forming a corporation in accordance with existing conditions, a corporate structure places its books and business dealings under control of state corporation commissioners or other state officials, in exchange for certain special privileges including limited financial responsibility. Since I would not involve myself in this situation which includes asking government for a special privilege, I would also not involve myself in other corporate formations such as the non-profit or not for profit set-ups, but I do not feel that the corporation for profit set-up is any more or less moral than the corporation not for profit.

It should be obvious, by this time, that I would not personally seek any kind of accreditation from government. Now, if a parent wished to send a child to me for tutoring, while complying with the compulsory attendance laws, this should make no difference to an intelligent person. Outside of the age limits involved in compulsory attendance laws, control by government is greatly reduced unless parents require accreditation by government, in which case I would not personally be involved.

If sufficient interest is shown, we will concern ourselves with certain types of educational work throughout the winter in Colorado and probably [illegible] the early part of spring and we will [illegible] of a limited place of [illegible]. We have way to operate as a non-profit body [illegible] is being entirely [illegible] energy is better with [illegible] are [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Answer to Laura Obert

It would be difficult to find a letter more passionately worded and more wholly in error than the one we are publishing today from the pen of Laura Obert.

Miss Obert is eagerly awaiting the "Great Society" in which all men will be regulated and controlled, all goodies provided, and a benevolent state will control everyone for their own "good." This is the "Great Society" which was attempted by the Soviet Union in 1917 and has since been emulated by Mao's China, and in a minor way by Castro in Cuba.

But Miss Obert's basic error is in supposing that men who want to be free are seeking to turn the clock back. Now, we will not debate the fact that some people may be seeking to turn back the clock. Indeed, we will contend this is precisely what Miss Obert is trying to do. She has in mind the controlled society of Sparta under Lycurgus, or the total regime of Germany under Hitler. This is what she wants for the United States. We trust she will fall short of her objective.

The dichotomy of her view is shown in her revelation that men in a primitive condition were not free. She is correct here. They certainly were not free. They were bowed beneath the weight of tribal superstition and taboo. And as they began to throw off the weight of the witch doctor and the shaman, they all too eagerly accepted the political burden of the warrior chief and his military organization, which evolved finally into modern governments.

But the place where Miss Obert reveals an enormous innocence is in her understanding of economic affairs. As she sees it, all advances have come from the enlargement of government. This is precisely in error. All advances have come from men outside of government who have been free enough to produce in spite of what the government could and would do to them.

Government is nothing more than the very condition she professes to see in the market place. Government is strong, and it wrests the property of the producers from them and appropriates it for itself and for the non-producers. This does not create progress. And it is because we believe in progress that we must refute her position as best we may.

Government is force and violence. Production is not. And Rome was great because it first relied upon producers and on trade. When the government began to provide police protection, the police finally became the army and the army devoured the substance of the producers and even the substance of producers in other nations.

The government did not provide the water, although it did build aqueducts. And the tribute it collected to pay for the aqueducts and the other grand roads and buildings finally wrecked the nation. But Rome did have "free" government schools. Fire protection was voluntary. Social security did exist and, after Diocletian, assisted in demolishing what was left of the economy.

The first postal systems in this country were inexpensive. They were also private. Government could not stand the competition and passed a law to make it a criminal act for a private businessman to carry a first-class letter for a fee. Since then, our postal system has become the most costly and one of the least efficient in the world.

As for government schools, the only nations which have insisted entirely on government in the education business have been those under dictators. Wherever some freedom remains, there some means of educating privately remains.

Apparently Miss Obert believes that the government can prevent panics and business cycles. Well, the government got into the business of preventing panics and depressions back in 1913 when it enacted the Federal Reserve Act. We call to her attention the fact that the most serious depression we have ever experienced occurred in the 1930's AFTER the government began to meddle in money and credit under the Federal Reserve Act. If government could prevent depressions, that would have been a good time to demonstrate the ability.

The fact is that the market was so seriously injured by government intervention that the government took us into a war to regain our economic equilibrium. This did not cure the problem. In fact, at this moment we are precariously poised over an abyss due to the outflowing of our gold reserves, under government direction and management.

THE TIME TURNERS

To the Editor:

For ages men have wanted to invent a time machine to turn the clock back for various reasons. Today we are confronted by a group of people who want to turn the clock back for political reasons. This small group of people is a serious threat to our society and the hopes of those who would benefit from progress forward. All men would benefit from progress forward. This group of time turners, no matter what they claim, want to reverse the course of progress.

Parts of this group of people can be classed according to how far back they want to go.

One group would like to go back to the stone age and earlier. This part of the time turners group claims that all government is evil. They are total anarchists. They claim that freedom is what they are after. With complete freedom from government, would man really be free? Was the stone age man free? Of course, he had no laws, taxes or government to hamper him, but he substituted one master for another. Instead of being ruled by a just government, composed of the strength of many, in which he had a say, he fell prey to other masters. The strong took advantage and ruled the weak pretty much as they pleased. If the oppressed had combined their strength, they could have stopped the few strong tyrants, but they could not because there was no system to bind them together. Also, each man fell a victim to the natural disasters and diseases of nature because there was no group system to combine the little strength each had to make the great strength of a group to overcome these hardships. What person would want to go back to then? What person would want to live in a society where there was no government? A few want this. Do you?

Then there are those who believe that a government should take on only the slightest responsibilities such as a police force and water supply. It was somewhat like this in ancient Rome. In this society citizens were provided with police protection, water and other services. They paid few taxes, but what did they get? They received no free, public schools, no inexpensive postal service, no fire protection, and no social security, to name just a few things that they lacked. Sure, we pay more taxes, but look at what we get.

The third group of time turners would like to go back about 100 years. By then men had established public schools (although they weren't nearly as adequate as they are now), more adequate police protection, fire protection, an inexpensive postal service, and many improvements over ancient Rome. We had surely gained a lot and we paid low taxes. What didn't we have? We had no controls on our economy to prevent hardship bringing panics and depressions, no laws to prevent dishonest companies from building monopolies and charging high prices, a far less adequate public school system, no social security, and nobody to see that suppressed minority groups got their just civil rights. Who can say that men were better off then? Although they had lower taxes and fewer government controls, they had other masters such as old age without an insured pension to live on, business monopolies that charged what prices they wanted to, and panics and depressions that left so many jobless. Who can say that these masters are better than more taxes and a few more government controls? Some do.

Today this group of time turners threatens to gain control of our country. I ask you, are we going to blow out the candle of hope for so many people who would benefit from the Great Society? Are we going to undo all the progress that has been made in the last 30 years? Are we going to do this in hopes of fewer government controls and lower taxes? Ask this of yourself.

Those who say that the Great Society can't be built should look at what we have done. We have come from a society where men were savages to our present state. We can eliminate poverty. We can insure civil rights for all. We can build the Great Society. We can do all this if we elect the right leaders and lawmakers to govern.

This is the choice facing us today. And we cannot fail to make the right choice for the sake of mankind. We can't afford to go backward.

LOTS TO LEARN

To the Editor:

I am nine years old and I have a lot to learn, but I have a better chance now as I am going to private school this year.

We are reading "Youth on a Pendulum." First Mom reads a little, then Ann reads, and then I read. Then we talk about it.

Have you heard of UNESCO? Five out of seven members are Russian communists and they write some of the books for public schools.

FLAG USAGE

To the Editor:

I note that the local headquarters of the Republican Party, whose candidate for President frequently remarks upon his own undoubted patriotism, is today displaying the United States flag incorrectly. Perhaps a passing Boy Scout could be induced to instruct the local party in proper flag usage.

Rhyme and Reason

By RUFUS L. PORTER

POETIC VIRTUE

Behold in me a villain and a crook,
A boastful liar and a cheerful cheat,
Whose morals aren't according to the book,
Whose waywardness would be quite hard to beat.
A strutting, stocky, sawed-off simpleton,
A chiseler and a cad of low degree.
A sinner; yet, despite the wrongs I've done,
Two claims to virtue still abide with me.

The muse of verse, whom I have wooed so long,
Knows I have kept my writing honor bright.
To poets' ethics I have done no wrong,
My main endeavor's been to keep them right:
I never wrote a filthy, obscene line,

THE NEW GOLD RUSH

Maybe I am old fashioned, but I was born 50 years too soon to enjoy smutty stories in a mixed company. Profane and obscene words on lovely feminine lips still shock my sensibilities. I am no shining moral light, but I believe there are some aspects of human behavior that are better left unsung. We all sometimes have obscene thoughts in the dark recesses of our minds but, until lately, we kept them there.

Nowadays, our literary lights drag these thoughts forth in lewd words and sell them to magazines. They write luridly of indiscretions, immoralities and debasements. They boast of irregularities and perversions. Critics praise their filth as art and it is offered to the public by all the book clubs in the form of "best sellers." And the public laps it up. But there's the crux of the whole problem of "trashy" literature. WHY does the public go for it? If the public didn't buy it, it wouldn't be produced in such huge quantities.

The old story of the "Farmer's Daughter," that used to be told behind the barn door in two or three sentences, is now a book-length novel on sale in the "better places." The same plot has been used by a thousand writers in the past few years. The rush for the new "pay dirt" equals the gold rushes of the last century. The printing presses are working overtime flooding the country with the trashiest literature ever published. And for those who can't read, there are plenty of magazines that "say it with pictures."

It seems that the way to become a famous novelist in these times is to be a sexual pervert and brag about it. Anybody who is trying to break into print nowadays is advised to "make it sexy, the sexier the better."

I do not believe the younger generation is going to the dogs, I believe the older one has already gone there. I look to the youngsters to lead us back to a saner way of living. Students of history assure us that morals run in cycles comparable to the swinging of a great pendulum, going to extremes at either end, being either "too good" or "too naughty," with a few generations of sensible happy medium in the middle of the swing. Let us hope that we start back toward the middle during the coming generation. We must surely have reached an extreme in this one.

After having been promised "a choice, not an echo," we are being forced to listen to two echoes as the two candidates for the presidency try to out echo each other. Johnson is me-tooing Goldwater and Goldwater, that paragon of conservatism, is me-tooing Johnson. As the one on the right marches swiftly leftward, the one on the left is marching to the right. Will the campaign close by Johnson being the top conservative and Goldwater being the head liberal? Are they both walking backwards so we won't notice that they have faced and are going the wrong way? And will bets be placed on what point on the campaign trail they will pass each other?

Goldwater was nominated by the conservatives in his party. He may conceivably have been elected if he had stayed on their side. In going all out to solicit the liberal vote, he is apt to lose most of his conservative support. This will leave him way out on a limb because the liberals are all going to vote for Johnson, anyhow. They know where he stands, regardless of the pose he takes. Goldwater is echoing himself out of the race.

A Tough Way to Go

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

In connection with the rising interest in private education, correspondents have asked a good many questions which I will try to answer in this column. The fact that each of the questioners asked, "What would you do?" limits me to purely personal opinion and I would not, at this late date, ask or beg or fight government for special privilege.

The first questioner asked if I would go the corporate route in trying to raise funds for the operation of a private school and my answer is NO! In forming a corporation in accordance with existing conditions, a corporate structure places its books and business dealings under control of state corporation commissioners or other state officials, in exchange for certain special privileges including limited financial responsibility. Since I would not involve myself in this situation which includes asking government for a special privilege, I would also not involve myself in other corporate formations such as the non-profit or not for profit set-ups, but I do not feel that the corporation for profit set-up is any more or less moral than the corporation not for profit.

It should be obvious, by this time, that I would not personally seek any kind of accreditation from government. Now, if a parent wished to send a child to me for tutoring, while complying with the compulsory attendance laws, this should make no difference to an intelligent person. Outside of the age limits involved in compulsory attendance laws, control by government is greatly reduced unless parents require accreditation by government, in which case I would not personally be involved.

If sufficient interest is shown, we will concern outselves with certain types of educational work throughout the winter in Chloride and probably into the early part of spring and we will either go all the way with my ideas of a market place operation or forget the whole thing. We know how to operate on an independent basis right down to being entirely willing to engage in barter with students who have something to exchange for tuition and board and room.

Since no good purpose would be served if I became personally involved in activities which denied my previously stated principles and ideas, compromise would only lead to more compromise and subservience to government control. Plenty of others are following that direction now.

Several inquirers seem to be most disturbed by the problem of trying to find teachers who can do a good job, outside of the area of government accreditation. I see no problem, here. From time to time I have been in a position to employ people in a wide variety of activities and I have not concerned myself with anything so basically childish as accreditation by government. Naturally, I would enter into contractual agreements and completely avoid the traditional employee-employer relationship which brings government controls into the picture and I do not see that the independent contractor relationship creates any special problems.

Since we will be so specifically involved with our own problems by October 15, it will not be economically feasible for us to spend time to discuss problems with which we are not directly concerned except on a consulting basis and we will be as interested in fees involving barter as in any other medium of exchange. In the market place, time is a commodity and mine will be for sale.

This is a good time to remind anybody going into new ventures that a strict adherence to market place principles is no guarantee of success even in a condition of freedom. Under the presently unpleasant conditions with government at every level the avowed plunderer and interventionist in private business and private lives, the difficulties are multiplied.

From an optimistic point of view, I believe more and more bright people will be looking for educational opportunities not available within the dull and rigid structure of the socialist school system and I believe there are also opportunities to get into the educational market place for profit on a highly individualistic basis.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

These Days

30 Years of Simple Answers

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A bracketed pair of issues in the current political campaign seems to be oversimplification versus undersimplification. One side is saying that we live in a complex age and there are no easy choices. The other side is saying that every man has to say yes or no to basic questions.

So there's plenty of commotion and much rhetoric. But I would like to argue that ever since the nineteen thirties we have had only the easiest of answers. It is spelled out in one word, money.

Take, for instance, this problem of dealing with urban blight in our cities. The easy answer is to provide federal money to send in the bulldozers. Private property is seized for a low fee, cleared, and handed over to developers who turn it into housing projects, new business centers, and what not.

Effective enough, you might say. But the side effects are frequently very strange. The simple answer, money, leads to some extremely complicated conditions. Poor people find they have been bulldozed out of rookeries and cannot afford to move into the new apartment houses. They go and create a new congestion elsewhere. A downtown area will be razed for a new business center, and small displaced merchants will suddenly discover they can't compete with the big chain organizations for space in the new development area.

Other small merchants, trying to carry on their trade in the side streets for an interim period of, say, five years while the new center is being built, will find they have no customers. Who wants to come downtown to a city whose center has become a series of holes in the ground? The small side street merchants, waiting for the holes to be filled up, can't stand month after month of red ink, so they quit and go elsewhere, and many an old family business disappears forever. Big businesses which can afford a period of waiting take over.

To take another example where the easy answer of federally donated money will not suffice, let's look at education. To hear the Washington politicians talk, education is a matter of providing money for buildings, money for teachers' colleges, money for research. True enough, there is one man in Washington, Admiral Hyman Rickover, who says the trouble with modern education is not lack of buildings or teachers but lack of content and quality. For a generation now we have been turning out high school graduates who can not read a complex sentence and who don't know to look things up in an index. Money isn't the answer to this problem of so-called functional illiteracy. The basic question involved is one of education philosophy, which would cost very little in money terms to change.

The answer to the farm problem for the past thirty years has been the simple one of providing money to pay for the money-created crop surplus. Of course this simple answer leads to a complex chain of events. Cotton is subsidized, which raises the price. So the exporter of cotton must be subsidized in turn, and the domestic manufacturer of cotton shirts must receive some help because his raw material comes higher than it does to manufacturers in foreign lands.

The problem of providing medicare for old people is another one that is apparently going to evoke the simple answer of money. Tack it on to social security, say the federal politicos, yes, then the young couples who are trying to live on the take-home pay that is left out of a four or five thousand a year income will bear the full impact of the cost of medicare. And many of them will necessarily sacrifice their own old age insurance policies to do so. Money only stretches so far.

I'm tired of the simple answers we have been getting for thirty years. I would like a different type of simple answer from here on in.

It's Up to You

Forced Wage Increases

By H. E. KERSHNER, L.H.D.

Labor unions are making a serious mistake in refusing to limit their demands for wage fringe benefits within the limit of increasing manhour productivity.

If organized labor demands and gets wage increases exceeding the increase in productive efficiency, prices will inevitably be driven higher. That will mean that we shall lose more markets both at home and abroad with resulting increased unemployment. If we do not remain competitive, we shall most certainly lose our markets.

Manhour output has been increasing at the rate of about 3.2 per cent per year for the last five years. If wage costs, including fringe benefits, are pushed above this safety limit, price rises and further inflation with loss of markets and increased difficulties are sure to follow.

Moreover, it should be remembered that because the amount of capital required to carry on our industries increases rapidly from year to year that a part of the benefits accruing from increased efficiency must be used to reward the savers who have supplied this extra capital. If they receive no increase while labor gets it all, capital will become scarce for no one is willing to save without some hope of reward.

Of course, labor points to unprecedented profits, but in this connection it should be pointed out that twice as much capital is necessary today as was required ten years ago. Nevertheless, earnings have increased only about 33 per cent during the past ten years, while labor costs have gone up approximately twice as fast.

Labor sometimes points to large salaries paid to executives. It should be remembered, however, that executives make no organized demand and that there is no coercion in the amounts they receive. There are comparatively few men capable of carrying the heavy responsibilities discharged by the executives of large industries. Those who want the services of these men must compete for them in the market. Not one of them can force any company to pay him more than it is ready to offer for his services.

If unions insist on salaries in excess of the increase in productive efficiency, they will most certainly bring upon us government intervention in the matter of wage and price fixing. But when we have wage and price fixing by government, we will have a completely government - managed economy which will involve government direction of both capital and labor. In other words, our freedom will have disappeared, and we will all be the servants of the state, doing what the state requires and receiving in pay what it chooses to give us.

Our choice is between the free market on the one hand with demand and supply regulating both wages and prices, or a government - directed economy and servitude on the other. For a time there is a twilight zone as we resort little by little to more and more government intervention, but this will soon run its course and complete government direction will prove to be the end result. Right now we are traversing that twilight zone and have the choice of turning back to freedom or going on to authoritarian government. No one can tell how long we shall have that choice but we may pass the point of no return far sooner than we realize. The danger is that when we do realize it, it will be too late. The only safe policy is to reject socialism, welfare statism and government - managed economy now and recover as rapidly as possible our formerly free economy with increased dependence on self-reliance, initiative, integrity, and hard work.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—To what family do love birds belong?

A—Love birds are really small parrots found in South America and Africa.

Q—Who first announced the theory that the earth is round?

A—Pythagoras, whose theory was accepted and taught by Aristotle.

Q—How often does a person move in his sleep?

A—About once in seven or eight minutes.

The Great Society

We are continuing here with our answer to Laura Obert. Her letter appears elsewhere on this page.

Miss Obert is apparently wholly uninformed of economic matters. She imagines that business and industry create monopoly which injures people by compelling them to pay high prices. She further imagines that government prevents this from happening.

The government is a monopoly of force and deals entirely in monopolies and in special privileges. However, fortunately for us, the market place in which economic rules obtain, prevents monopolies.

The only reason any firm is patronized by anyone is because it offers to sell goods or services at a price people will willingly pay. If it charges too high a price, people refuse to buy. And the reason today that prices are as high as they are derives in large measure from our taxing program by government which compels manufacturers and merchants to charge twice what a product is worth.

In the market place, customers set the prices. They set them by refusing to pay more than they wish to pay for anything. Thus, a manufacturer offering a product at a high price will quickly find that another manufacturer has appeared to offer the same product at a lower price. Indeed, a high price is always an invitation to producers to compete, whereas a low price is an invitation to a producer to stop making that product and to make something else.

The pricing process in the market regulates the market by making the customer king. The customer regulates the market by patronizing what he wishes to patronize and withholding his patronage where he pleases.

Every since the government began to intervene in the pricing area, if Miss Obert will examine the facts, prices have been going up and up and up. This is not because government protects us from monopolies; it is because government induces monopolies. And what is called a monopoly price can only exist where government passes laws to compel that price. An example of this is the post office, where the government prevents competition by law.

We believe that a Great Society can be built. But we deny that it can be built on a program of universal aggression against producers. Theft is not a solid procedure to be used to build a lasting society. And our government operates on the universal concept of grand theft, "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need." That slogan, if Miss Obert will check, was written by Karl Marx and provides the basic core of communist theory.

Now, if Miss Obert will take a close look at American history she will discover that we began our prosperity, not with the Constitution, but about 150 years prior to the writing of the Constitution. And in 1776 we adopted a document called the "Declaration of Independence" which set forth the idea that all men had equal rights and that no government, regardless of its form, could rightfully remove those rights from us. Indeed, the Declaration went so far as to state that men not only have a right to hold their government in check, they have a duty to do so.

The concept of "civil" rights is a corruption of the concept enunciated in the Delcaration. There it is revealed that all men have certain unalienable rights which proceed from the Creator or nature, and are not and cannot be added to or subtracted from. Thus, government cannot enact rights, nor can it rightfully remove them.

All rights relate to what we own. Every natural right is a right of people to acquire property honestly and to manage what they acquire. Life itself is a property, and so is liberty. These are very precious properties and they derive from natural law and not from governmentally enacted legislation.

The Great Society is not an aggressively governed society. It is a society of self-regulation and self-control. As Thomas Paine was to point out: "All the great laws of society are the laws of nature." And these laws hold society in check with far greater wisdom and far greater efficiency than any law the government may impose or interpose.

Miss Obert's problem is that she is out of step with the times. She is seeking to bring back to the United States ancient ideas of total government which were discarded centuries earlier but have been re-enacted by socialists and communists in Russia, China and elsewhere.

To have a Great Society is to have a great people. And greatness in people arises when they govern themselves individually, not when they place themselves under the domination of an organized body of men who plunder producers so they may divide what they have not produced.

So Who Gets Custody of the Kids?

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: My wife and I belong to churches of different denominations, but our children favor my church. This is causing trouble in our home, can you tell me how to settle this? —J. L.

ANSWER: It is not my place to tell people what church to attend. In all my years of evangelism I have never urged people to join a particular denomination. The important thing is for everyone to get into a church where they can grow spiritually, and every man must determine this for himself.

In regard to your situation, this is something you must work out for yourself, as a family. It would seem under the present circumstances, that since your children seem to favor your church, that a simple solution would be for your wife to attend with the rest of the family. But, this would of course, be her decision to make. I have always said that there are only minor differences between denominations, if they are true to their creeds, but it is a quirk of human beings to major upon minors. The things that seem small to many, appear huge to a few. If your wife is more interested in family unity than in her particular view of some minor doctrine, your problem could be easily resolved. The important thing is for all of you to show a good Christian spirit in this matter, for nothing is so incongruous as an un-Christian attitude in matters that are distinctively Christian.

QUESTION: How can I rid myself of hate toward a relative who tried to cheat me out of a share of a family estate? —G. W.

ANSWER: Hatred is one of the greatest spoilers of health and happiness. No matter what amount of money is involved, you cannot afford to 'hate'. Hatred spreads like a cancer through the system, and brings disorder to the body and spirit. Money cannot buy a shattered nervous system or repair a damaged soul.

The antidote for hatred is love, and Love is a gift from God. How can you achieve the love of God? First, confess your hate to God. Tell Him you have taken the wrong course, that you have 'missed the mark', that you have sinned. Then, God, for Christ's sake, will blot out your hatred and put His love in its place. Next, go to your relative and ask him to forgive you. This is the road to happiness, to health, and to your fair share of the inheritance. Love always accomplishes more, in every area, than hatred.

QUESTION: Please explain the meaning of Revelation 13: 16-18. —H. S.

ANSWER: These verses of Scripture describe a certain mark of identification that is going to be required of people, but the Bible does not tell us what kind of a mark it is. It states that the mark will be on the right hand and forehead, but we are given no information as to what it will appear to the beholder.

One thing appears to be true from this portion of Scripture. A time is coming when some kind of a boycott is going to be used to pressure people to recognize the authority of this one mentioned as the beast of the Revelation. Whatever else it may be, one thing is sure, it is going to be religious in its character. Therefore, it is a Scripture that suggests to us some ultimate religious control that is going to influence the whole of man's life. But it will only be temporary, because Paul wrote to the Philippian church: "That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father" (Philippians 2:10, 11).

Some think that Communism as now practiced in Eastern Europe is a definite fulfillment of this passage. Certainly you must know the Communist must believe and say "not christ" — and in some places to even live.

The Nile, second longest river in the world, is Egypt's only [illegible]

shall receive his own reward, according to his own labour; for we are labourers together with God." Those lines from Corinthians, might well be the inspiration for the holiday America observes... a special day set aside to pay respect to those who labor to make our nation great and, consequently, keep it free. This is Labor Day... when each man and woman whose work helps keep the bulwark of Democracy strong, receives "his own reward" in the satisfaction of a job well done.

It is not just another day for looking back on past accomplishment — this Labor Day. In a strange new scientific world which taxes comprehension, it is a time for looking ahead... for rededicating ourselves. We must need those Corinthian lines which asks us all to be "labourers together with God."

Ministers of all faiths and the community-minded firms below persuade you to read this Spiritual Values page and make it a part of your life... it is your heritage.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: My wife and I belong to churches of different denominations, but our children favor my church. This is causing trouble in our home, can you tell me how to settle this? —J. L.

ANSWER: It is not my place to tell people what church to attend. In all my years of evangelism I have never urged people to join a particular denomination. The important thing is for everyone to get into a church where they can grow spiritually, and every man must determine this for himself.

In regard to your situation, this is something you must work out for yourself, as a family. It would seem under the present circumstances, that since your children seem to favor your church, that a simple solution would be for your wife to attend with the rest of the family. But, this would of course, be her decision to make. I have always said that there are only minor differences between denominations, if they are true to their creeds, but it is a quirk of human beings to major upon minors. The things that seem small to many, appear huge to a few. If your wife is more interested in family unity than in her particular view of some minor doctrine, your problem could be easily resolved. The important thing is for all of you to show a good Christian spirit in this matter, for nothing is so incongruous as an un-Christian attitude in matters that are distinctively Christian.

QUESTION: How can I rid myself of hate toward a relative who tried to cheat me out of a share of a family estate? —G. W.

ANSWER: Hatred is one of the greatest spoilers of health and happiness. No matter what amount of money is involved, you cannot afford to 'hate'. Hatred spreads like a cancer through the system, and brings disorder to the body and spirit. Money cannot buy a shattered nervous system or repair a damaged soul.

The antidote for hatred is love, and Love is a gift from God. How can you achieve the love of God? First, confess your hate to God. Tell Him you have taken the wrong course, that you have 'missed the mark', that you have sinned. Then, God, for Christ's sake, will blot out your hatred and put His love in its place. Next, go to your relative and ask him to forgive you. This is the road to happiness, to health, and to your fair share of the inheritance. Love always accomplishes more, in every area, than hatred.

QUESTION: Please explain the meaning of Revelation 13: 16-18. —H. S.

ANSWER: These verses of Scripture describe a certain mark of identification that is going to be required of people, but the Bible does not tell us what kind of a mark it is. It states that the mark will be on the right hand and forehead, but we are given no information as to what it will appear to the beholder.

One thing appears to be true from this portion of Scripture, A time is coming when some kind of a boycott is going to be used to pressure people to recognize the authority of this one mentioned as the beast of the Revelation. Whatever else it may be, one thing is sure, it is going to be religious in its character. Therefore, it is a Scripture that suggests to us some ultimate religious control that is going to influence the whole of man's life. But it will only be temporary, because Paul wrote to the Philippian church: "That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father" (Philippians 2:10, 11).

Some think that Communism as now practiced in Eastern Europe is a definite fulfillment of this passage. Certainly you must have the Communist mark before you can "get ahead" — and is some places to even live.

The Nile, second longest river in the world, is Egypt's only river.

shall receive his own reward, according to his own labour; for we are labourers together with God." Those lines from Corinthians, might well be the inspiration for the holiday America observes... a special day set aside to pay respect to those who labor to make our nation great and, consequently, keep it free. This is Labor Day... when each man and woman whose work helps keep the bulwark of Democracy strong, receives "his own reward" in the satisfaction of a job well done.

It is not just another day for looking back on past accomplishment — this Labor Day. In a strange new scientific world which taxes comprehension, it is a time for looking ahead... for rededicating ourselves. We must need those Corinthian lines which asks us all to be "labourers together with God."

Ministers of all faiths and the community-minded firms below persuade you to read this Spiritual Values page and make it a part of your life... it is your heritage.

Rev. A. Kubish Heads Alliance For Third Term

The Rev. August Kubish, pastor of First Baptist Church, Florence, has been re-elected president of the Eastern Fremont Ministerial Alliance for the third term, it was announced following the first fall meeting last Saturday.

Other officers elected include the Rev. Merton Cox, vice-president, First Methodist Church; the Rev. Lon Runner, secretary, Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. Lyal McCormack, treasurer, Assembly of God Church; the Rev. Rodney Abram, audio-visual chairman.

At its opening session, the Alliance donated a sum of money to the St. Joseph Hospital fund and agreed to sponsor an affirmation service at the First Methodist Church Sunday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m. as a Union service in relation to reformation day. The Rev. Cox and the Rev. McCormack will serve on the committe.

The group also plans to hold a monthly film night at the Presbyterian Church beginning Sunday, Sept. 27, at 7:30 p.m.

Union Thanksgiving Services will be staged this year on Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 7:30 p.m., at the First Church of the Nazarene, with the Rev. Lon runner, Rodney Abram and the Rev. Carl Durbin serving on the committee.

The ministers discussed the possibilities of sponsoring a Community Protestant choir for a Christmas concert Wednesday, Dec. 23. A poll of various congregations will be made to enlist singers. Anyone interested is asked to contact a local pastor or president of the Alliance before Oct. 3.

Church Will Conduct Special Services

A series of special services will be conducted at the Pikes Peak Church of Christ, 1402 W. Pikes Peak Ave., each evening at 7:30, Sunday through Friday.

Dean Brookshire, Evangelist from Tyler, Tex., will be the speaker.

The Rev. Sidney Ellis, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Rev. A. Kubish Heads Alliance For Third Term

The Rev. August Kubish, pastor of First Baptist Church, Florence, has been re-elected president of the Eastern Fremont Ministerial Alliance for the third term, it was announced following the first fall meeting last Saturday.

Other officers elected include the Rev. Merton Cox, vice-president, First Methodist Church; the Rev. Lon Runner, secretary, Church of the Nazarene; the Rev. Lyal McCormack, treasurer, Assembly of God Church; the Rev. Rodney Abram, audio-visual chairman.

At its opening session, the Alliance donated a sum of money to the St. Joseph Hospital fund and agreed to sponsor an affirmation service at the First Methodist Church Sunday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m. as a Union service in relation to reformation day. The Rev. Cox and the Rev. McCormack will serve on the committe.

The group also plans to hold a monthly film night at the Presbyterian Church beginning Sunday, Sept. 27, at 7:30 p.m.

Union Thanksgiving Services will be staged this year on Wednesday, Nov. 25, at 7:30 p.m., at the First Church of the Nazarene, with the Rev. Lon runner, Rodney Abram and the Rev. Carl Durbin serving on the committee.

The ministers discussed the possibilities of sponsoring a Community Protestant choir for a Christmas concert Wednesday, Dec. 23. A poll of various congregations will be made to enlist singers. Anyone interested is asked to contact a local pastor or president of the Alliance before Oct. 3.

Church Will Conduct Special Services

A series of special services will be conducted at the Pikes Peak Church of Christ, 1402 W. Pikes Peak Ave., each evening at 7:30, Sunday through Friday.

Dean Brookshire, Evangelist from Tyler, Tex., will be the speaker.

The Rev. Sidney Ellis, pastor, invites the public to attend.

George Williams Will Lecture at All Souls Church

Services and church school resume at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, an hour earlier than last year, at All Souls Unitarian Church.

Speaker for three consecutive Sundays will be George Williams, a Colorado Springs consulting and civil engineer, past president of the Rocky Mountain Unitarian-Universalist Area Council of the Rocky Mountain Summer Assembly, and of the All Souls board of trustees.

Williams will discuss "a theory of levels leading toward a God's eye-view of the Universe." The series of lectures represents Williams' "personal attempt to create a cosmology" and is titled "The Structure of God."

Sunday's talk will be followed by a discussion and refreshment period from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Church school will begin at 10:30 a.m. under the leadership of Paul Hale, director of religious education, and a staff of teachers, for students 3 years of age through Junior High. Plans for registration include refreshments and a program followed by an activity hour during the adult discussion. A nursery school will again be available for toddlers.

A particular innovation this year is the plan to consolidate the standard curriculum so that the second semester can be devoted entirely to project planning and curriculum development under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Ingraham. An audio visual department has been established, to be handled by Mrs. Glenn Brooks, and Mrs. Hugh Stewart will direct the new library resources division.

Members of the religious education committee for 1964-65 are (Mrs. Phil More, Mrs. Leon Winn, Mrs. Ruth Talbert, Mrs. Philip Dieffenbach, Mrs. Robert Kilgore and Mrs. Anne Arneson Committee Chairman is Mrs. A. C. Craig.

Rev. C. McAninch Substitutes for Regular Pastor

The Rev. C. W. McAninch, former pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, will be guest speaker at the morning and evening services Sunday.

There has been a time change for the evening services with the Baptist training fellowship beginning at 6:30 p.m. and the evening worship service at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. McAninch has served for several years as pastor at Fountain, and as educational director for the State of Nebraska. He was owner of the Pikes Peak Book Store for several years. His sermon subject will be "Conquerors Through Him," and "Ezekiel, the Prophet."

Rev. Moser will be back in the pulpit Sunday Sept. 20.

Mrs. Ward B. Hulburt, who serves as a vice-president of the National Council of American Baptist Women, left for New York City where she will participate in and speak at national board meetings.

Lutherans Begin New Educational Program Sunday

The new long-range program of church school education, prepared after years of research by the Lutheran Church in America, will be introduced Sunday at First Lutheran Church, 1515 N. Cascade Ave.

The curriculum has been designed to make maximum use of the short time available to the church, an average of 25 hours a year, in educating its young people. Parental assistance and homework are integral parts of the program.

Eugene Lavalleur, superintendent of the Sunday school, is in charge.

Pastor Christian J. Thearle will return this weekend from St. Louis where he has been attending a meeting of the national commission studying the world-wide work of the Lutheran service centers established in behalf of military men at home and overseas.

Special congregational meetings have been called for 9:45 a.m. and 12 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 20, for final action of construction and finaning of the new sanctuary.

First Christian Sets Fellowship Dinner

The First Christian Church will hold its September fellowship dinner Sunday at 6:30 p.m. in the social room of the church. The general theme of the dinner will be "Restructure of the Brotherhood."

The Village Christian Church has been invited to participate in the dinner and program.

Rodney Glasscock and Phil Runner from the office of Christian Churches in Denver, will lead the discussion on the theme.

Reservations must be made by Friday noon at the church's office. Mr. and Mrs. Fern Steepleton are in charge of preparations.

Youth Rally Today At Gospel Church

The First Full Gospel Message Church has scheduled a youth rally at 2:30 p.m. today, conducted by Mrs. Mira West.

The evening meal will be furnished and served by the ladies of the church.

At 7:30 p.m. the fellowship meeting will begin with the Rev. W. S. Penny, pastor of the "Healing Temple Church" of Denver, in charge.

George Williams Will Lecture at All Souls Church

Services and church school resume at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, an hour earlier than last year, at All Souls Unitarian Church.

Speaker for three consecutive Sundays will be George Williams, a Colorado Springs consulting and civil engineer, past president of the Rocky Mountain Unitarian-Universalist Area Council of the Rocky Mountain Summer Assembly, and of the All Souls board of trustees.

Williams will discuss "a theory of levels leading toward a God's eye-view of the Universe." The series of lectures represents Williams' "personal attempt to create a cosmology" and is titled "The Structure of God."

Sunday's talk will be followed by a discussion and refreshment period from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Church school will begin at 10:30 a.m. under the leadership of Paul Hale, director of religious education, and a staff of teachers, for students 3 years of age through Junior High. Plans for registration include refreshments and a program followed by an activity hour during the adult discussion. A nursery school will again be available for toddlers.

A particular innovation this year is the plan to consolidate the standard curriculum so that the second semester can be devoted entirely to project planning and curriculum development under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Ingraham. An audio visual department has been established, to be handled by Mrs. Glenn Brooks, and Mrs. Hugh Stewart will direct the new library resources division.

Members of the religious education committee for 1964-65 are (Mrs. Phil More, Mrs. Leon Winn, Mrs. Ruth Talbert, Mrs. Philip Dieffenbach, Mrs. Robert Kilgore and Mrs. Anne Arneson Committee Chairman is Mrs. A. C. Craig.

Rev. C. McAninch Substitutes for Regular Pastor

The Rev. C. W. McAninch, former pastor of Bethany Baptist Church, will be guest speaker at the morning and evening services Sunday.

There has been a time change for the evening services with the Baptist training fellowship beginning at 6:30 p.m. and the evening worship service at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. McAninch has served for several years as pastor at Fountain, and as educational director for the State of Nebraska. He was owner of the Pikes Peak Book Store for several years. His sermon subject will be "Conquerors Through Him," and "Ezekiel, the Prophet."

Rev. Moser will be back in the pulpit Sunday Sept. 20.

Baptist Church Celebrates Anniversary

First Baptist Church will celebrate its 92nd anniversary Sunday and invites the public to join in the occasion. The Rev. Ward Hulburt, pastor, will speak at 8:45 and 11:00 a.m. on the theme, "The Church's Place in the World." Special music will be provided by the chancel and chapel choirs and soloists.

Sunday school will be held at 9:45 a.m. Youth fellowship groups and the children's choirs will meet at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Leah Hiscutt, who has served as church organist for some time, is moving to Denver with her husband. Newly appointed organist is Mrs. Nina Hofmann. A farewell reception honoring Mrs. Hiscutt is planned for Sunday evening, Sept. 27.

Several new people have just been elected by the executive council to fill vacancies on official boards. They include Harvey Mitchell, deacon; Patrick Hinton, Col. Fred Crawford, finance; Mrs. Beth Scott, Mac Blaylock, music.

Mrs. Ward B. Hulburt, who serves as a vice-president of the National Council of American Baptist Women, left for New York City where she will participate in and speak at national board meetings.

Lutherans Begin New Educational Program Sunday

The new long-range program of church school education, prepared after years of research by the Lutheran Church in America, will be introduced Sunday at First Lutheran Church, 1515 N. Cascade Ave.

The curriculum has been designed to make maximum use of the short time available to the church, an average of 25 hours a year, in educating its young people. Parental assistance and homework are integral parts of the program.

Eugene Lavalleur, superintendent of the Sunday school, is in charge.

Pastor Christian J. Thearle will return this weekend from St. Louis where he has been attending a meeting of the national commission studying the world-wide work of the Lutheran service centers established in behalf of military men at home and overseas.

Special congregational meetings have been called for 9:45 a.m. and 12 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 20, for final action of construction and finaniing of the new sanctuary.

First Christian Sets Fellowship Dinner

The First Christian Church will hold its September fellowship dinner Sunday at 6:30 p.m. in the social room of the church. The general theme of the dinner will be "Restructure of the Brotherhood."

The Village Christian Church has been invited to participate in the dinner and program.

Rodney Glasscock and Phil Runner from the office of Christian Churches in Denver, will lead the discussion on the theme.

Reservations must be made by Friday noon at the church's office. Mr. and Mrs. Fern Steepleton are in charge of preparations.

Youth Rally Today At Gospel Church

The First Full Gospel Message Church has scheduled a youth rally at 2:30 p.m. today, conducted by Mrs. Mira West.

The evening meal will be furnished and served by the ladies of the church.

At 7:30 p.m. the fellowship meeting will begin with the Rev. W. S. Penny, pastor of the "Healing Temple Church" of Denver, in charge.

WALTER FLYNT

Week of Special Services Set At St. Paul's

Walter Flynt, program director of radio station WGPC in Albany, Georgia, will be the guest speaker for a week of special services at St. Paul's Methodist Church. A teacher of the men's Bible class at the Albany church, his lectures will be centered around the theme, "Profit and Prophet."

Flynt will peak at the three Sunday services, 8:30 a.m., 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., as well as teach the adult church school class at 9:45 a.m. and talk to youth fellowship groups at 6 p.m. During the week services will be held at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. A nursery will be available at all services.

He spent four years during Worl dWar II in India and Burma news broadcasting for the United States Government. He has had articles published in Popular Science Monthly and Radio-TV News.

Song leader for the week will be Keith Frederickson of Denver, who was song leader for the recent E. Stanley Jones Ashram.

The public is invited to attend the services.

It's Roundup Time At Skyway Baptist

The "strays" are back in the home pasture and it's time for the annual "Fall Roundup" at Skyway Baptist Church, 1625 S. 8th St.

Based on a roundup and rodeo theme, the church is having A "drive" to roundup every member and interest them in Sunday school and the church.

Sunday school has been divided into "ranches," and each "ranch" has selected a "brand." Each member has been placed in one of the "outfits" and will be branded as a "top hand." Each class has also selected a champion "cowboy" and "cowgirl" to compete for the "all-around" champion of the round-up and rodeo.

Highlight of the program will be a western-style "get together" at 6:45 p.m. Friday, complete with chuck wagon, western music and rodeo. Events featured will be cow calling, bull dogging, salt licking and a contest on feeding the "dogies."

Witnesses Deem Recent Assembly a Success

The first Spanish assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses held in the Springs at the Boys' Club, drew delegates from as far away as Ogden, Utah, Scottsbluff, Neb., and Santa Fe, N.M., according to Archie Virgil, presiding minister of the local congregation.

Highlight of the three day convention was a film "Proclaiming Everlasting Good News Around the World," produced by the Watchtower Society and narrated by Blosco Muscariello. Muscariello also delivered the final Bible lecture at the close of the assembly last Sunday.

Wycliffe Team Present Slides, Lectures on Peru

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Manus, workers with the Wycliffe Bible Translators, will show slides and speak at First Presbyterian Church, 7:30 Sunday evening. The title of their presentation is "Make His Paths Straight."

Manus and his wife, the former Phyllis Wright of Colorado Springs and a member of the First Presbyterian Church, have been working with the Urarina Tribe of jungle people in Peru for five years and are planning to return next month. Their purpose is three-fold: to put the language of the tribe into writing; teach the people to read and write; translate the Bible for them. This is a long-range program which will take from fifteen to twenty years to complete.

When the Manuses return to Peru, they will be accompanied by Kathy McVehil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. McVehil of this city, who will assist with the literacy work. Miss McVehil is sponsored by the church's Doulos program which helps to make it possible for young adults to serve a short term in missionary service.

Christian Women Meet Wednesday

The monthly meeting of Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church will meet Wednesday with luncheon beginning at 12:15 p.m. served by Group 2, Mrs. Frank Strange, leader. Cheyenne, Academy Seeking First Wins

After disastrous openers last week, the 1963 State Class AA champion Cheyenne Mountain and the talented Big Blue of Air Academy High — members of the Will Rogers League — attempt to rectify their failures on the gridiron today to round out the non-league competition this weekend for the five-team loop.

Guy Barickman's Cheyenne gridders, after dropping their season opener to arch-rivals St. Mary's last Saturday, will be out seeking to redeem themselves against visiting Mapleton in the only area game today. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Kadets of Academy High journey north to tackle wild powerful Thornton at the latter's home field with kick-off time set for 1:30 p.m. The Academy High squad lost to Boulder Fairview and it seemed the Kadets were lacking in desire in their last outing.

But Terry Mackey, the 1963 Pikes Peak League Coach of the Year, has the ability to acquire the best from his team. He proved this at Harrison last year when he guided the small but peaky Panthers to the runner-up slot to Cheyenne in the PPL chase, losing that single encounter to Cheyenne.

Mackey's scouting reports indicate that the Thornton team is big in the line and backfield. Thornton usually fields a strong team. It was Thornton that prevented the Kadets with their only loss two years ago when they went on to win the State Class AA championship.

In the backfield, the Kadets will have speed merchant Bill Wood, who picked up 87 yards rushing last weekend against Fairview, and Roger Karolick, veteran ramrod-fullback, with John Gannon at the controls guiding the Big Blue attack.

Cheyenne will count heavily on their hard-driving fullback, Greg Crannbitt, who scored the Tribe's single TD against St. Mary's last week, and halfbacks Rich McCurdy and Rusty Arnold to move the ball against the Mapleton defense. Ted Garcia will start at quarterback.

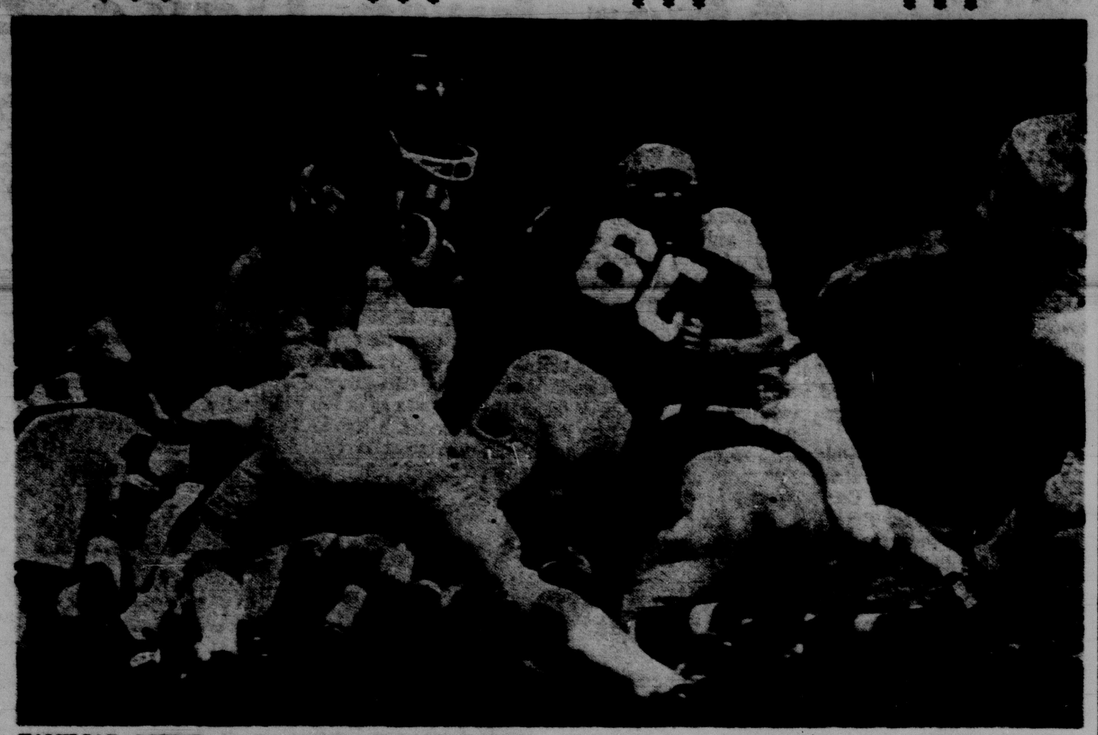
Tigers' Big Forward Wall Hands Wasson Second Loss



FAMILIAR SCENE — Jim Smith, Wasson's speedy left-halfback, runs into the awaiting arms of a Lakewood tackler during the Thunderbirds' 20-7 loss to the Jefferson County team Friday night at Wasson Stadium. Talent - packed Lakewood combined a stunningly stiff defense with its patented long strike Friday night to zip past underdog Wasson 20-7 in a heralded inter-league battle before 3,500 fans at Wasson Stadium.

The classy Tigers from the Jefferson County circuit, annually one of Colorado's gridiron giants, smacked Gib Funk's youthful Thunderbirds with a staggeringly powerful line that controlled the action throughout the evening and fired off three swift vollies from their backfield cannons which produced all the points necessary to send the Colorado Springs club tumbling to its second straight defeat.

For the T-Birds, it was a second consecutive weekend of learning their football wares the hard way — in combat with one of the state's finest prep elevens. It also marked a disheartening seventh straight defeat at the hands of Lakewood, the only regularly - scheduled club a Wasson team has never beaten.

There was little argument Friday, however, that the Thunderbirds were in a struggle that simply came too early in the campaign for a unit that is still battling inexperience. The Tigers' backfield is not quite of the vintage of the brilliant group of two years ago, but there was little doubt that the rangy forwards that patrolled Wasson Sadium Friday made up the finest Lakewood Line to appear here in the past several seasons.

One item was not changed, and that was the Tigers' ability to strike suddenly — and without warning. Quarterback Steve Tracy, who was the main thorn pricking the T-Birds throughout the night, reeled off a 54 yard scamper to set up the first touchdown, sprinted 88 yards with a punt return to score the second, and fled 71 yards after being nearly nailed behind the line of scrimmage to wrap up the contest in the third period.

Through it all the Thunderbirds battled valiantly, but on this night it was simply a case of too much up front. Even with the surprise return of fullback Bob Toof, and the occasional telling thrusts of halfbacks Jim Smith and Dewey Winter, the 'Birds could never launch a sustained offense against the powerful opposition across the line.

Tracy's spectacular bursts easily gained him top honors for the evening with 137 yards in 12 carries. In addition, the Lakewood signal - caller fired a 19 yard pass to end Mike Schnitker to account for the only touchdown he didn't score personally.

Wasson — Toof, 6 yard run. (Smith, pass from Wells)
Lakewood — Tracy, 71 yard run. (Kingry, kick)

The first quarter was an even struggle throughout until the Tigers suddenly unraveled one of their typically devastating plays with just seconds remaining. Tracy, nearly trapped on a rollout by the hard - charging Wasson forwards, slipped away from his own 24 and sped 58 yards down the sidelines to the Thunderbirds' 22.

Mike Simmons gained to the 19 on the final play of the period and on the first down of the second quarter, Tracy ducked under a pair of tacklers and lofted a pass to Schnitker who gathered it in near the goal line and stepped across. Ed Kingry then kicked the extra point.

With their breakaway game finally warmed up, the Tigers appeared on the verge of breaking it open minutes later when Tracy, the bullish quarterback, speared a punt at his own 12 and swung around the left side of a confused Wasson defense to ramble 88 yards for the second score. This time Kingry missed his conversion attempt.

The T-Birds refused to buckle under, however. Returning the kick to their own 23, they moved upfield with the aid of a pair of offsides penalties to the 41 from where Winter streaked through the center on a trap and fled to the Lakewood 39. That one was called back by an illegal proceedure penalty but Wasson immediately punched to a first down near midfield. From that point the 'Birds moved to the Lakewood 38 via a personal foul infraction and Wells then flipped a pass to Smith in the left flat which the fleet halfback carried to the Tigers' 17.

Another personal foul penalty moved the ball to the eight and Toof, running brilliantly, scooted through the left side, cut back up the middle, and shot into the end zone for the score. Wells then threw to Smith, who made a diving catch, for the extra point.

The T-Birds carried that momentum into the second half and had the partisan crowd jumping in anticipation of an upset as Wells snatched a Lakewood pass on the first play from scrimmage and returned it to the Tigers' 28. However, Wasson stalled a yard short of a first down.

Fountain Passes Upset Harrison 14-7

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Little Fountain, unleashing a bomb more explosive than many used in the past two World Wars, buried Harrison Friday night, 14-7, in something which at times resembled an upset and other times resembled an intra-squad scrimmage.

The final score certainly indicated an upset as the visiting Trojans, weighing no man in above 178 pounds, used two long passes to send Harrison to its first defeat of the year after the Panthers clubbered Crowley County, 46-0, just a week ago.

Despite the accurate and plentiful passing of quarterback Bill Doud, Harrison couldn't withstand halfback Jim Daniels and his first-play passes to slotback Dan Grigsby for 71 and 83 yard touchdowns.

Harrison climaxed a so-so first half with its TD drive, sending a Doud pass to end Dick Crabtree for six yards with less than half a minute left. Eddie Hook converted and the Panthers prepared for a time-consuming defense after the kick off to waste the last 10 seconds.

But Fountain didn't give the hosts a chance to get set before Grigsby had wormed his way from the 29 past the Harrison secondary and grabbed off the first Daniels pass. He then outlegged three defenders 59 yards to the goal and Daniels busted over for the extra points with the clock reading 0:00.

The play stunned the Panthers and their followers, but the start of the second half didn't show it as Harrison kept two short drives moving into Fountain territory. But the second one ended on the Trojan 17 as Joe Martinez intercepted a Doud pass and hit the turf.

Again, before the Panther defense could dig in, Grigsby outmaneuvered the secondary and brought down Daniels' second long pass. This time Harrison back Harold Oldham pursued the twisting Grigsby for 60 yards, making a desperate lunge at the 10 for the sprinter's heels. But Oldham merely skidded along thhe ground as Grigsby scored the second and decisive six-pointer. Daniels ran the extra point with an easy sweep around his right end.

Doud kept the Panthers moving with his sharp passing. And when Harrison had to give up the ball on downs, the defense kept Fountain from advancing.

Finally Doud captained his squad to the four-yard line with an 18-yard pass to Jerry Williams. But a 15-yard penalty jerked the Panthers back to the 19, where Doud couldn't land four straight passes.

With less than two minutes left, Fountain took over and ran most of the clock out. The Trojans were forced to punt with 36 seconds left, but Grigsby got on the receiving end of one of Doud's passes for Fountain's second interception and the ball game.

Grigsby, in addition to snaring the pair of passes, waltzed 33 yards in nine carries, second on his team only to Daniels' 35 yards in seven tries. Grigsby also punted five times for a 30.2 average.

Doud showed the strongest for the losers as he tossed 26 times, completing 14 for 136 yards. Harrison fullback Dick Macki and Williams kept the ground game playing at Fountain's defense, opening it up for Doud's aerials. Williams rushed 44 yards on 13 carries. Maki powered 31 yards on nine carries. Williams took five of Doud's tosses good for 55 yards.

Fountain wraps up its abbreviated non-league schedule Friday, hosting Walsenburg. Harrison travels to Castle Rock the same night in continuing its five game non-league slate.

Widefield Edges Brighton On Non-League Tilt, 19-12

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

A spirited Widefield grid team showing earmarks of superb coaching and displaying brilliant first half tactics, stemmed back from last week's campaign opener loss as the Gladiators handled visiting Brighton, 19-12, Friday night to post their first triumph under new head coach Norm Theiss.

It was diddly squatting for the veteran coach of 32 campaigns as he witnessed his Gladiators come alive to bounce their opponents and owe the Widefield forward attack move smoothly in the first half under the direction of his 17-year-old ace, Dave Theiss.

Some 1,500 homefans fans were thrilled with the Widefield troops' first half performance as the Gladiators moved the ball for score all three touchdowns.

The 2nd half brought on a second Bobby change of the Brighton team determined to avenge the three point defeat by Widefield TD the first period. Pushed around with power but it was Bobby Hughes' passing and running that kept the Brighton attack alive.

Hughes scored the first TD on a 46-yard run from scrimmage as the big fullback displayed great speed. He again scored in the second period on a 39-yard jaunt and the Gladiators' third TD came on an eight-yard aerial from Theiss to Hughes.

Brighton's scored in the first period on Rick Robinette's one-yard plunge and later - hugging quarterback Max Buchanan hit paydirt in the final period on a five-yard run.

The Gladiators controlled the sky in the first two periods as Theiss and Lee combined to land the Widefield aerial attack with short and long bombs. However, the Bulldogs came back in the second half and both Robinette and Buchanan combined three passing nods to total 39 yards gained passing.

Neal Zeller was the Bulldogs top ground gainer as the speedy fullback picked up 79 yards in five carries. Overall, the Bulldogs gained 188 yards rushing and 39 yard passing for a total of 227 yards.

Widefield picked up 189 yards rushing and 39 passing for a total of 228 yards.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Real Culprit

The contention made by a few die-hards that broadcasting national sporting events over television has resulted in dropouts at local events may have merit, but scanning over the variety of sports aired over the tube this weekend could entice even the most ardent hometown team supporter to take a gander.

Where else can the sporting buff get for the price of a few kilowatt-hours a selection of sports programs varying from auto hill climb racing to yacht ing?

From this corner we believe the real sports fan doesn't let the TV program interfere with attending local events and he depends upon television as a supplement to his keen interest in national sporting events.

A good example of this is the Air Force Academy-Notre Dame game, Oct. 10. Reports indicate a capacity crowd and the majority of the tickets were sold nearly two months ago.

Without going into great detail, there are numerous other reasons why some local events have encountered a decrease in attendance. We can point to the mountains which lure outdoor enthusiasts to its streams and lakes on weekends, but the unadulterated truth for the decline in attendance at local sporting events, we believe, is the lack of fans really interested in sports. Why point the finger solely at television for causing this situation?

Two events slated for viewing over television this weekend should prove of keen interest to the sports populace including the tape highlights of the 1963 Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb and the Olympic track and field trials.

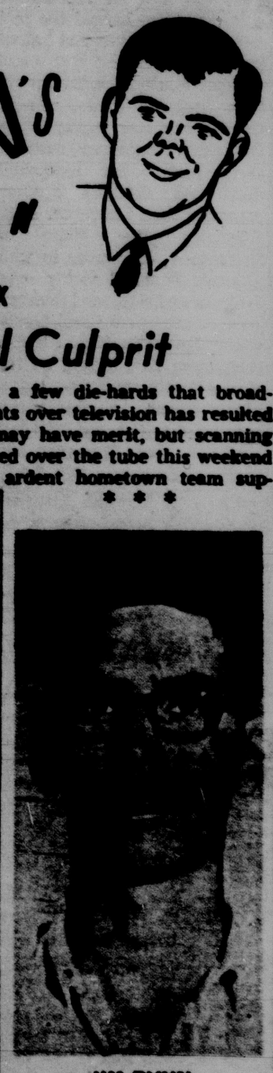
Both have local participants competing in them.

This morning at 9 a.m., sports fans with a flair for auto racing can relax leisurely — not at 7 a.m. as many did last July 4th — to get a choice site to view the liveliest daredevil drivers defy the clock racing up massive 14,110 foot Pikes Peak of last year's race filmed by NBC-TV. The show is scheduled to be aired over KOAA-TV (Channel 5) via NBC Sports special.

In addition to previewing the Unser brothers and Parnelli Jones daredevils the three classification is championship sports and stock car division, racing fans will get a chance to see the Indy stars' cars and the drivers.

On Sunday, the lens will unfold a weekend tape of the Olympic trials and their 100 and the Air Force Academy cross country, in order to the Pikes Peak feature of the 1963 race, a hotly contested battle between Jim Ryun, who will be the U.S. Olympic team in the 1500 meters event.

And by the way, an Olympic spectacular of Olympic history and the 1964 games should prove interesting viewing. The Montreal Olympic committee has announced that Jim Ryun, who will be competing in the 1500 meters at the Tokyo games, will be the first high school student in over a half century to represent the U.S. Olympic team in any Olympic event.



JIM RYUN
Olympic Hopeful

We met and talked with the Wichita East high school 12th grade star this summer during his week's vacation with his grandparents. If running 100 miles per week in practice and competing against the nation's top milers could be considered a yardstick of Ryun's chances for gaining one of the two remaining berths on the U.S. Olympic 1500 meters team, Ryun should make it.

But Ryun will be facing a strong 1500 meter field in Los Angeles this weekend including Dyrol Burleson, who has already won one of the three berths, Tom O'Hara, Jim Grelle, Sam Bennett Jr., and Bob Day.

During his visit to Colorado Springs, Ryun indicated that he thought the strategy among the 1500 meter field would be either one of two things: a race for the record or a pace race. Ryun said it would be a harder race for him to win when he feels a pace race is more suited to his ability.

In previous competition against top milers, Ryun's best times were made early fall during the months of through preliminary competition he stepped [illegible] finish [illegible] at New York. Terrors Travel to Golden

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

To quote the two opposing coaches in today's Palmer-Golden football game: "Golden's line is fast and aggressive."

To quote Golden coach Dave Sheane: "We have to watch three particular plays and players from Palmer."

To quote Palmer Coach Bill Westbay: "Golden's halfbacks did a good job against Westminster."

To quote statistics: "Palmer's line has a 16 pound per man advantage and the overall team averages give the Terrors a 10 pound advantage."

To quote a winner, however, would be, to quote Shakespeare, "the height of folly."

Palmer has been burdened with three injuries to key second-string players, making the Terror's depth more of a problem than Westbay has been figuring it would be.

Tackle Ken Lancaster was injured in last week's win over Aurora Hinkley. He was due for a starting post soon, according to Westbay. No. 2 halfback Jesse Martinez has a broken arm and runner-up fullback Mike Tracy is hobbled with an ankle sprain.

Today's game will start at 2 p.m. in Jefferson County Stadium, home of the Jefferson County League of which Golden's Demons are members.

Golden had to overcome time and a six-point deficit last week in beating Westminster, 14-6.

Both Sheane and Westbay credited the Demon line with scrappy, aggressive work even though it averages 189 pounds.

"We aren't big enough to stay in and fight," says Sheane. "We have to hit and move."

Sheane was impressed with three plays and players as Palmer swept to a 26-13 win over Hinkley. "We feel we must stop fullback Ben Bryant on the belly play, halfback Dennis Bair on traps and off-tackle plays, and quarterback Larry Williams on the belly keeper option.

"We were impressed with Williams as a signal-caller."

On the Terror line, Sheane says the most-feared player is guard John Van Druff. "He probably ranks with the better guards in the state," Sheane praises.

Westbay is watching halfbacks Craig Goodell and John Krumelmeyer. Both weigh about as much as the light Demon forward wall, but Sheane claims speed will make a difference, at least in the case of Goodell.

"Craig runs the 100 in 10.5 or 10.6. Others are just about average." He is the brother of starting left end Mark Goodell, who at 160, outweighs Craig by 10 pounds.

The line of the northern squad is led by center Darryl Wood, who doubles at defensive end.

Bair gave a good set of statistics to score the Demons. He gained 65 yards on 10 carries, including a 20-yard TD scamper. Bryant churned off yardage in consistent spurts with 48 yards in 14 carries against Hinkley's Thunderbirds.

Palmer's offensive line shows much heavier weights in [illegible] than Golden. Center Ron [illegible] tops everyone on either squad at 214. Van Druff weighs in at 210. Heaviest man for [illegible] seems to be tackle Ron [illegible] 225. Sheane says he will start two heavier boys [illegible] on defense.

Lightest starter for [illegible] is Palmer guard [illegible] who checks in [illegible] with Golden [illegible] 2 pound [illegible] three-pound [illegible] Golden [illegible] Sheane, who weighs 187

HEAVIEST PLAYER — Palmer center Ron Smith will be the heaviest player on either team today when the Terrors play Golden at 2 p.m. in Jefferson County Stadium. Smith weighs 214 and anchors a line which outweighs Golden's wall by 16 pounds per man.

Cheyenne, Academy Seeking First Wins

After disastrous openers last week, the 1963 State Class AA champion Cheyenne Mountain and the talented Big Blue of Air Academy High — members of the Will Rogers League — attempt to rectify their failures on the gridiron today to round out the non-league competition this weekend for the five-team loop.

Guy Barickman's Cheyenne gridders, after dropping their season opener to arch-rivals St. Mary's last Saturday, will be out seeking to redeem themselves against visiting Mapleton in the only area game today. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, the Kadets of Academy High journey north to tackle with powerful Thornton at the latter's home field with kick-off time set for 1:30 p.m. The Academy High squad lost to Boulder Fairview and it seemed the Kadets were lacking in desire in their last outing.

But Terry Mackey, the 1963 Pikes Peak League Coach of the Year, has the ability to acquire the best from his team. He proved this at Harrison last year when he guided the small but pesky Panthers to the runner-up slot to Cheyenne in the PPL chase, losing that single encounter to Cheyenne.

Mackey's scouting reports indicate that the Thornton team is big in the line and backfield. Thornton usually fields a strong team. It was Thornton that presented the Kadets with their only loss two years ago when they went on to win the State Class AA championship.

In the backfield, the Kadets will have speed merchant Bill Wood, who picked up 87 yards rushing last weekend against Fairview, and Roger Karolick, veteran ramrod-fullback, with John Gannon at the controls guiding the Big Blue attack.

Cheyenne will count heavily on their hard-driving fullback, Greg Cramblit, who scored the Tribe's single TD against St. Mary's last week, and halfbacks Rich McCurdy and Rusty Arnold to move the ball against the Mapleton defense. Ted Garcia will start at quarterback.

The classy Tigers from the Jefferson County circuit, annually one of Colorado's gridiron giants, smacked Gib Funk's youthful Thunderbirds with a staggeringly powerful line that controlled the action throughout the evening and fired off three swift vollies from their backfield cannons which produced all the points necessary to send the Colorado Springs club tumbling to its second straight defeat.

For the T-Birds, it was a second consecutive weekend of learning their football wares the hard way — in combat with one of the state's finest prep elevens. It also marked a disheartening seventh straight defeat at the hands of Lakewood, the only regularly - scheduled club a Wasson team has never beaten.

There was little argument Friday, however, that the Thunderbirds were in a struggle that simply came too early in the campaign for a unit that is still battling inexperience. The Tigers' backfield is not quite of the vintage of the brilliant group of two years ago, but there was little doubt that the rangy forwards that patrolled Wasson Sadium Friday made up the finest Lakewood Line to appear here in the past several seasons.

One item was not changed, and that was the Tigers' ability to strike suddenly — and without warning. Quarterback Steve Tracy, who was the main thorn pricking the T-Birds throughout the night, reeled off a 54 yard scamper to set up the first touchdown, sprinted 88 yards with a punt return to score the second, and fled 71 yards after being nearly nailed behind the line of scrimmage to wrap up the contest in the third period.

Through it all the Thunderbirds battled valiantly, but on this night it was simply a case of too much up front. Even with the surprise return of fullback Bob Toof, and the occasional telling thrusts of halfbacks Jim Smith and Dewey Winter, the 'Birds could never launch a sustained offense against the powerful opposition across the line.

Tracy's spectacular bursts easily gained him top honors for the evening with 137 yards in 12 carries. In addition, the Lakewood signal - caller fired a 19 yard pass to end Mike Schnikter to account for the only touchdown he didn't score personally.

The first quarter was an even struggle throughout until the Tigers suddenly unraveled one of their typically devastating plays with just seconds remaining. Tracy, nearly trapped on a rollout by the hard - charging Wasson forwards, slipped away from his own 24 and sped 58 yards down the sidelines to the Thunderbirds' 22.

Mike Simmons gained to the 19 on the final play of the period and on the first down of the second quarter, Tracy ducked under a pair of tacklers and lofted a pass to Schnitker who gathered it in near the goal line and stepped across. Ed Kingry then kicked the extra point.

With their breakaway game finally warmed up, the Tigers appeared on the verge of breaking it open minutes later when Tracy, the bullish quarterback, speared a punt at his own 12 and swung around the left side of a confused Wasson defense to ramble 88 yards for the second score. This time Kingry missed his conversion attempt.

The T-Birds refused to buckle under, however. Returning the kick to their own 23, they moved upfield with the aid of a pair of offsides penalties to the 41 from where Winter streaked through the center on a trap and fled to the Lakewood 20. That one was called back by an illegal proceedure penalty but Wasson immediately punched to a first down near midfield. From that point the 'Birds moved to the Lakewood 38 via a personal foul infraction and Wells then flipped a pass to Smith in the left flat which the fleet halfback carried to the Tigers' 17.

Another personal foul penalty moved the ball to the eight and Toof, running brilliantly, scooted through the left side, cut back up the middle, and shot into the end zone for the score. Wells then threw to Smith, who made a diving catch, for the extra point.

The T-Birds carried that momentum into the second half and had the partisan crowd jumping in anticipation of an upset as Wells snatched a Lakewood pass on the first play from scrimmage and returned it to the Tigers' 28. However, Wasson stalled a yard short of a first down.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Real Culprit

The contention made by a few die-hards that broadcasting national sporting events over television has resulted in dropouts at local events may have merit, but scanning over the variety of sports aired over the tube this weekend could entice even the most ardent hometown team supWhere else can the sporting buff get for the price of a few kilowatt-hours a selection of sports programs varying from auto hill climb racing to yacht ing?

From this corner we believe the real sports fan doesn't let the TV program interfere with attending local events and he depends upon television as a supplement to his keen interest in national sporting events.

A good example of this is the Air Force Academy-Notre Dame game, Oct. 10. Reports indicate a capacity crowd and the majority of the tickets were sold nearly two months ago.

Without going into great detail, there are numerous other reasons why some local events have encountered a decrease in attendance. We can point to the mountains which lure outdoor enthusiasts to its streams and lakes on weekends, but the unadulterated truth for the decline in attendance at local sporting events, we believe, is the lack of fans really interested in sports. Why point the finger solely at television for causing this situation?

Two events slated for viewing over television this weekend should prove of keen interest to the sports populace including the tape highlights of the 1964 Pikes Peak Auto Hill Climb and the Olympic track and field trials.

Both have local participants competing in them.

This morning at 9 a.m., sports fans with a flair for auto racing can arise leisurely — not at 3 a.m. as many did last July 4th — to get a choice site to view the leadfoot daredevil drivers defy the clock racing up massive 14,102 foot Pikes Peak of last year's race filmed by NBC-TV. The show is scheduled to be aired over KOAA-TV (Channel 5) via NBC' Sports special.

In addtion to re-viewing the Unser brothers and Parnelli Jones dominate the three classifications in championship, sports and stock car divisions, racing fans will get a closeup of the finely tuned auto and the drivers.

On Sunday, the tube will afford a front-row seat of the Olympic track and field trials and the Air Force Academy's ace distance runner, Jim Murphy, in action as the Falcon Flash makes a bid for a berth on the U.S. Olympic team in the 5,000 meters event.

And for Mr. an dMrs. William Strutton of Colorado Springs, and for all those who encourage young athletes, there will be special interest in the 1500 meter event. The Struttons will be pulling for their grandson, 17-year-old Jim Ryun, who will be in fast company as he attempts to become the first high school trackster to earn a berth on the U.S. Olympic team in the distance events.

JIM RYUN

We met and talked with the Wichita East high school 12th grade star this summer during his week's vacation with his grandparents. If running 100 miles per week in practice and competing against the nation's top milers could be considered a yardstick of Ryun's chances for gaining one of the two remaining berths on the U.S. Olympic 1500 meers team, Ryun should make it.

But Ryun will be facing a strong 1500 meter field in Los Angeles this weekend including Dyrol Burleson, who has already won one of the three berths, Tom O'Hara, Jim Grelle, San Romani Jr., and Bob Day.

During his visit to Colorado Springs, Ryun indicated that he thought the strategy among the 1500 meter field would be either one of two things; a race for the record or a pace race. Ryun said it would be a harder race for him to win since he feels a pace race is more suited to his ability.

In previous competition against top milers, Ryun's best time came last July 4th during the running of Olympic preliminaries trials in which he staged a spectacular fourth place finish in a field of eight at New York. Grecle edged Ryun at the tape to finish third, although both recorded identical times of 3:48.1 in the 1500 meters event. Only Burleson and O'Hara, who finished 1-2 in the July 4th race, ported better times than Ryun.

Chargers Cut Four

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The San Diego Chargers cut four players Friday, including halfback Keith Kinderman, to bring the squad to the American Football League limit of 34.

In addition to Kinderman, others waived were center Wayne Frazier and tackle Fred Moore. Rookie Linebacker Ron Carpenter was placed on the injured-deferred list.

Fountain Passes Upset Harrison 14-7

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Little Fountain, unleashing a bomb more explosive than many used in the past two World Wars, buried Harrison Friday night, 14-7, in something which at times resembled an upset and other times resembled an intra-squad scrimmage.

The final score certainly indicated an upset as the visiting Trojans, weighing no man in above 178 pounds, used two long passes to send Harrison to its first defeat of the year after the Panthers clobbered Crowley County, 46-0, just a week ago.

Despite the accurate and plentiful passing of quarterback Bill Doud, Harrison couldn't withstand halfback Jim Daniels and his first-play passes to slotback Dan Grigsby for 71 and 83 yard touchdowns.

Harrison climaxed a so-so first half with its TD drive, sending a Doud pass to end Dick Crabtree for six yards with less than half a minute left. Eddie Hook converted and the Panthers prepared for a time-consuming defense after the kick off to waste the last 10 seconds.

But Fountain didn't give the hosts a chance to get set before Grigsby had wormed his way from the 29 past the Harrison secondary and grabbed off the first Daniels pass. He then outlegged three defenders 50 yards to the goal and Daniels busted over for the extra points with the clock reading 0:00.

The play stunned the Panthers and their followers, but the start of the second half didn't show it as Harrison kept two short drives moving into Fountain territory. But the second one ended on the Trojan 17 as Joe Martinez intercepted a Doud pass and hit the turf.

Again, before the Panther defense could dig in, Grigsby outmaneuvered the secondary and brought down Daniels' second long pass. This time Harrison back Harold Oldham pursued the twisting Grigsby for 60 yards, making a desperate lunge at the 10 for the sprinter's heels. But Oldham merely skidded along thhe ground as Grigsby scored the second and decisive six-pointer. Daniels ran the extra point with an easy sweep around his right end.

Doud kept the Panthers moving with his sharp passing. And when Harrison had to give up the ball on downs, the defense kept Fountain from advancing.

Finally Doud captained his squad to the four-yard line with an 18-yard pass to Jerry Williams. But a 15-yard penalty jerked the Panthers back to the 19, where Doud couldn't land four straight passes.

With less than two minutes left, Fountain took over and ran most of the clock out. The Trojans were forced to punt with 36 seconds left, but Grigsby got on the receiving end of one of Doud's passes for Fountain's second interception and the ball game.

Grigsby, in addition to snaring the pair of passes, waltzed 33 yards in nine carries, second on his team only to Daniels' 35 yards in seven tries. Grigsby also punted five times for a 30.2 average.

Doud showed the strongest for the losers as he tossed 26 times, completing 14 for 136 yards. Harrison fullback Dick Macki and Williams kept the ground game playing at Fountain's defense, opening it up for Doud's aerials. Williams rushed 44 yards on 13 carries. Maki powered 31 yards on nine carries. Williams took five of Doud's tosses good for 55 yards.

Fountain wraps up its abbreviated non-league schedule Friday, hosting Walsenburg. Harrison travels to Castle Rock the same night in continuing its five game non-league slate.

Terrors Travel to Golden

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

To quote the two opposing coaches in today's Palmer-Golden football game: "Golden's line is fast and aggressive."

To quote Golden coach Dave Skene: "We have to watch three particular plays and players from Palmer."

To quote Palmer Coach Bill Westbay: "Golden's halfbacks did a good job against Westminster."

To quote statistics: "Palmer's line has a 16 pound per man advantage and the overall team averages give the Terrors a 10 pound advantage."

To quote a winner, however, would be, to quote Shakespeare, "the height of folly."

Palmer has been burdened with three injuries to key second-string players, making the Terror's depth more of a problem than Westbay has been figuring it would be.

Tackle Ken Lancaster was injured in last week's win over Aurora Hinkley. He was due for a starting post soon, according to Westbay. No. 2 halfback Jesse Martinez has a broken arm and runner-up fullback Mike Tracy is hobbled with an ankle sprain.

Today's game will start at 2 p.m. in Jefferson County Stadium, home of the Jefferson County League of which Golden's Demons are members.

Golden had to overcome time and a six-point deficit last week in beating Westminster, 14-6.

Both Skene and Westbay credited the Demon line with scrappy, aggressive work even though it averages 160 pounds.

"We aren't big enough to stay in and fight," says Skene. "We have to hit and move."

Skene was impressed with three plays and players as Palmer swept to a 26-13 win over Hinkley. "We feel we must stop fullback Ben Bryant on the belly play, halfback Dennis Bair on traps and off-tackle plays, and quarterback Larry Williams on the belly keeper option.

"We were impressed with Williams as a signal-caller."

On the Terror line, Skene says the most-feared player is guard John Van Druff. "He probably ranks with the better guards in the state," Skene praises.

Westbay is watching halfbacks Craig Goodell and John Kremelmeyer. Both weigh about as much as the light Demon forward wall, but Skene claims speed will make a difference, at least in the case of Goodell.

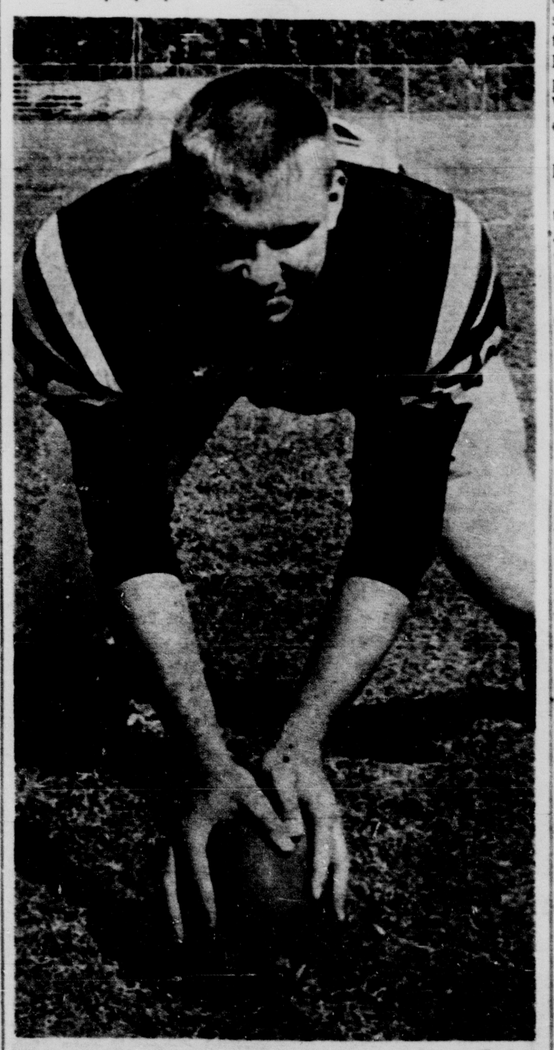
"Craig runs the 100 in 10.5 or 10.6. Others are just about average." He is the brother of starting left end Mark Goodell, who at 160, outweighs Craig by 10 pounds.

The line of the northern squad is led by center Derryl Wood, who doubles at defensive end.

Bair gave a good set of statistics to scare the Demons. He gained 65 yards on 10 calries, including a 28-yard TD scamper. Bryant churned off yardage in consistent spurts with 66 yards in 14 carries against Hinkley's Thunderbirds.

Palmer's offensive line shows much heavier weights in spots than Golden. Center Ron Smith tops everyone on either squad at 214. Van Druff weighs in at 199. Heaviest man for the Demons is tackle Russ Scharf at 180. Skene says he will play two heavier boys (210 and 190 on defense.

Lightest starter for either this is Palmer guard Harold Hopshow almost-equal poundage, with Golden giving away just a pound. Bryant holds just a three-pound advantage over Golden fullback Wayne Andrews, who weighs 170.



HEAVIEST PLAYER — Palmer center Ron Smith will be the heaviest player on either team today when the Terrors play Golden at 2 p.m. in Jefferson County Stadium. Smith weighs 214 and anchors a line which outweighs Golden's wall by 16 pounds per man.

Widefield Edges Brighton On Non-League Tilt, 19-12

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

A spirited Widefield grid team showing earmarks of superb coaching and displaying brilliant first half tactics, stormed back from last week's campaign opener loss as the Gladiators handled visiting Brighton, 19-12, Friday night to post their first triumph under new head coach Norm Theiss.

It was doubly rewarding for the veteran coach of 12 campaign as he witnessed his Gladiators come alive to trounce their opponents and saw the Widefield forward attack move smoothly in the first half under the direction of his 17-year-old son, Dave Theiss.

Some 1,600 hometown fans were thrilled with the Widefield charges' first half performance as the Gladiators moved the ball for score all three touchdowns.

But the second half brought out an aroused Bulldog eleven as the Brighton team dominated the offense during that time and scored its second TD the final period. Fumbles plagued both teams but it was Steve Hughes' defensive play and coming up with a key fumble in the third period which prevented the Brighton aggregation from scoring as they marched down to the Widefield 26-yard line.

Offensively, the Gladiators were led by two hard running back, Eldon Lee and fullback Tom Nigbur, who was the game's top ground gainer with 103 net yards rushing. The 208-pound junior fullback picked up 93 yards rushing by intermission time but the Bulldogs dominated control of the ball during the second half and Nigbur only lugged the pigskin three move times in the game.

JUST A BABY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League has only eight teams in 1933 and 1943.

Nigbur scored the first TD on a 46-yard run from scrimmage as the big fullback displayed great speed. He again scored in the second period on a 38-yard jaunt and the Gladiators' third TD came on an eight-yard airial from Theiss to Hughes.

Brighton's scored in the first period on Rick Bohlender's one-yard plune and jitter - bugging quarterback Ron Buchanan hit paydirt in the final period on a five-yard run.

The Gladiators controled the sky in the first two periods as Theiss and Lee combined to lead the Widefield aerial attack with short and long bombs. However, the Bulldogs came back in the second half and both Bohlender and Buchanan completed three passes each to total 68 yards gained passing.

Emil Zeiler was the Bulldogs top ground gainer as the speedy halfback picked up 28 yards in five carries. Overall, the Bulldogs gained 121 yards rushing and 68 yard passing for a total of 189 yards.

Widefield picked up 189 yards rushing and 39 passing for a total of 228 yards.

Prep Gridder Dies of Injury

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—Ronald Weeks, 16-year-old Wenatchee High School junior, died Thursday night of a head injury suffered during a supervised football practice two days earlier.

Coach Tom Byrne said Weeks, a halfback, was hurt when he was tackled as he carried the ball. The youth, who never regained consciousness, was wearing the required safety equipment, including headgear, Byrne said.

Joe Cornell In RMKC Top Feature

Joe Cornell, the Cen-Tex Kennel's red brindle dog that brought in the last half of the Daily Double last Wednesday night, gets a chance at the big time competition tonight as he joins the hot box crowd in the featured ninth race at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club.

In his last effort out he broke from the five box into third position, was in second place at the ¼ marker and a half length ahead in the stretch. He finished a good length ahead of Careless Heart and Resayde.

He joins company tonight with T.V. Hoss from the George Murphey Kennel; one of the Cecil Wilson greyhounds, Fred French; Frank Pierce's Just Elmer; Pie Oully from the Larry Hughes kennel; Shamrock Kennel's Rushaway Spot; Joe Mannino's Amprex; and Cheyenne's Rex from the Alderson and Lentz string.

Cheyenne's Rex in the second race on the inaugural card this season, ran the Peak Course at the fastest time that the current meet has seen, 32.24 seconds, and a time that he has not equaled yet again this season. The record for the Peak Course first used in the 1963 meet, is 31.80 which was set on Sept. 4, 1963 by Cleveland's Choice, a greyhound that is in the competition on the RMKC oval this year.

Curtis Cup Matches Square After First Day's Action

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP)—The golfing girls of Britain and the United States ended the first half of the two-day 1964 Curtis Cup competition Friday all square and left an excited gallery of 5,000 talking about Ruth Porter's eight-foot putt that evened the score.

The United States led 4½-3½ as Miss Porter and Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla., battled it out over the 6,140 yard Royal Porthcawl course on the shore of the Bristol Channel in the last match of the day.

The crowd which swelled from a sunny morning's 3,000 to an overcast afternoon's 5,000 swept around the Porter-Roth struggle. Miss Porter was 2-up after 15 and the match appeared a certainty for Britain.

Then Miss Roth got one hole back at the 17th, where her opponent missed a five-foot putt. The two players came down to the home green and with them came the crowd, one of the largest in the 33-year history of the Curtis Cup.

Miss Roth was on in two with an 18-footer for a birdie. Miss Porter was short in two. She pitched to within eight feet. Then the American girl went for the cup but rolled four feet by.

Miss Porter calmly sank her eight-footer for a 1-up triumph that made the day's score 4½ points for each team.

Friday's six singles and three Scotch foursome all were over 18 holes. Saturday's program will be the same.

The Americans have won eight matches and the British two, with two series halved, since the championship was started in 1932. Two years ago in Colorado Springs, Colo., the United Stats won, 8-1.

After the British had taken a surprising 2-1 edge in the morning Scotch foursomes, in which two members of a team hit the same ball alternately, the Americans quickly pulled ahead in the singles after lunch.

JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle outdrove Angela Bonallack and counted to a 6 and 5 victory. Miss Gunderson was as much as 30 yards ahead of the English girl off the tee, and that was the difference.

Barbara McIntire, the U.S. champion, and Marley Spearman, the English champion, fought a nail-biting battle. At no time did either player lead by more than one hole.

Mrs. Spearman squared the match on the 14th with a birdie two, and then took the 17th after Miss McIntire wound up in a bunker behind the green. The English champion came to the 18th one hole up, and that was where Miss McIntire produced the kind of shot a champion can make.

She hit a three-wood to 10 feet from the hole on her second shot. Then she banged the putt in for a birdie three that halved the match.

Peggy Conley, the 17-year-old from Spokane, Wash., who is the youngest ever to play in the Curtis Cup competition, suffered early nerves but conquered them and defeated Scottish champion Joan Lawrence, 1 up.

Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La., came in with a handy 3 and 2 vicory over Julia Greenhalgh, and Bridget Jackson overcame Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., 4 and 3. Everything then hinged on the Porter-Roth match.

Miss Porter sank that tricky putt at the end and officials predicted that the play had become so dynamic that Saturday's crowd would be "anything up to 10,000."

Prep Gridder Dies of Injury

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Ronald Weeks, 16-year-old Wenatchee High School junior, died Thursday night of a head injury suffered during a supervised football practice two days earlier.

Coach Tom Byrne said Weeks, a halfback, was hurt when he was tackled as he carried the ball. The youth, who never regained consciousness, was wearing the required safety equipment, including headgear, Byrne said.

Phillies Bombed For Series Stubs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, bombarded by telephone calls and letters about World Series tickets, said Friday they will announce plans for accepting such applications next Wednesday.

On that date the National League leaders will have 17 games still to play.

The Phillies were the only club in the senior circuit authorized by baseball Commissioner Ford Frick to print World Series tickets. New York, Baltimore and Chicago in the American also were authorized to get tickers ready in case one of those clubs wins the pennant.

Joe Cornell In RMKC Top Feature

Joe Cornell, the Cen-Tex Kennel's red brindle dog that brought in the last half of the Daily Double last Wednesday night, gets a chance at the big time competition tonight as he joins the hot box crowd in the featured ninth race at the Rocky Mountain Kennel Club.

In his last effort out he broke from the five box into third position, was in second place at the ¼ marker and a half length ahead in the stretch. He finished a good length ahead of Careless Heart and Resayde.

He joins company tonight with T.V. Hoss from the George Murphey Kennel; one of the Cecil Wilson greyhounds, Fred French; Frank Pierce's Just Elmer; Pie Cully from the Larry Hughes' kennel; Shamrock Kennel's Rushaway Spot; Joe Mamuno's Amperex; and Cheyenne's Rex from the Anderson and Lentz string.

Cheyenne's Rex in the second race on the inaugural card this season, ran the Peak Course at the fastest time that the current meet has seen, 32.24 seconds, and a time that he has not equaled yet again this season. The record for the Peak Course first used in the 1963 meet, is 31.90 which was set on Sept. 4, 1963 by Cleveland's Choice, a greyhound that is in the competition on the RMKC oval this year.

Curtis Cup Matches Square After First Day's Action

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP) — The golfing girls of Britain and the United States ended the first half of the two-day 1964 Curtis Cup competition Friday all square and left an excited gallery of 5,000 talking about Ruth Porter's eight-foot putt that evened the score.

The United States led 4½-3½ as Miss Porter and Nancy Roth of Hollywood, Fla., battled it out over the 6,149 yard Royal Porthcawl course on the shore of the Bristol Channel in the last match of the day.

The crowd which swelled from a sunny morning's 3,000 to an overcast afternoon's 5,000 swept around the Porter-Roth struggle. Miss Porter was 3-up after 16 and the match appared a certainty for Britain.

Then Miss Roth got one hole back at the 17th, where her opponent missed a five-foot putt. The two players came down to the home green and with them came the crowd, one of the largest in the 33-year history of the Curtis Cup.

Miss Roth was on in two with an 18-footer for a birdie. Miss Porter was short in two. She pitched to within eight feet. Then the American girl went for the cup but rolled four feet by.

Miss Porter calmly sank her eight-footer for a 1-up triumph that made the day's score 4½ points for each team.

Friday's six singles and three Scotch foursome all were over 18 holes. Saturday's program will be the same.

The Americans have won eight matches and the British two, with two series halved, since the championship was started in 1932. Two years ago in Colorado Springs, Colo., the United Stats won, 8-1.

After the British had taken a surprising 2-1 edge in the morning Scotch foursomes, in which two members of a team hit the same ball alternately, the Americans quickly pulled ahead in the singles after lunch.

JoAnne Gunderson of Seattle outdrove Angela Bonallack and coasted to a 6 and 5 victory. Miss Gunderson was as much as 50 yards ahead of the English girl off the tee, and that was the difference.

Barbara McIntire, the U.S. champion, and Marley Spearman, the English champion, fought a nail-biting battle. At no time did either player lead by more than one hole.

Mrs. Spearman squared the match on the 14th with a birdie two, and then took the 17th after Miss McIntire wound up in a bunker behind the green. The English champion came to the 18th one hole up, and that was where Miss McIntire produced the kind of shot a champion can make.

She hit a three-wood to 10 feet from the hole on her second shot. Then she banged the putt in for a birdie three that halved the match.

Peggy Conley the 17-year-old from Spokane, Wash., who is the youngest ever to play in the Curtis Cup competition, suffered early nerves but conquered them and defeated Scottish champion Joan Lawrence, 1 up.

Barbara Fay White of Shreveport, La., came in with a handy 3 and 2 vicory over Julia Greenhalgh, and Bridget Jackson overcame Carol Sorenson of Janesville, Wis., 4 and 3. Everything then hinged on the Porter-Roth match.

Miss Porter sank that tricky putt at the end and officials predicted that the play had become so dynamic that Saturday's crowd would be "anything up to 10,000."

Curtis Cup Results
Scotch Foursomes

Carol Sorenson, Janesville, Wis., and Barbara Fay White, Shreveport, La., defeated Bridget Jackson and Susan Armitage, Britain, 1 up, and 4.

Ruth Porter and Sheila Vaughan, British, defeated Jackson Granbery, Seattle, and Nancy Roth, Hollywood, Fla., 3 and 2.

Pros Playing for Keeps This Week

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The pros start playing for keeps this weekend which means all those questions confronting the 22 coaches in the National and American Football Leagues are about to be answered.

The big questions, of course, hover over the heads of two of pro football's biggest names — Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants and Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers.

Can Y. A., possessor of football's most remarkable arm, lead the Giants to an unprecedented fourth straight Eastern Conference title? Will a year's layoff dull the reflexes and slow up the tremendous running and scoring ability of Hornung?

Can the defending NFL champion Chicago Bears offset the loss of running back Willie Galimore and end John Farrington, killed in an automobile accident?

Has the rest of the AFL caught up with the San Diego Chargers, who made a runaway race of the Western Division race last year? Will the prediction of Coach Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets that an 8-6 record can win in the East hold true?

The answers to these and other questions won't come immediately, of course, but pigskin followers will have a better idea after this big weekend, highlighted by a head-to-head meeting of the Bears and Packers.

The two giants of the game clash at Green Bay Sunday. Bears Coach George Halas hopes that Jon Arnett, acquired from Los Angeles, will make up for the team's running back shortage.

The return of tight end Mike Ditka, who missed some pre-season games with a sore shoulder, strengthens the Bears, whose running game is further hampered by Rick Casares' bad leg.

Hornung has looked like his old self in exhibition games and his presence makes the Packers favorite. The Packers defeated the Bears 21-7 in a pre-season game.

Tittle will go all the way for the first time this year. The 37-year-old wizard has thrown more touchdown passes than any rival in his 17 years as a pro. The Giants' opponents Sunday are the Philadelphia Eagles, who have a rebuilt team with Norm Snead new at quarterback and Joe Kuarich the new coach.

Three of the 11 openers, two in the AFL, take place Saturday night.

The St. Louis Cards and Dallas Cowboys jump the NFL gun in the Texas city. The Sunday meetings pit Cleveland at Washington, Baltimore at Minnesota, Los Angeles at Pittsburgh, Detroit at San Francisco, Chicago at Green Bay and New York at Philadelphia.

The Jets and Denver Broncos start the AFL all bouncing at New York Saturday night in which Shea Stadium makes its debut as a football arena.

Three hours later, the Houston Oilers and Chargers clash at San Diego. Sunday AFL games pit Kansas City at Buffalo and Boston at Oakland.

Jacky Lee, formerly with Houston, makes his debut as qaurterback for Denver which boasts a strong running threat in Billy Joe, last year's rookie of the year.

The Jets will depend on a passing game with Dick Wood throwing to Bake Turner and Don Maynard. Their new running hope is Matt Snell, rookie fullback from Ohio State.

The Oilers-Chargers game figures to be a battle of old quarterbacks. Tobin Rote still leads the Chargers' attack and George Blanda figures to do nearly all the passing and kicking for the Oilers.

Kansas City has been impressive in pre-season games and is regarded as the biggest threat to San Diego for the Western title. Len Dawson is the Chiefs' biggest offensive threat. The Bills, a disappointment last year, pin their hopes on Cookie Gilchrist, their fierce running fullback.

Oakland has Clem Daniels, a threat as a runner and receiver and Tom Flores, a fast rising quarterback. Boston, beset by injuries, has had a disastrous training season. Whether they have a good or bad season depends on Babe Parilli's arm and Gino Cappelletti's toe.

The Cards have a strong running game and a fine aerial attack, Charley Johnson to either Bobby Joe Conrad or Sonny Randle.

Dallas, which helped its offense by the acquisition of star pass catchers Tommy McDonald and Buddy Dial, suffered a setback when quarterback Don Meredith came up with a knee injury.

The Browns, with a pre-season 4-1 record, have acquired running help for Jim Brown in Paul Warfield of Ohio State.

The revamped Redskins strengthened their offense and defense with Sonny Jurgensen at quartrback and Sam Huff at middle linebacker.

The return of Alex Karras after a year's absence gives the Lions perhaps the strongest front four in the league. The 49ers' 1964 hopes are a bit brighter because of the availability of quarterback John Brodie, out with injuries most of last year.

The Colts still have one of the best in quarterback Johnny Unitas. Fullback Tony Lorick has been outstanding throughout the exhibitions. The Vikings, only unbeaten team in the exhibitions, again will rely on quarterback Frank Tarkenton a severe blow by the crippling injuries to linebackers Myron Pattors and Bob Harrison filling in for the injured Rams will pin their hopes on Pattois and Bob Harrison. The Roman Gabriel.

Packers Over Chicago In Key Opening Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Paul Hornung will start playing for keeps Sunday and the Green Bay Packers will make the Chicago Bears pay up for last year's indignities in the most important game of the weekend openers in pro football.

Forget the pre-season exhibition game between the two ancient rivals, won by the Packers 21-7, this is for real. Vince Lombardi and his crew will be all whipped up for a rugged battle with that savage Bear defense.

The Bears started on their way to the title last year by upsetting the Packers in another opening day game, 10-3, but not this time.

The National Football League has one Saturday night opener when the highly regarded St. Louis Cardinals play in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas against the pass-minded Cowboys.

Sunday action in the NFL finds the New York Giants, who beat only Philadelphia in the exhibition season, starting the defense of their Eastern Conference title against the same Eagles at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

The Washington Redskins will be at home to Cleveland's flashy offense. Baltimore will be at Minnesota to give the Vikings, 5-0 in exhibitions, a stern threat. Detroit opens at San Francisco and Los Angeles at Pittsburgh.

The American Football League, buoyed by forthcoming new television money, starts its fifth season with two Saturday night games and two Sunday. The defending champion San Diego Chargers will be at home to Houston in one Saturday game and the New York Jets, the surprise of the exhibition season, play their first game at new Shea Stadium home against Denver. In the Sunday games Kansas City will be at Buffalo and Boston at Oakland.

Here's the way it looks from here for the openers: (All games Sunday unless otherwise noted):

NFL

St. Louis 21, Dallas 13 (Saturday night) — Cards' Charley Johnson throws too many bombs for the Cowboy defense. Dallas still trying to get organized on offense.

Green Bay 17, Chicago 7 — Hornung and Co. control the ball against the Bears. George Halas still having problems with attack. Winner of this should go on to Western title.

Cleveland 24, Washington 20 — Browns' new air arm, with Paul Warfield added to receiving corps, balances Jim Brown's ground punch. Sonny Jurgensen, Bobby Mitchell and Charley Taylor will make it close. Chance for an upset.

New York 28, Philadelphia 17 — Y. A. Tittle finally swings into action for a full day. Eagles tougher on defense but still experimenting.

Los Angeles 21, Pittsburgh 17 — A toughie. Rams have been erratic on attack with rookie Bill Munson doing best job. Steelers have shown little punch and defense not up to par.

Detroit 21, San Francisco 7 — Terry Barr and Gail Cogdill to pick on 49ers deep defense while big rush line gives John Brodie and Georgie Mira a tough day.

AFL

San Diego 35, Houston 21 (Saturday night) — Chargers ready to start rolling again with Keith Lincoln and Co. taking dead aim at experimenting Oilers.

New York 21, Denver 17 — Jets primed for top-flight effort in bow at new stadium, with Dick Wood in best form of career. Jets might run it up.

Buffalo 17, Kansas City 14 — Bills reverse earlier exhibition score by outshining Abner Haynes. Buffalo's home jinx and pass defense clicks give Chiefs big chance but this should be Buffalo's year.

Oakland 21, Boston 7 — Al Davis' "Poor Little Raiders" are red hot again and Patriots haven't even won an exhibition game.

WHICH IS WHICH?—That's the problem that confronts Rutgers University football coach John Bateman at the school's campus in New Brunswick, N.J. Actually it was for the benefit of the photographer. Coach knows that the Kenny twins of Closter, N.J., are Bob (left) and Ron. The twins are sophomores at Rutgers. Bob is 6-3 and weighs 205 pounds. He is a quarterback. Ron is also 6-3 and weighs 225 pounds, playing tackle. The twins are 19 years old.

Quarterbacks In Key Role For Collegiate Grid Opener

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The role of a quarterback in football is a key one and this should be especially true Saturday when UCLA and Pitt open the 1964 season in Pitt Stadium.

Displaying their wares before an expected crowd of 35,000-40,000 and a national television (NBC) audience will be UCLA's Larry Zeno and the panthers' Fred Mazurek.

Temperatures in the 70s and rain are forecast for the game, which will begin at 12 p.m. EST.

Rain might slow down the passing of the two senior quarterbacks but it's doubtful if it will keep them out of the spotlight. Both do several things well.

Zeno, the Bruins' total offense leader the past two seasons, completed 77 of 154 passes for 1,036 yards and six touchdowns in 1963. He ran for 173 yards.

Mazurek set a Pitt total offense record of 1,595 yards last season. He completed 127 passes for 940 yards and five touchdowns and ran for 646 yards and seven touchdowns.

Both teams also have top back-up quarterbacks. Steve Sindell is behind Zeno and Mazurek's replacement is Kenny Lucas. Both are excellent passers.

Pitt, favored to win, has 20 lettermen returning from last year's nationally third-ranked team which won nine of 10 games, the best Panther record since 1937. One of the victories was a 20-0 trouncing of UCLA, the Panthers' fourth in six games with the Bruins.

UCLA posted a 2-8 mark in 1963. The one bright spot was a 14-0 victory over Washington which went to the Rose Bowl.

Things figure to be much better for UCLA this year with 23 lettermen returning and some promising junior college transfers on the team.

Should their aerial games go sour, both Zeno and Mazurek have several capable backs to hand off to.

Top Bruin ball-carriers include Mike Haffner, Nike Nelson, Jim Colletto and Cornell Champion.

College Player Suffers Fatal Seizure in Drill

SWEETWATER, Tenn. (AP) — A Tennessee Military Institute football player suffered a fatal seizure during a warmup drill preceding the team's regular practice session Friday.

James Kuntz Weber III, 17, described by assistant coach John Biddle as a "picture of health," died at Sweetwater Hospital at 4:15 p.m., 30 minutes after he collapsed on the practice field.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Weber Jr. of Louisville, Ky.

"Jim was the picture of health," Biddle said. "He underwent a physical examination before practice began the first of the week and there was no sign at all of any trouble."

Biddle said Weber had been on the field about 15 minutes when he collapsed. "He had not engaged in any contact work and had just finished a passing drill."

Young Weber, a halfback, was also on the school wrestling team.

Practice sessions were suspended indefinitely following the death.

Rich Golf Series Set For Today

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ken Venturi and Arnold Palmer were rated co-favorites on the eve of the World Series of Golf which stars Saturday over the famed Firestone course here with $50,000 the prize for first place.

There are only four in the field, all champions. The others are Bobby Nichols and Tony Lema.

Second place gets $15,000, and third and fourth each receive $5,000.

Venturi qualified for he select group by winning the U.S. Open. Palmer won the Masters and qualified for a berth here while Nichols took the PGA and Lema the British Open. This is a 36-hole tournament, 18 each on Saturday and Sunday.

The battle of the golf titans will be televised by National Broadcasting Corporation, with Saturday's show starting at 3:30 p.m., EST.

Venturi had an unusual complaint about the course.

"We held the Akron Classic on this same golf course only a month ago," he said. "All four of us were in it.

"I think we ought to play on a neutral course or maybe four 18-hole rounds on four different courses."

And who won the Akron Classic? Venturi. And with a score of 275, on four rounds that the golfers hemselves are still talking about.

That indicated that Venturi can play Firestone and stamped him on a par with Palmer. Palmer has scored five seconds and two thirds in his last seven tournaments, although he has not won since May.

Palmer is the only one in the field who has played before in the World Series, which the absent Jack Nicklaus won boh previous years.

Venturi pointed out that for players in the tax bracket enjoyed by this group, the government will be the big winner.

"If you win the Open, you go on collecting for years, bcause of the prestige," Venturi said. "But here it's only money."

At the sound of that Venturi, who didn't make candy fees in his slump years, laughed.

U.S. Track Stars In Olympic Trials

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The final process of selecting the greatest track and field team ever assembled — the team that will represent this country in the 1964 Olympics — begins Saturday in the vast reaches of the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Some 140 of the United States' premier athletes will compete for 60 spots in 20 events on the team for Tokyo in a two-day carnival that ends Sunday.

"I don't think there's any question about it," said George Eastment, chairman of the U.S. Olympic track and field committee and a long-time coach.

"This will be the finest track team ever put together."

How about that 1948 U.S. Olympic team, he was asked, the team that cornered a record 15 gold medals?

"Most of those people couldn't even make this team," Eastment said Friday as the athletes went through their final preparations in suburban Pomona.

The field for these final Olympic trials represents the survivors from a series of stringent eliminations, capped by the preliminary trials at New York's Randall's Island a month ago.

The selections are made in this fashion: The winner of the New York trials has a spot on the team for Tokyo, providing only that he demonstrates through his performance here that he is still in shape and has retained his competitive edge. The next two finishers in each event also make the tam, provided they meet the Olympic standards, automatic in almost every case.

It's that simple. The second and third place men go. The fourth place man stays home.

Competition is so severe that bob Hayes, the only man in the world to run a 9.1 100-yard dash, and ple vault would record holder Fred Hansen have yet to make the team.

Hayes, principal U.S. hope to regain lost Olympic sprint supremacy, did not run in New York because of a leg injury. He's reported fit and ready to go in these trials.

Hansen, who set a record 17 feet 4 inches in winning the Russia-U.S. meet, was fourth in the New York trials.

Their attempts to make the team will furnish a couple of highlights along with Sunday's 1,500 meter test, an event that should provide the U.S. with it's finest field ever.

Dyrol Burleson of Oregon made it through the New York trials, but has to prove it again against a field that includes Chicago red-head Tom O'Mara, Wichita schoolboy Jim Ryun, Jim Grelle, Archie San Romani and Robert Day, all sub-four minute milers.

Then, too, there's the 10,000-meter test with Spokane schoolboy Gerry Lindgren, sensation of the Russian meet, and veteran Pete McArdle of New York. And the last-gasp chance of veteran Jim Beatty, once among this country's best milers, to grab a spot on the 5,000 meter team.

Because of the trimmed down fields there are no preliminaries or heats. All events are finals. Saturday's schedule has the start of the decathlon, the 100 and 400 meter dashes, the 110 meter hurdles, 3,000 meter steeplechase, 10,000 meter run, pole vault, broad jump, hammer throw and shot put.

Roman Brother Is Favored In Inaugural Sweepstakes

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — Where the money is, Roman Brother goes.

And that is the reason some 50,000 fans and a national television audience will see the rugged little colt from the Harbor View Farm in action Saturday in the first running of the $125,000-added New Hampshire Sweepstakes at Rockingham Park.

"We ackled the likes of Northern Dancer, Quadrangle and Hill Rise early in the season without too much success," said trainer Burley Parke Friday, after sending Roman Brother one-half mile in 50 sconds.

"Then we decided their were so many other rich stakes that we would try and duck the big boys. The record will show that we have been successful financially. And that is why we are here for the sweepstaks."

After opening the season in Florida, whre he won the Bahamas and Everglades at Hialeah Park, Roman Brother tried the division leaders for size in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes, with his best showing a second to Quadrangle in the Belmont.

In between he won the rich Jersey Derby at Garden State Park and later went to the Midwest. He captured the heavily endowed American Derby in his last effor, and has an over-all 1964 record of four victories, all in stakes, four seconds and three thirds for earnings of $304,542.

Saturay he'll take on 10 other 3-year-olds under topweight of 123 pounds in a 1 3-16 mile race on which is based the first legalized sweepstakes in American horse racing history. The distribution of $1.8 million will depend on the outcome.

Post time is 4:50 pm EST with national television (ABC) set for 4:40 pm.

Pitt Star Must Beat Stauback for Honors

By SANDY PADWE

PITTSBURGH — (NEA) — The startling thing about Fred Mazurek is his sensitivity — the deep, brooding kind a person would more readily understand in an artist or a musician.

You see it every time the Pitt quarterback walks past a magazine rack, every time he reads a paper and every time people tell him he'll have to pull a miracle to defeat Navy's Roger Staubach in the All-America balloting.

"I know I'm fucking something tough," Mazurek said, "and I know all about Staubach and what people think of my chances for All-America.

"I try to forget it but I can't because everwhere I go something reminds me of it. Making All-America means a lot to me. I've thought about it ever since I started playing."

That was in Republic, Pa., a town about 30 miles south of Pittsburgh where you either leave or wind up in the mines.

Mazurek got out, but he was one of the lucky ones because he almost died during his sophomore year in high school when he collapsed in a game. He had a blood clot on the brain and for 12 days the doctors weren't sure if he might survive.

After his recovery, the doctors told him to rest for a while, but it didn't do much good because when basketball season started there was Mazurek — outfitted with a special helmet.

When he finally was ready for college he chose Pitt because it offered promise, and that was one of the things he had been thinking of since his narrow escape in high school.

"I didn't stay in pre-med long, though," Mazurek said. "I just get too upset when I see people sick and dying. I thought I would overcome this fear, but I never did."

He's a psychology major now and lately he's been doing a lot of wondering — respectful wondering, of course — about the people who choose All-America teams.

"I know that for me to make it," he said, "I must have a great year. But Roger might do things wrong and it won't matter much because of all the backing he has.

"I understand about the publicity and I know what my chances are but if I don't play up to All-America standards this year I won't mind about missing it."

Mazurek starts his campaign before a national VT audience against UCLA Saturday and will have another direct confrontation with Staubach Oct. 24 at Pitt Stadium.

Pitt's only loss in 1963 was to Navy, 24-12, and three Mazurek interceptions led to a Middie field goal and two touchdowns. Staubach, meanwhile, had another great afternoon, completing 14 of 19 passes.

"I know I looked bad that day and because of that so did the team," Mazurek said, "but I still feel we were best in the country last year."

John Michelosen, the Pitt coach, usually confines his comments to the weather and other equally challenging subjects, but when he's asked about Mazurek he does a Dr. Jekyll.

"I wouldn't trade him for any quarterback in the country," Michelosen said. "I know one thing. There isn't a better running quarterback."

That may be, but college football has changed in its battle to match the pros and the trend is toward the offense.

This is why Roger Staubach has the edge. He's a great passer. Mazurek is the runner.

Okay Expected For Title Bout In Boston Ring

BOSTON (AP) — The way was reported cleared Friday for a Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight championship match in Boston Garden Nov. 16 or 17.

"It's all in the hands of the Massachusetts Boxing Commission, but I expect it will be resolved over the weekend," Promoter Sam Silverman said.

Silverman has been mentioned as a possible co-promoter of the fight along with Inter-Continental Promotions, headed by Jack and Bob Nilon.

The Boston Record American said the decision already has been made and the boxing commission will sanction the contracts next Monday.

The newspaper added that the Massachusetts Boxing Commission would withdraw from the World Boxing Association, which has opposed the match.

The association includes boxing officials of 47 states, excluding New York, California and Nevada. It has threatened to strip Clay of his title if he under takes a re-match with Liston.

Finley Asks Attorney Gen. To Probe Sale of Yankees

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, said Friday he has asked the U.S. Attorney General's office to investigate possible antitrust violation in purchase of the New York Yankees baseball club by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Finley said Arthur C. Allyn of the Chicago White Sox were the only two American League club owners to vote against ratification of the Yankees' sale Wednesday at a Boston meeting of club owners.

"I have asked the attorney general's office for an investigation, as quickly as possible, for the good of baseball," Finley said.

"If baseball has made any mistake, it should be rectified immediately. If not, that, too, should be established as soon as possible."

Finley said he feels the CBS purchase should not have been consummated. He said that Ford Frick, the baseball commissioner, told club owners before the Boston vote was taken that baseball lawyers had advised him that the deal involved a "calculated risk."

The Athletics' owner said the opinion came from Paul Porter, legal adviser to Frick, and Lee Carroll, attorney for the National League.

Finley said he sent a telegram requesting Department of Justice action after a telephone conversation with William G. Orrick, an assistant attorney general in the antitrust division.

Pros Playing for Keeps This Week

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The pros startq playing for keeps this weekend which means all those questions confronting the 22 coaches in the National and American Football Leagues are about to be answered.

The big questions, of course, hover over the heads of two of pro football's biggest names — Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants and Paul Hornung of the Green Bay Packers.

Can Y. A., possessor of football's most remarkable arm, lead the Giants to an unprecedented fourth straight Eastern Conference title? Will a year's layoff dull the reflexes and slow up the tremendous running and scoring ability of Hornung?

Can the defending NFL champion Chicago Bears offset the loss of running back Willie Gallimore and end John Farrington, killed in an automobile accident?

Has the rest of the AFL caught up with the San Diego Chargers, who made a runaway race of the Western Division race last year? Will the prediction of Coach Weeb Ewbank of the New York Jets that an 8-6 record can win in the East hold true?

The answers to these and other questions won't come immediately, of course, but pigskin followers will have a better idea after this big weekend, highlighted by a head-to-head meeting of the Bears and Packers.

The two giants of the game clash at Green Bay Sunday. Bears Coach George Halas hopes that Jon Arnett, acquired from Los Angeles, will make up for the team's running back shortage.

The return of tight end Mike Ditka, who missed some preseason games with a sore shoulder, strengthens the Bears, whose running game is further hampered by Rick Casares' bad leg.

Hornung has looked like his old self in exhibition games and his presence makes the Packers favorite. The Packers defeated the Bears 21-7 in a pre-season game.

Tittle will go all the way for the first time this year. The 37-year-old wizard has thrown more touchdown passes than any rival in his 17 years as a pro. The Giants' opponents Sunday are the Philadelphia Eagles, who have a rebuilt team with Norm Snead new at quarterback and Joe Kuarich the new coach.

Three of the 11 openers, two in the AFL, take place Saturday night.

The St. Louis Cards and Dallas Cowboys jump the NFL gun in the Texas city. The Sunday meetings pit Cleveland at Washington, Baltimore at Minnesota, Los Angeles at Pittsburgh, Detroit at San Francisco, Chicago at Green Bay and New York at Philadelphia.

The Jets and Denver Broncos start the AFL all bouncing at New York Saturday night in which Shea Stadium makes its debut as a football arena.

Three hours later, the Houston Oilers and Chargers clash at San Diego. Sunday AFL games pit Kansas City at Buffalo and Boston at Oakland.

Jacky Lee, formerly with Houston, makes his debut as qaurterback for Denver which boasts a strong running threat in Billy Joe, last year's rookie of the year.

The Jets will depend on a passing game with Dick Wood throwing to Bake Turner and Don Maynard. Their new running hope is Matt Snell, rookie fullback from Ohio State.

The Oilers-Chargers game figures to be a battle of old quarterbacks. Tobin Rote still leads the Chargers' attack and George Blanda figures to do nearly all the passing and kicking for the Oilers.

Kansas City has been impressive in pre-season games and is regarded as the biggest threat to San Diego for the Western title. Len Dawson is the Chiefs' biggest offensive threat. The Bills, a disappointment last year, pin their hopes on Cookie Gilchrist, their fierce running fullback.

Oakland has Clem Daniels, a threat as a runner and receiver and Tom Flores, a fast rising quarterback. Boston, beset by injuries, has had a disastrous training season. Whether they have a good or bad season depends on Babe Parilli's arm and Gino Cappelletti's toe.

The Cards have a strong running game and a fine aerial attack, Charley Johnson to either Bobby Joe Conrad or Sonny Randle.

Dallas, which helped its offense by the acquisition of star pass catchers Tommy McDonald and Buddy Dial, suffered a setback when quarterback Don Meredith came up with a knee injury.

The Browns, with a pre-season 4-1 record, have acquired running help for Jim Brown in Paul Warfield of Ohio State.

The revamped Redskins strengthened their offense and defense with Sonny Jurgensen at quartrback and Sam Huff at middle linebacker.

The return of Alex Karras after a year's absence gives the Lions perhaps the strongest front four in the league. The 49ers' 1964 hopes are a bit brighter because of the availability of quarterback John Brodie, out with injuries most of last year.

The Colts still have one of the best in quarterback Johnny Unitas. Fullback Tony Lorick has been outstanding throughout the exhibitions. The Vikings, only unbeaten team in the exhibitions, again will rely on quarterback Frank Tarkenton a severe blow by the crippling injuries to linebackers Myron Pattors and Bob Harrison filling in for the injured Rams will pin their hopes on Pattois and Bob Harrison. The Roman Gabriel.

Packers Over Chicago In Key Opening Game

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Paul Hornung will start playing for keeps Sunday and the Green Bay Packers will make the Chicago Bears pay up for last year's indignities in the most important game of the weekerid openers in pro football.

Forget the pre-season exhibition game between the two ancient rivals, won by the Packers 21-7, this is for real. Vince Lombardi and his crew will be all whipped up for a rugged battle with that savage Bear defense.

The Bears started on their way to the title last year by upsetting the Packers in another opening day game, 10-3, but not this time.

The National Football League has one Saturday night opener when the highly regarded St. Louis Cardinals play in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas against the pass-minded Cowboys.

Sunday action in the NFL finds the New York Giants, who beat only Philadelphia in the exhibition season, starting the defense of their Eastern Conference title against the same Eagles at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

The Washington Redskins will be at home to Cleveland's flashy offense. Baltimore will be at Minnesota to give the Vikings, 5-0 in exhibitions, a stern threat. Detroit opens at San Francisco and Los Angeles at Pittsburgh.

The American Football League, buoyed by forthcoming new television money, starts its fifth season with two Saturday night games and two Sunday. The defending champion San Diego Chargers will be at home to Houston in one Saturday game and the New York Jets, the surprise of the exhibition season, play their first game at new Shea Stadium home against Denver. In the Sunday games Kansas City will be at Buffalo and Boston at Oakland.

Here's the way it looks from here for the openers: (All games Sunday unless otherwise noted):

NFL

St. Louis 21, Dallas 13 (Saturday night) — Cards' Charley Johnson throws too many bombs for the Cowboy defense. Dallas still trying to get organized on offense.

Green Bay 17, Chicago 7 — Hornung and Co. control the ball against the Bears. George Halas still having problems with attack. Winner of this should go on to Western title.

Cleveland 24, Washington 20 — Browns' new air arm, with Paul Warfield added to receiving corps, balances Jim Brown's ground punch. Sonny Jurgensen, Bobby Mitchell and Charley Taylor will make it close. Chance for an upset.

New York 28, Philadelphia 17 — Y. A. Tittle finally swings into action for a full day. Eagles tougher on defense but still experimenting.

Los Angeles 21, Pittsburgh 17 — A toughie. Rams have been erratic on attack with rookie Bill Munson doing best job. Steelers have shown little punch and defense not up to par.

Detroit 21, San Francisco 7 — Terry Barr and Gail Cogdill to pick on 49ers deep defense while big rush line gives John Brodie and Georgie Mira a tough day.

AFL

San Diego 35, Houston 21 (Saturday night) — Chargers ready to start rolling again with Keith Lincoln and Co. taking dead aim at experimenting Oilers.

New York 21, Denver 17 — Jets primed for top-flight effort in bow at new staidum, with Dick Wood in best form of career. Jets might run it up.

Buffalo 17, Kansas City 14 — Bills reverse earlier exhibition score by containing Abner Haynes. Buffalo's home jinx and pass defense chinks give Chiefs big chance but this should be Buffalo's year.

Oakland 21, Boston 7 — Al Davis' "Poor Little Raiders" are red hot again and Patriots haven't even won an exhibition game.

WHICH IS WHICH?—That's the problem that confronts Rutgers University football coach John Bateman at the school's campus in New Brunswick, N.J. Actually it was for the benefit of the photographer. Coach knows that the Kenny twins of Closter, N.J., are Bob (left) and Ron. The twins are sophomores at Rutgers. Bob is 6-3 and weighs 205 pounds. He is a quarterback. Ron is also 6-3 and weighs 225 pounds, playing tackle. The twins are 19 years old. (AP Wirephoto)

Quarterbacks In Key Role For Collegiate Grid Opener

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The role of a quarterback in football is a key one and this should be especially true Saturday when UCLA and Pitt open the 1964 season in Pitt Stadium.

Displaying their wares before an expected crowd of 35,000-40,000 and a national television (NBC) audience will be UCLA's Larry Zeno and the panthers' Fred Mazurek.

Temperatures in the 70s and rain are forecast for the game, which will begin at 12 p.m. EST.

Rain might slow down the passing of the two senior quarterbacks but it's doubtful if it will keep them out of the spotlight. Both do several things well.

Zeno, the Bruins' total offense leader the past two seasons, completed 77 of 154 passes for 1,036 yards and six touchodwns in 1963. He ran for 173 yards.

Mazurek set a Pitt total offense record of 1,595 yards last season. He completed 127 passes for 949 yards and five touchdowns and ran for 646 yards and seven touchdowns.

Both teams also have top back-up quarterbacks. Steve Sindell is behind Zeno and Mazurek's replacement is Kenny Lucas. Both are excellent passers.

Pitt, favored to win, has 20 lettermen returning from last year's nationally third-ranked team which won nine of 10 games, the best Panther record since 1937. One of the victories was a 20-0 trouncing of UCLA, the Panthers' fourth in six games with the Bruins.

UCLA posted a 2-8 mark in 1963. The one bright spot was a 14-0 victory over Washington which went to the Rose Bowl.

Things figure to be much better for UCLA this year with 23 lettermen returning and some promising junior college transfers on the team.

Should their aerial games go sour, both Zeno and Mazurek have several capable backs to hand off to.

Top Bruin ball-carriers include Mike Haffner, Nike Nelson, Jim Colletto and Cornell Champion.

College Player Suffers Fatal Seizure in Drill

SWEETWATER, Tenn. (AP) — A Tennessee Military Institute football player suffered a fatal seizure during a warmup drill preceding the team's regular practice session Friday.

James Kuntz Weber III, 17, described by assistant coach John Biddle as a "picture of health," died at Sweetwater Hospital at 4:15 p.m., 30 minutes after he collapsed on the practice field.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Weber Jr. of Louisville, Ky.

"Jim was the picture of health," Biddle said. "He underwent a physical examination before practice began the first of the week and there was no sign at all of any trouble."

Biddle said Weber had been on the field about 15 minutes when he collapsed. "He had not engaged in any contact work and had just finished a passing drill."

Young Weber, a halfback, was also on the school wrestling team.

Practice sessions were suspended indefinitely following the death.

Rich Golf Series Set For Today

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ken Venturi and Arnold Palmer were rated co-favorites on the eve of the World Series of Golf which stars Saturday over the famed Firestone course here with $50,000 the prize for first place.

There are only four in the field, all champions. The others are Bobby Nichols and Tony Lema.

Second place gets $15,000, and third and fourth each receive $5,000.

Venturi qualified for he select group by winning the U.S. Open. Palmer won the Masters and qualified for a berth here while Nichols took the PGA and Lema the British Open. This is a 36-hole tournament, 18 each on Saturday and Sunday.

The battle of the golf titans will be televised by National Broadcasting Corporation, with Saturday's show starting at 3:30 p.m., EST.

Venturi had an unusual complaint about the course.

'We held the Akron Classic on this same golf course only a month ago," he said. "All four of us were in it.

"I think we ought to play on a neutral course or maybe four 18-hole rounds on four different courses."

And who won the Akron Classic? Venturi. And with a score of 275, on four rounds that the golfers hemselves are still talking about.

That indicated that Venturi can play Firestone and stamped him on a par with Palmer. Palmer has scored five seconds and two thirds in his last seven tournaments, although he has not won since May.

Palmer is the only one in the field who has played before in the World Series, which the absent Jack Nicklaus won boh previous years.

Venturi pointed out that for players in the tax bracket enjoyed by this group, the government will be the big winner.

"If you win the Open, you go on collecting for years, bcause of the prestige," Venturi said. "But here it's only money."

At the sound of that Venturi, who didn't make candy fees in his slump years, laughed.

U. S. Track Stars In Olympic Trials

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The final process of selecting the greatest track and field team ever assembled — the team that will represent this country in the 1964 Olympics — begins Saturday in the vast reaches of the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Some 140 of the United States' premier athletes will compete for 60 spots in 20 events on the team for Tokyo in a two-day carnival that ends Sunday.

"I don't think there's any question about it," said George Eastment, chairman of the U.S. Olympic track and field committee and a long-time coach.

"This will be the finest track team ever put together."

How about that 1948 U.S. Olympic team, he was asked, the team that cornered a record 15 gold medals?

"Most of those people couldn't even make this team," Eastment said Friday as the athletes went through their final preparations in suburban Pomona.

The field for these final Olympic trials represents the survivors from a series of stringent eliminations, capped by the preliminary trials at New York's Randall's Island a month ago.

The selections are made in this fashion: The winner of the New York trials has a spot on the team for Tokyo, providing only that he demonstrates through his performance here that he is still in shape and has retained his competitive edge. The next two finishers in each event also make the tam, provided they meet the Olympic standards, automatic in almost every case.

It's that simple. The second and third place men go. The fourth place man stays home.

Competition is so severe that bob Hayes, the only man in the world to run a 9.1 100-yard dash, and ple vault would record holder Fred Hansen have yet to make the team.

Hayes, principal U.S. hope to regain lost Olympic sprint supremacy, did not run in New York because of a leg injury. He's reported fit and ready to go in these trials.

Hansen, who set a record 17 feet 4 inches in winning the Russia-U.S. meet, was fourth in the New York trials.

Their attempts to make the team will furnish a couple of highlights along with Sunday's 1,500 meter test, an event that should provide the U.S. with it's finest field ever.

Dyrol Burleson of Oregon made it through the New York trials, but has to prove it again against a field that includes Chicago red-head Tom O'Mara, Wichita schoolboy Jim Ryun, Jim Grelle, Archie San Romani and Robert Day, all sub-four minute milers.

Then, too, there's the 10,000-meter test with Spokane schoolboy Gerry Lindgren, sensation of the Russian meet, and veteran Pete McArdle of New York. And the last-gasp chance of veteran Jim Beatty, once among this country's best milers, to grab a spot on the 5,000 meter team.

Because of the trimmed down fields there are no preliminaries or heats. All events are finals. Saturday's schedule has the start of the decathlon, the 100 and 400 meter dashes, the 110 meter hurdles, 3,000 meter steeplechase, 10,000 meter run, pole vault, broad jump, hammer throw and shot put.

Roman Brother Is Favored In Inaugural Sweepstakes

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — Where to Quadrangle in the Belmont. the money is, Roman Brother goes.

And that is the reason some 50,000 fans and a national television audience will see the rugged little colt from the Harbor View Farm in action Saturday in the first running of the $125,000-added New Hampshire Sweepstakes at Rockingham Park.

"We ackled the likes of Northern Dancer, Quadrangle and Hill Rise early in the season without too much success," said trainer Burley Parke Friday, after sending Roman Brother one-half mile in 50 seconds.

"Then we decided their were so many other rich stakes that we would try and duck the big boys. The record will show that we have been successful financially. And that is why we are here for the sweepstaks."

After opening the season in Florida, whre he won the Bahamas and Everglades at Hialeah Park, Roman Brother tried the division leaders for size in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes, with his best showing a second to Quadrangle in the Belmont.

In between he won the rich Jersey Derby at Garden State Park and later went to the Midwest. He captured the heavily endowed American Derby in his last effor, and has an over-all 1964 record of four victories, all in stakes, four seconds and three thirds for earnings of $304,542.

Saturay he'll take on 10 other 3-year-olds under topweight of 123 pounds in a 1 3-16 mile race on which is based the first legalized sweepstakes in American horse racing history. The distribution of $1.8 million will depend on the outcome.

Post time is 4:50 pm EST with national television (ABC) set for 4:40 pm.

Pitt Star Must Beat Stauback for Honors

By SANDY PADWE

PITTSBURGH — (NEA) — The startling thing about Fred Mazurek is his sensitivity — the deep, brooding kind a person would more readily understand in an artist or a musician.

You see it every time the Pitt quarterback walks past a magazine rack, every time he reads a paper and every time people tell him he'll have to pull a miracle to defeat Navy's Roger Staubach in the All-America balloting.

"I know I'm bucking something tough," Mazurek said, "and I know all about Staubach and what people think of my chances for All-America.

"I try to forget it but I can't because everwhere I go something reminds me of it. Making All-America means a lot to me. I've thought about it ever since I started playing."

That was in Republic, Pa., a town about 30 miles south of Pittsburgh where you either leave or wind up in the mines.

Mazurek got out, but he was one of the lucky ones because he almost died during his sophomore year in high school when he collapsed in a game. He had a blood clot on the brain and for 12 days the doctors weren't sure if he would survive.

After his recovery, the doctors told him to rest for a while, but it didn't do much good because when basketball season started there was Mazurek — outfitted with a special helmet.

When he finally was ready for college he chose Pitt because it offered pre-med, and that was one of the things he had been thinking of since his narrow escape in high school.

"I didn't stay in pre-med long, though," Mazurek said. "I just get too upset when I see people sick and dying. I thought I would overcome this fear, but I never did."

He's a psychology major now and lately he's been doing a lot of wondering — respectful wondering, of course — about the people who choose All-America teams.

"I know that for me to make it," he said, "I must have a great year. But Roger might do things wrong and it won't matter much because of all the backing he has.

"I understand about the publicity and I know what my chances are but if I don't play up to All-America standards this year I won't mind about missing it."

Mazurek starts his campaign before a national VT audience against UCLA Saturday and will have another direct confrontation with Staubach Oct. 24 at Pitt Stadium.

Pitt's only loss in 1963 was to Navy, 24-12, and three Mazurek interceptions led to a Middie field goal and two touchdowns. Staubach, meanwhile, had another great afternoon, completing 14 of 19 passes.

"I know I looked bad that day and because of that so did the team," Mazurek said, "but I still feel we were best in the country last year."

John Michelosen, the Pitt coach, usually confines his comments to the weather and other equally challenging subjects, but when he's asked about Mazurek he does a Dr. Jekyll.

"I wouldn't trade him for any quarterback in the country." Michelosen said. "I know one thing. There isn't a better running quarterback."

That may be, but college football has changed in its battle to match the pros and the trend is toward the offense.

This is why Roger Staubach has the edge. He's a great passer. Mazurek is the runner.

U.S. Presidential Yacht Retired At Navy Yard

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Honey Fitz, the presidential yacht on which the late John F. Kennedy found relaxation at sea, has retired to the Washington Navy Yard.

The Pentagon said today that on last July 31 President Johnson notified Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that he "had no requirement for the use of" the two presidential boats.

"The Navy has, therefore, inactivated the two boats and they are laid up at the Washington Navy Yard," the Defense Department said.

The Honey Fitz, a 92-foot cruiser, was the better known of the two boats and the one useh by Kennedy. The other is the Patrick J., a smaller boat.

Johnson has used neither since he took office last Nov. 22 when Kennedy was assassinated.

When Kennedy was President, the Honey Fitz was a familiar sight in the waters off Palm Beach, Fla., and Hyannis Port, Mass., where Kennedy vacationed.

He used to sit in a big leather chair on the fantail, smiling in the sunshine.

The Honey Fitz has carried history, too. Kennedy held conferences aboard the boat with visiting dignitaries such as former British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and also with high administration officials.

The Honey Fitz started out in life in 1931, the yacht of Sewell Avery, a Montgomery Ward and Co. executive. The Coast Guard acquired her in 1942 for patrol duty, and the Navy took her over in 1945.

During the administration of Harry S. Truman, she was known as the Lenore, an escort vessel for the presidential boat then, the Williamsburg.

She was reconditioned at an estimated cost of $140,000 after Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower became President and shunned the larger Williamsburg as a needless luxury. Under Eisenhower she was the Barbara Anne named for his granddaughter.

Eisenhower seldom used the Barbara Anne.

When he became President, Kennedy named her the Honey Fitz, the nickname for his grandfather, the late Mayor John J. Fitzgerald of Boston.

She was refurbished, inside and out.

Cmdr. Walter P. Slye, her former skipper, estimated in 1962 that, exclusive of crew's pay, her upkeep was less than $10,000 a year. This was included in the Navy's budget.

The Army will have a fleet of 4,500 helicopters by the end of next year.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Father Jerome is like Dean Manion of Notre Dame fame, for both of them champion a return to "horse sense" in the handling of our terrific taxes. Churches, as well as farms and factories, need to reject the unnecessary meddling by federal bureaucrats.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-472: Father Jerome, aged 47, offers some challenging ideas.

"Dr. Crane," he began as we dined together, "I am worried about the way Uncle Sam is trying to compete with the church.

"For example, the Peace Corps is now trying to expand to 14,000 members by 1965. It wants $115,000,000 of taxes to do so.

"And it is boasting of the fact that the taxpayer now has to furnish only $8,500 to put a worker into the field, whereas it was formerly $9,000.

"But a missionary of the Catholic Church can be sent to a foreign continent for THREE full years on less than one Peace Corps college youth costs the taxpayer for just ONE year!

"So the Peace Corps offers no bargain at all, don't you agree?

"Furthermore, missionaries of all the various faiths, are not supported by taxes.

"They are volunteers with zeal for Christian goals, instead of desire for a free tour of the world at the expense of the Peace Corps.

"And our missionaries probably accomplish far more good, too, for they are not political emissaries but are definitely lifelong workers for brotherhood of man.

"The Peace Corps is not a bad idea. But as you have often stated in evaluating such projects, it is no longer a matter of 'good' vs. 'bad' but of 'good' vs. 'better' methods.

"And I feel that it is unfair for Uncle Sam to try to compete with our church missionary projects, especially by coerced taxes extracted from unwilling citizens."

Would it be fair for Uncle Sam to set up a steel mill and try to compete (with our taxes) with our private steel mills?

Remember, whenever Uncle Sam invades any "free enterprise" field, he pays no taxes on his steel mills or stores or mines or farms or factories.

Is it fair for Uncle Sam to print and sell millions of copies of governmental books and pamphlets, when we have hundreds of honest tax-paying publishers who could do the same job?

By the same token, is it right for Uncle Sam to meddle in the field of missionary activity and thus compete with the thousands of churches which already have been doing a better job?

Our Founding Fathers expected Uncle Sam to stay out of competition with us citizens in every field where we could do the job ourselves.

Well, aren't the churches capable of handling all the foreign missionary work that is now so flamboyantly ascribed to the Peace Corps?

The Peace Corps may be doing some good work, but "goodness" is not the only criterion to use in measuring bureaucratic invasion of "free enterprise."

If there are other and "better" ways to handle the same problem that the Peace Corps is tackling, then why make a political plum out of the Peace Corps and ask taxpayers to spend three times as much for this unnecessary duplication of church missionary activities?

You clergymen need to rear up and oppose the take-over of church functions by federal bureaus, just as much as grocers, coal miners, farms and steel mill owners should oppose such invasion of private rights!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Hubert Speaks Tonight in Denver

DENVER (AP) — The public will be admitted free to a speech by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, in Denver Saturday night, state Democratic Headquarters announced Friday.

Humphrey will speak at the Denver Auditorium Arena.

The Democrats are holding a $10 box supper for the Minnesota senator.

Persons attending the box supper will sit on the main floor of the arena, starting at 6:30 p.m. The balcony will be opened at 7:15 p.m. for all persons who wish to hear Humphrey.

Party headquarters said only a few tickets for the box supper still are available.

The senator is expected to speak between 8 and 9 p.m.

The speech will be the highlight of a Denver trip. Humphrey is scheduled to arrive at 11:30 a.m. on a chartered airliner. A rally staged by the Colorado Young Citizens for Johnson and Humphrey will greet him when he arrives.

He will drive to downtown Denver in a motorcade.

Humphrey will speak to Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity at the Denver Athletic Club, from 1 to 2 p.m., then will speak at a Colorado meeting of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education.

The senator will hold a news conference and attend a $25 per couple fund raising reception before his night appearance.

He will leave Denver about 9:30 p.m. by airliner for Albuquerque, N.M.

Legislation establishing a national flag was adopted by the Congress April 4, 1818.

Fountain News

By LORETTA McDONALD 382-5870

The Fountain Valley Homemakers Extension Club met Wednesday morning, Aug. 5, at the home of Mrs. Mae Bryant, with Mrs. Doris Goodsell as cohostesses. Delicious homemade sweet rolls, coffee, punch and fresh fruit were served to 14 members and guests. Assisting with the serving were Beverly and Evelyn Bryant, granddaughters of the Bryants. Their son, Ed Bryant, Jr., acted as footman.

The guest of honor, Mary Kohli, newly appointed county agent for the Extension Clubs of El Paso County, gave an interesting report on International Day at Black Forest.

Safety Chairman, Flossie Jackson, gave an informative report on "Old Medicines."

Members answered roll call with tours and activities on vacations. Those attending were: President, Frances Sortias; Bertha Harns, Gladys Jackson, Eunice McAfee, Dorothy McConnaughhay, Edna Million, Ida Pemberton, Nettie Ream, Viva Colbert, Bessie Wilson, Ruby Wetzel, and guests, Nina McAuliffe, Anne Brown, Mira Gaunt, Donna Dexter and three children.

The mystery box, furnished by Viva Colbert, was won by Bertha Harns.

The next regular club meeting, scheduled for September 2, at the home of Mrs. Harry McGuire, 213 N. Corona St., Colorado Springs, was canceled.

The Auxiliary to V F W Post No. 4641, of Fountain, held its regular meeting in the Community Building, August 5, at 8 p.m., with Audie Higbee, senior vice-president, presiding. Newly elected President Goldie Preece, having moved out of town, resigned her office and Audie Higbee was elected and installed into the office of president of the Auxiliary. Violet Rutledge resigned her office as guard and was elected senior vice-president, and Nora Blazer was elected guard. The president was installed by Olive Butler, past department president of Colorado and a member of the local Auxiliary.

The senior vice-president and guard were absent, due to illness, and will be installed at the regular business meeting.

The mystery box, furnished by Violet Rutledge, was won by Dorothy McConnaughhay. Members are requested to attend the regular meeting and give the new president support.

Harry Evans, of Fountain, died, at the age of 70, at a Colorado Springs hospital recently. He was a retired theatrical man and had been in the show business for 45 years. He is said to have discovered Ruth Etting, Chill Wills and other celebrities of the stage. He had been hospitalized for about a week.

Mr. Evans was born in Hutchinson, Kan., April 5, 1894. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Claudia Evans, of Fountain; a sister, Violet Evans, of Tapeste, Tahiti; an aunt, Ial Gaiand, Seattle, Wash.; a nephew, George V. Clamp, and a brother-in-law C. V. Clamp, both of Colorado Springs.

Funeral services were held at the Swan Drawing Room. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery.

Pfc. and Mrs. Theodore Renewick, are the parents of a baby girl, 7 pounds 2½ ounces, born Monday, Aug. 17, 1964.

Spec. 5 and Mrs. Jose M. Villanuea announce the arrival of a baby boy, 8 pounds 3 ounces, Thursday, Aug. 27, 1964.

Army Pfc. George E. Lahr, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lahr, 835 E. Monument St., and other members of the 2d Quartermaster Group, are participating in two months of testing and evaluating the Goer, a new Army transportation vehicle, at Ludwigsburg, Germany, beginning Aug. 17.

Lahr, a truck driver in the 35th Quartermaster Battalion near Ludwisburg, entered the Army in October, 1961. He was last assigned at Fort Hood, Tex. He is a 1960 graduate of Fountain-Fort Carson High School.

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 92, of Fountain, participated in the fashion show in Colorado Springs last week. Four girls from Fountain took part as models for junior high clothing for the afternoon review. They were Mary Jo Kraus, Vicki Pierson, Wendy Sample and Lillian Tester, who modeled clothes for the coming school year.

Senior high fashions were shown by representative from Harrison and Wasson High Schools. Three college students showed appropriate college wear for this fall.

Hostess for the afternoon was Diane Knapp.

Beverly Cushman, Jolene Mugley and Diane Pulse attended the fashion show as well. Thirteen girls from Troop 92 were awarded Beauty Workshop diplomas.

Phyllis T. Sawyer and John D. Hyatt were married by Justice of the Peace Carl H. Wiese, at 9 p..m ,Saturday, August 29. Matron of Honor was Mrs. A. L. Crain and Best Man was A. L. Crain. Guests were Cynthia Dauphin and Fred Mattock. The newlyweds are both from Fountain.

Army S Sgt. Carson K. Peters, 25, whose wife, Helene, lives at 200 W. Missouri St., was assigned to the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea, Aug. 17.

Sgt. Peters, last stationed at Fort Carson, is now a squad leader in Company C, 2nd Battalion of the Division's 5th Cavalry. He attended Monroe City before entering the Army in 1958. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Peters, live at 419 Winter St., Monroe City.

A Joint Honor Scholarship at the Colorado School of Mines has been awarded to Richard Charles King, a graduate of Fountain-Fort Carson High School in 1964. Joint Honor Scholarships for approximately $1200 over a four-year curriculum are awarded to outstanding seniors in each high school in Colorado.

Airman 1st Class Feline L. Duran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose L. Duran of Fountain, has arrived for duty with a unit of the U. S. Air Force in Europe (USAFE) at Camp New Amsterdam Netherlands.

Airman Duran, an aircraft navigational equipment repairman, previously served at Walker AFB, N. M. His new unit supports the USAFE Mission in providing the major air contribution for defense of NATO countries. Duran attended Fountain High School. His wife, Virginia, is the daughter of Mrs. Joe Luna, of Hudson, Colorado.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Gladys O. Colin Jackson, who died Wednesday in Arlington, Wash., after having lived in El Paso County since 1895. Mrs. Jackson and her husband, J. Roy Jackson, lived in Fountain Valley from 1933 to 1944 and operated a dairy farm. They moved to Fountain in 1944.

Mrs. Jackson graduated from Colorado Springs High School in 1916 and attended Colorado State University. She was an active worker in the Methodist Church of Fountain, and was a member of Rebekah Lodge, Royal Neighbors, Grange and the Fountain Valley Homemakers Extension Club.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Wolfrey, Fountain, and Mrs. Ada M. Bunkelman, Arlington, Wash.; a sister, Mrs. Sylvia Bunkelman, Ellinsburg, Wash.; and a brother, Thomas L. Bender of Colorado Springs.

The Mary Martha Circle of the First Methodist Church met in the church basement, Aug. 3, at 9:30 a.m., with Audrey Fox and Loretta McDonald as hostesses. Those present were: Jeri Blasat, Barbara Musgrave, Mildred Ross, Alice Oliver, Erdine Gooch, Pauline Fisher, Virginia Neilsark, Evelyn Dalrymple, Mildred Estes and WSCS president, Gladys Ury. Virginia Neilsark acted as president to open the meeting. Barbra Musgrave was elected president, and Loretta McDonald, vice-president. Mrs. Musgrave then took charge of the business meeting. The next meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 1.

A BEARD BROUGHT FREEDOM

This is the feast day of St. Uncumber, who was able to disencumber herself of an unwanted suitor by growing a beard. Although hagiologists place no credence in the story and refuse to include her in the catalog of saints, the legend of her ability to help women rid themselves of unwanted mates has been popular in Europe for 500 years. Westminster Abbey contains a statue of St. Uncumber.

This Spanish girl was born around 130 A.D. Her father, the prefect of Galicia, pledged her in marriage to the king of Sicily. The young lady prayed for deliverance from this betrothal, and the answer came in the form of a growth of whiskers on her face. The king got the message and returned home but the father was so enraged he had his daughter crucified.

Tapestries and murals of Uncumber were popular in the 15th and 16th centuries. A village in Bavaria venerates a curved wooden altarpiece, fully equipped with crown and beard. Miraculous events are said to have occurred there even though ecclesiastics pronounced the legend a worthless and impossible religious romance perpetrated by simple people of the early Christian era.

This is where the story stood for centuries, according to Harry S. Lipscomb and Hebbell E. Hoff, writing in the Bulletin of the History of Medicine. About five years ago, an endocrinologist published an article in a scientific journal titled' "Adrenocortical Hyperfunction with Sudden Onset of Hirsuitism."

In brief, this paper described the plight of a 23-year-old woman who was under great stress because of an extramarital problem. In less than a month's time she devleoped "a luxuriant growth of body hair." Superfluous hair in women frequently is associated with various glandular disturbances but the growth rarely appears as rapidly as in the two cases cited.

All this proves again that history has a way of repeating itself. Many of the events that are classified as mythology contained a shred of truth. St. Uncumber may yet make a hagiography.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Exercise and Arthritis

M. P. writes: Isn't it harmful for a woman with crippling arthritis of the hands and feet to do her son's laundry every week? This includes ironing at least 10 white shirts.

Reply

Only when the acitivity aggravates the condition. But many victims of arthritis are helped by work of this type because it limbers the joints and tones the muscles.

Cirrhosis and Alcohol

R. B. writes: If an alcoholic eats nutritious meals, is he less likely to develop cirrhosis of the liver?

Reply

This is a moot question because cirrhosis develops in alcoholics who eat well, as well as in those who subsist on booze and coffee. The current opinion is that drinkers who don't neglect their meals are less likely to develop cirrhosis.

Allergy More Likely

Mr. Y. writes: Would smoking and drinking aggravate eczema?

Reply

This is doubtful. Too much alcohol may increase congestion of the skin.

Support Unnecessary

Mrs. B. writes: Will a man have to wear a support of any kind after a hernia operation?

Reply

Not after the wound has healed.

International Laboratory Is Discussed

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Represenatives of six nations, Eastern and Western, today Friday discussed the possibility of establishing an international scientific laboratory on the moon once lunar conquest is achieved.

Experts considered the numerous problems involved, but made no commitment to such a mission. They did agree to conduct expanded talks in the future.

Participating were the United States, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, France, Britain and Poland. The panel was held as part of the 15th International Astronautical Congress, and the six nations were listed as representing all 40 countries in the congress.

The United Staes and Russia would be he main contributors to a moon lab, providing rockets, spacecraft and much of the logistic support. Other nations would donate crewmen, scientists, experimnts, equipment and money.

The Russian group suggested study of radiation risks in space would be a major scientific goal of a moon laboratory.

U.S. Presidential Yacht Retired At Navy Yard

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Honey Fitz, the presidential yacht on which the late John F. Kennedy found relaxation at sea, has retired to the Washington Navy Yard.

The Pentagon said today that on last July 31 President Johnson notified Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that he "had no requirement for the use of" the two presidential boats.

"The Navy has, therefore, inactivated the two boats and they are laid up at the Washington Navy Yard," the Defense Department said.

The Honey Fitz, a 92-foot cruiser, was the better known of the two boats and the one useh by Kennedy. The other is the Patrick J., a smaller boat.

Johnson has used neither since he took office last Nov. 22 when Kennedy was assassinated.

When Kennedy was President, the Honey Fitz was a familiar sight in the waters off Palm Beach, Fla., and Hyannis Port, Mass., where Kennedy vacationed.

He used to sit in a big leather chair on the fantail, smiling in the sunshine.

The Honey Fitz has carried history, too. Kennedy held conferences aboard the boat with visiting dignitaries such as former British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and the late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and also with high administration officials.

The Honey Fitz started out in life in 1931, the yacht of Sewell Avery, a Montgomery Ward and Co. executive. The Coast Guard acquired her in 1942 for patrol duty, and the Navy took her over in 1945.

During the administration of Harry S. Truman, she was known as the Lenore, an escort vessel for the presidential boat then, the Williamsburg.

She was reconditoned at an estimated cost of $140,000 after Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower became President and shunned the larger Williamsburg as a needless luxury. Under Eisenhower she was the Barbara Anne named for his granddaughter.

Eisenhower seldom used the Barbara Anne.

When he became President, Kennedy named her the Honey Fitz, the nickname for his grandfather, the late Mayor John J. Fitzgerald of Boston.

She was refurbished, inside and out.

Cmdr. Walter P. Slye, her former skipper, estimated in 1962 that, exclusive of crew's pay, her upkeep was less than $10,000 a year. This was included in the Navy's budget.

The Army will have a fleet of 4,500 helicopters by the end of next year.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D.,Ph.D.

Father Jerome is like Dean Manion of Notre Dame fame, for both of them champion a return to "horse sense" in the handling of our terrific taxes. Churches, as well as farms and factories, need to reject the unnecessary meddling by federal bureaucrats.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

CASE T-472: Father Jerome, aged 47, offers some challenging ideas.

"Dr. Crane," he began as we dined together, "I am worried about the way Uncle Sam is trying to compete with the church.

"For example, the Peace Corps is now trying to expand to 14,000 members by 1965. It wants $115,000,000 of taxes to do so.

"And it is boasting of the fact that the taxpayer now has to furnish only $8,560 to put a worker into the field, whereas it was formerly $9,000.

"But a missionary of the Catholic Church can be sent to a foreign continent for THREE full years on less than one Peace Corps college youth costs the taxpayer for just ONE year!

"So the Peace Corps offers no bargain at all, don't you agree?

"Furthermore, missionaries of all the various faiths, are not supported by taxes.

"They are volunteers with zeal for Christian goals, instead of desire for a free tour of the world at the expense of the Peace Corps.

"And our missionaries probably accomplish far more good, too, for they are not political emissaries but are definitely lifelong workers for brotherhood of man.

"The Peace Corps is not a bad idea. But as you have often stated in evaluating such projects, it is no longer a matter of 'good' vs. 'bad' but of 'good' vs. 'better' methods.

"And I feel that it is unfair for Uncle Sam to try to compete with our church missionary projects, especially by coerced taxes extracted from unwilling citizens."

Would it be fair for Uncle Sam to set up a steel mill and try to compete (with our taxes) with our private steel mills?

Remember, whenever Uncle Sam invades any "free enterprise" field, he pays no taxes on his steel mills or stores or mines or farms or factories.

Is it fair for Uncle Sam to print and sell millions of copies of governmental books and pamphlets, when we have hundreds of honest tax-paying publishers who could do the same job?

By the same token, is it right for Uncle Sam to meddle in the field of missionary activity and thus compete with the thousands of churches which already have been doing a better job?

Our Founding Fathers expected Uncle Sam to stay out of competition with us citizens in every field where we could do the job ourselves.

Well, aren't the churches capable of handling all the foreign missionary work that is now so flamboyantly ascribed to the Peace Corps?

The Peace Corps may be doing some good work, but "goodness" is not the only criterion to use in measuring bureaucratic invasion of "free enterprise."

If there are other and "better" ways to handle the same problem that the Peace Corps is tackling, then why make a political plum out of the Peace Corps and ask taxpayers to spend three times as much for this unnecessary duplication of church missionary activities?

You clergymen need to rear up and oppose the take-over of church functions by federal bureaus, just as much as grocers, coal miners, farms and steel mill owners should oppose such invasion of private rights!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Hubert Speaks Tonight in Denver

DENVER (AP) — The public will be admitted free to a speech by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, in Denver Saturday night, state Democratic Headquarters announced Friday.

Humphrey will speak at the Denver Auditorium Arena.

The Democrats are holding a $10 box supper for the Minnesota senator.

Persons attending the box supper will sit on the main floor of the arena, starting at 6:30 p.m. The balcony will be opened at 7:15 p.m. for all persons who wish to hear Humphrey.

Party headquarters said only a few tickets for the box supper still are available.

The senator is expected to speak between 8 and 9 p.m.

The speech will be the highlight of a Denver trip. Humphrey is scheduled to arrive at 11:50 a.m. on a chartered airliner. A rally staged by the Colorado Young Citizens for Johnson and Humphrey will greet him when he arrives.

He will drive to downtown Denver in a motorcade.

Humphrey will speak to Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity at the Denver Athletic Club, from 1 to 2 p.m., then will speak at a Colorado meeting of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education.

The senator will hold a news conference and attend a $25 per couple fund raising reception before his night appearance.

He will leave Denver about 9:30 p.m. by airliner for Albuquerque, N.M.

Legislation establishing a national flag was adopted by the Congress April 4, 1818.

A BEARD BROUGHT FREEDOM

This is the feast day of St. Uncumber, who was able to disencumber herself of an unwanted suitor by growing a beard. Although hagiologists place no credence in the story and refuse to include her in the catalog of saints, the legend of her ability to help women rid themselves of unwanted mates has been popular in Europe for 500 years. Westminster Abbey contains a statue of St. Uncumber.

This Spanish girl was born around 130 A.D. Her father, the prefect of Galicia, pledged her in marriage to the king of Sicily. The young lady prayed for deliverance from this betrothal, and the answer came in the form of a growth of whiskers on her face. The king got the message and returned home but the father was so enraged he had his daughter crucified.

Tapestries and murals of Uncumber were popular in the 15th and 16th centuries. A village in Bavaria venerates a curved wooden altarpiece, fully equipped with crown and beard. Miraculous events are said to have occurred there even though ecclesiastics pronounced the legend a worthless and impossible religious romance perpetrated by simple people of the early Christian era.

This is where the story stood for centuries, according to Harry S. Lipscomb and Hebbell E. Hoff, writing in the Bulletin of the History of Medicine. About five years ago, an endocrinologist published an article in a scientific journal titled' "Adrenocortical Hyperfunction with Sudden Onset of Hirsuitism."

In brief, this paper described the plight of a 23-year-old woman who was under great stress because of an extramarital problem. In less than a month's time she devleoped "a luxuriant growth of body hair." Superfluous hair in women frequently is associated with various glandular disturbances but the growth rarely appears as rapidly as in the two cases cited.

All this proves again that history has a way of repeating itself. Many of the events that are classified as mythology contained a shred of truth. St. Uncumber may yet make a hagiography.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Exercise and Arthritis

M. P. writes: Isn't it harmful for a woman with crippling arthritis of the hands and feet to do her son's laundry every week? This includes ironing at least 10 white shirts.

Reply

Only when the acitivity aggravates the condition. But many victims of arthritis are helped by work of this type because it limbers the joints and tones the muscles.

Cirrhosis and Alcohol

R. B. writes: If an alcoholic eats nutritious meals, is he less likely to develop cirrhosis of the liver?

Reply

This is a moot question because cirrhosis develops in alcoholics who eat well, as well as in those who subsist on booze and coffee. The current opinion is that drinkers who don't neglect their meals are less likely to develop cirrhosis.

Allergy More Likely

Mr. Y. writes: Would smoking and drinking aggravate eczema?

Reply

This is doubtful. Too much alcohol may increase congestion of the skin.

Support Unnecessary

Mrs. B. writes: Will a man have to wear a support of any kind after a hernia operation?

Reply

Not after the wound has healed.

Today's Health Hint

By LORETTA McDONALD 382-5870

The Fountain Valley Homemakers Extension Club met Wednesday morning, Aug. 5, at the home of Mrs. Mae Bryant, with Mrs. Doris Goodsell as cohostesses. Delicious homemade sweet rolls, coffee, punch and fresh fruit were served to 14 members and guests. Assisting with the serving were Beverly and Evelyn Bryant, granddaughters of the Bryants. Their son, Ed Bryant, Jr., acted as footman.

The guest of honor, Mary Kohli, newly appointed county agent for the Extension Clubs of El Paso County, gave an interesting report on International Day at Black Forest.

Safety Chairman, Flossie Jackson, gave an informative report on "Old Medicines."

Members answered roll call with tours and activities on vacations. Those attending were: President, Frances Sortias; Bertha Harns, Gladys Jackson, Eunice McAfee, Dorothy McConnaughhay, Edna Million, Ida Pemberton, Nettie Ream, Viva Colbert, Bessie Wilson, Ruby Wetzel, and guests, Nina McAuliffe, Anne Brown, Mira Gaunt, Donna Dexter and three children.

The mystery box, furnished by Viva Colbert, was won by Bertha Harns.

The next regular club meeting, scheduled for September 2, at the home of Mrs. Harry McGuire, 213 N. Corona St., Colorado Springs, was canceled.

The Auxiliary to V F W Post No. 4641, of Fountain, held its regular meeting in the Community Building, August 5, at 8 p.m., with Audie Higbee, senior vice-president, presiding. Newly elected President Goldie Preece, having moved out of town, resigned her office and Audie Higbee was elected and installed into the office of president of the Auxiliary. Violet Rutledge resigned her office as guard and was elected senior vice-president, and Nora Blazer was elected guard. The president was installed by Olive Butler, past department president of Colorado and a member of the local Auxiliary.

The senior vice-president and guard were absent, due to illness, and will be installed at the regular business meeting.

The mystery box, furnished by Violet Rutledge, was won by Dorothy McConnaughhay. Members are requested to attend the regular meeting and give the new president support.

Harry Evans, of Fountain, died, at the age of 70, at a Colorado Springs hospital recently. He was a retired theatrical man and had been in the show business for 45 years. He is said to have discovered Ruth Etting, Chill Wills and other celebrities of the stage. He had been hospitalized for about a week.

Mr. Evans was born in Hutchinson, Kan., April 5, 1894. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Claudia Evans, of Fountain; a sister, Violet Evans, of Tapeete, Tahiti; an aunt, Iad Ouland, Seattle, Wash.; a nephew, George V. Clamp, and a brother-in-law C. V. Clamp, both of Colorado Springs.

Funeral services were held at the Swan Drawing Room. Burial was in Evergreen Cemetery.

Pfc. and Mrs. Theodore Renewick, are the parents of a baby girl, 7 pounds 2½ ounces, born Monday, Aug. 17, 1964.

Spec. 5 and Msr. Jose M. Villanuea announce the arrival of a baby boy, 8 pounds 3 ounces, Thursday, Aug. 27, 1964.

Army Pfc. George E. Lahr, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Lahr, 835 E. Monument St., and other members of the 2d Quartermaster Group, are participating in two months of testing and evaluating the Goer, a new Army transportation vehicle, at Ludwigsburg, Germany, beginning Aug. 17.

Lahr, a truck driver in the 35th Quartermaster Battalion near Ludwisburg, entered the Army in October, 1961. He was last assigned at Fort Hood, Tex. He is a 1960 graduate of Fountain-Fort Carson High School.

Cadette Girl Scout Troop 92, of Fountain, participated in the fashion show in Colorado Springs last week. Four girls from Fountain took part as models for junior high clothing for the afternoon review. They were Mary Jo Kraus, Vicki Pierson, Wendy Sample and Lillian Tester, who modeled clothes for the coming school year.

Senior high fashions were shown by representative from Harrison and Wasson High Schools. Three college students showed appropriate college wear for this fall.

Hostess for the afternoon was Diane Knapp.

Beverly Cushman, Jolene Mugley and Diane Pulse attended the fashion show as well. Thirteen girls from Troop 92 were awarded Beauty Workshop diplomas.

Phyllis T. Sawyer and John D. Hyatt were married by Justice of the Peace Carl H. Wiese, at 9 p..m ,Saturday, August 29. Matron of Honor was Mrs. A. L. Crain and Best Man was A. L. Crain. Guests were Cynthia Dauphin and Fred Mattock. The newlyweds are both from Fountain.

Army S S g t. Carson K. Peters, 25, whose wife, Helene, lives at 209 W. Missouri St., was assigned to the 1st Cavalry Division in Korea, Aug. 17.

Sgt. Peters, last stationed at Fort Carson, is now a squad leader in Company C, 2nd Battalion of the Division's 5th Cavalry. He attended Monroe City before entering the Army in 1958. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Peters, live at 419 Winter St., Monroe City.

A Joint Honor Scholarship at the Colorado School of Mines has been awarded to Richard Charles King, a graduate of Fountain-Fort Carson High School in 1964. Joint Honor Scholarships for approximately $1200 over a four-year curriculum are awarded to outstanding seniors in each high school in Colorado.

Airman 1st Class Feline L. Duran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose L. Buran of Fountain, has arrived for duty with a unit of the U. S. Air Force in Europe (USAFE) at Camp New Amsterdam Netherlands.

Airman Duran, an aircraft navigational equipment repairman, previously served at Walker AFB, N. M. His new unit supports the USAFE Mission in providing the major air contribution for defense of NATO countries. Duran attended Fountain High School. His wife, Virginia, is the daughter of Mrs. Joe Luna, of Hudson, Colorado.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Gladys O. Celia Jackson, who died Wednesday in Arlington, Wash., after having lived in El Paso County since 1895. Mrs. Jackson and her husband, J. Roy Jackson, lived in Fountain Valley from 1933 to 1944 and operated a dairy farm. They moved to Fountain in 1944.

Mrs. Jackson graduated from Colorado Springs High School in 1916 and attended Colorado State University. She was an active worker in the Methodist Church of Fountain, and was a member of Rebekah Lodge, Royal Neighbors, Grange and the Fountain Valley Homemakers Extension Club.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Wolfrey, Fountain, and Mrs. Ada M. Bunkelman, Arlington, Wash.; a sister, Mrs. Sylvia Bunkelman, Ellinsburg, Wash.; and a brother, Thomas L. Bender of Colorado Springs.

The Mary Martha Circle of the First Methodist Church met in the church basement, Aug. 3, at 9:30 a.m., with Audrey Fox and Loretta McDonald as hostesses. Those present were: Jeri Blazek, Barbara Musgrave, Mildred Ross, Alice Oliver, Erdine Gooch, Pauline Fisher, Virginia Neikerk, Evelyn Dalrymple, Mildred Estes and WSCS president, Gladys Ury. Virginia Neikerk acted as president to open the meeting. Barbra Musgrave was elected president, and Loretta McDonald, vice-president. Mrs. Musgrave then took charge of the business meeting. The next meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 1.

International Laboratory Is Discussed

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Representatives of six nations, Eastern and Western, today Friday discussed the possibility of establishing an international scientific laboratory on the moon once lunar conquest is achieved.

Experts considered the numerous problems involved, but made no commitment to such a mission. They did agree to conduct expanded talks in the future.

Participating were the United States, the Soviet Union, Bulgaria, France, Britain and Poland. The panel was held as part of the 15th International Astronautical Congress, and the six nations were listed as representing all 40 countries in the congress.

The United Staes and Russia would be he main contributors to a moon lab, providing rockets, spacecraft and much of the logistic support. Other nations would donate crewmen, scientists, experimnts, equipment and money.

The Russian group suggested study of radiation risks in space would be a major scientific goal of a moon laboratory.

Turkish Navy to Supply Cyprus Turks With Food

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey says its navy will start convoying food to Turkish Cypriots on Tuesday and any interference "will be considered as an attack and answered in the same way."

Premier Ismet Inonu's announcement of convoys to Cyprus came as the U.N. Security Council prepared to meet in New York today to take up charges by Greece and Turkey that each is guilty of aggression on Cyprus.

There was no immediate reaction from the Greek Cypriot government or Greece to the Turkish announcement.

Inonu told the Turkish Parliament the Turkish warships would remain in Cyprus territorial waters until the supplies were delivered.

"Any interference during the disembarkment of these supplies on the island will be considered as an attack and answered in the same way," he said.

Airplanes as well as destroyers are expected to provide cover for the shipments.

The Greek Cypriot government announced three days ago that it was lifting an economic blockade that had cut food supplies for Turks in the major port cities of Larnaca and Famgusta. Roadblocks to Turkish quarters of those cities were not opened until Thursday because of a delay in getting word to troops.

A blockade still remains in force on the Turkish district of Nicosia and on the northwest towns of Lefkka and Kokkina, areas of big Turkish population.

The Greek Cypriot government has refused to permit Turkey to rotate its 650-man contigent based on Cyprus under the 1960 treaty of independence. Turkey agreed to postpone the rotation two weeks ago after the Cyprus government warned force would be used if necessary to prevent new Turkish troops from landing.

The Security Council meeting in New York was called after Greece and Turkey — both members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — appealed to the United Nations to halt what each called hostile actions by the other.

Greece accused Turkey of the mass deportation of Greek residents and of making repeated "aggressive statements."

Turkey charged that Greece had concentrated military forces on Turkey's frontiers, had "invaded Cyprus with military units amounting to about 10,000 men" and had undermined U.N. efforts to mediate the Cyprus dispute. Turkey proposed that the council dispatch a fact-finding mission to Cyprus.

BANK STITCKUPS RISE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bank holdups rose 43 per cent in 1963 to 481, the Life Insurance and Protective Committee of the American Bankers Association reports.

Parable Set At FA Center

"Lord of the Flies," the chilling but fascinating human parable of 40 schoolboys marooned on an island, will be shown at the Fine Arts Center Tuesday.

This widely discussed and acclaimed movie, based on William Golding's 1955 best-seller, is a suspense-filled adventure story about a rather typical group of English schoolboys whose plane crashes as they are being evacuated furing an atomic war.

The boys, without adult supervision or any vestiges of civilization, quickly descend to a basic and shocking savagery. The efforts of the more intelligent boys to maintain discipline and social organization, so necessary for the survival of all, are defeated by the enmity of the boys who try to rule by the mystique of the hunter and fear of "The Beast" which resides on a nearby mountaintop.

In the end the "hunters" their faces streaked with the warpaint of primitives, are driven in a frenzy to kill the most sensitive of all the boys, believing his advance through the jungle to be that of "The Beast."

The movie, partly because of its direct nature in telling a story, and perhaps partly because of director Peter Brook's intention, has failed to state as strongly the case of man's basic brutishness as the book did, instead making a rather simple case for the effects of unchecked ignorance and fear.

The New York City Fire Department answered a record 117,477 alarms during 1963.

Trick Flying Featured in Aircadia Pic

One of the world's most daring and skillful pilots, a gentleman who, among other things, does most of the dangerous "stunt" flying you think actors do in pictures, was rejected by the R.A.F. because they didn't think he had what it takes.

He's Captain John Crewdson, known as "Mr. Aviation" all over the world, and he does most of the trick flying in the Mirisch Corporation's dramatization of one of the most daring air raids of World War II, "633 Squadron," in Color by DeLuxe and Panavision, opening Sunday at the Aircadia Theatre.

But not all of it!

Rock Hudson and Paula Prentiss are starred in the second feature, "Man's Favorite Sport"

TODAY'S COVER

It's make or break time again in the wide world of television and a whole passet of new shows, some with old stars, will be invading your living rooms. Today's cover is made up of some of the stars of the new shows and we won't attempt to identify them all. Other pictures of them will be found throughout today's issue. Because of the new television season, LEISURETIME will abandon its regular format for this week only. Some of the regular features of the magazine will be found in the back pages but most of LEISURETIME has been devoted to pictures and stories of the new and old shows. Today's COVER STORY, which tells of all the new shows which will be making their debut in the coming weeks, will be found on pages 16 and 17.

NEXT AT UTE—Her love of fast cars and faster men brings Angie Dickinson to the race-track and to John Cassevetes in Ernest Hemingway's "The Killers," next at the Ute Theatre.

The Killers Is Coming To the Ute

When you first set eyes on Angie Dickinson, you've just got to stare at those beautiful legs. Once you get past them, however, you'll find a lot more that makes up the real Angie. Gandering at the game is only the beginning.

You'll find one of Hollywood's most talented as well as most beautiful young actresses and to prove the point, the Theatre Owners of America recently named her "the film industry's most exciting new star."

When she heard the good news, Angie quipped: "It's the first time any part of me other than my legs has ever been honored."

Angie considers one of her really big breaks came when producer-director Don Siegel cast her as the only woman in Ernest Hemingway's "The Killers," a Universal Picture, filmed in color set as the next attraction at the Ute Theatre. Not only is Angie the only female, but she is also a wicked one, the first time in her career that she has been given the opportunity to play a villainess.

Starring with Angie are Lee Marvin, John Cassevetes and Ronald Reagan, and co-starring Clu Gulager and Norman Fell.

Although the part gives Miss Dickinson plenty of opportunity to display her talents as an actress, you'll still have a chance to view those gorgeous legs.

But as we said, that's only the beginning.

NEXT WEEK

Just who is JOHNATHON LEAPER? Well, if he were around today, he would be called a Rat Fink. Society would shun him, kids would throw stones at him and nobody, but nobody would want to be seen with him. In fact, that's just the way things were way back when Mr. LEAPER (not leper) crawled out of the hills of Colorado and almost into the Denver jail. Well he did get into the jail there but even they didn't want him and, well . . . Read GEORGE DOUTHIT'S story next week and find out.

'Travelin' Job

As producer of "The Twentieth Century," Isaac Kleinerman has traveled as far east as Turkey, as far north as Sweden, as far south as Ethiopia.

The federal government borrowed its first money from New York banks Sept. 12, 1789, under Washington's administration. The loan was negotiated by Alexander Hamilton.

NEXT WEEK

Just who is JOHNATHON LEAPER? Well, if he were around today, he would be called a Rat Fink. Society would shun him, kids would throw stones at him and nobody, but nobody would want to be seen with him. In fact, that's just the way things were way back when Mr. LEAPER (not leper) crawled out of the hills of Colorado and almost into the Denver jail. Well he did get into the jail there but even they didn't want him and, well . . . Read GEORGE DOUTHIT'S story next week and find out.

Travelin' Job

As producer of "The Twentieth Century," Isaac Kleinerman has traveled as far east as Turkey, as far north as Sweden, as far south as Ethiopia.

The federal government borrowed its first money from New York banks Sept. 13, 1789, under Washington's administration. The loan was negotiated by Alexander Hamilton.

Chief Has Record Advance Sale for Burton's Hamlet

A record advance ticked sale at the Chief Theatre was announced today for the four nounced today for the four performances of Richard Burton's "Hamlet," to be presented here Sept. 23-24 by Warner Bros. in the revolutionary new electronic - optical process of Electronovision Theatrofilm.

Tickets are on sale at the Chief Theatre boxoffice for the widely-acclaimed Burton interpretation of "Hamlet," to be presented at two matinees and two evening performances.

There are no reserved seats but, the number of tickets offered for each performance does not exceed the capacity of the theatre, thereby guaranteeing a seat to each ticket holder. All tickets are at popular prices, approximating those for first-run motion pic-

For the first time in history, audiences throughout the United States and Canada will be able to gather in their local motion picture theatres to see an important Broadway hit exactly as it is performed on the New York stage.

The play with which this new era in entertainment will begin is Burton's widely - acclaimed interpretation of "Hamlet," hailed at the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre in New York as one of the outstanding theatrical achievements of all time.

More than 1,000 theatres from coast to coast will be presenting Burton's "Hamlet" on the same two days, enabling millions to see the John Gielgud production, which recently completed its smash-hit Broadway engagement and will not be seen again.

What will make it possible for you and your family to see Burton's "Hamlet" is the great electronic age in which we live. Specifically, credit must go to the revolutionary new electronic - optical process of Electronovison, and its offshoot, Theatrofilm.

Science is constantly pushing knowledge — and of human communication. From the tom-tom to the picture telephone, inventors have sought new ways to help men communicate with each other over greater and greater distances and at greater and greater speeds. These scientific inventions and discoveries have been utilized with great effectiveness in the arts, enabling men to project the light of their ideas and images to the darkest corners of the earth — through printing, photography, radio, motion pictures, television and, now, Electronovision.

Electronovision and Theatrofilm combine the latest electronic and optical techniques so that audiences everywhere in the world may see an outstanding stage play, or any similar event at prices withing the financial reach of the general public.

The Electronovision process, which produces Theatrofilm, involves a developmental series of steps that follow this general outline:

Step 1: Electronovision cameras photograph electronically the play or event being enacted. As many as 15 Electronvision cameras, the number utilized for Richard Burton's "Hamlet," may be operated simultaneously of particular importance is the lighting innovation developed by Electronovision. Ordinary motion picture or television cameras require intense light — and, of course, the large amount of equipment necessary to produce that light. Electronovision may operate with only available light, as in a darkened theatre.

Step 2: The images captured by the Electronovision cameras are transmitted electronically to a specially equipped monitoring board, located apart from the stage area.

Step 3: Cables carry the impulses to mobile stations that are fully operational for instant recording and transmission.

Step 4: An electronic converter changes the recorded impulses to the necessary size and shape for Theatrofilm projection.

Step 5: Combining the latest developments in optics with those in scientific packaging makes possible the mass distribution of the Theatrofilm product.

Step 6: Audiences in local motion picture theatres may view the "live" Broadway production on the Theatrofilm screen.

Electronovision Theatrofilm is important to you and your family. Only a limited number of people were able to go to the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre in New York to see Burton in "Hamlet."

Sandra Dee Heads Cooper Film Cast

It is good to report that Ross Hunter's new romantic comedy "I'd Rather Be Rich," which opened yesterday at the Cooper Theatre, is a delight to watch. It brings the blonde and beautiful Sandra Dee to the screen as heroine of a company of stars that is as impressive as it is likeable.

This is a modern romantic comedy that is peopled — in addition to Sandra — by Robert Goulet and Andy Williams two of the top young song stylists of the day; and by Maurice Chevalier, one of the top young stylists of HIS day. But with only slight exception, it is not a musical, though it has ample music.

The strong cast of accomplised mirth - makers also includes Charlie Ruggles, Hermione Gingold, Gene Raymond, Laurie Main, Dort Clark, Hayden Rorke, Rip Taylor, Allen Jenkins and Milton Frome.

In the picture, we find Sandra to be the lovely, sophisticated young lady she has become — and the heiress to great wealth every girl would like to be. In keeping with the Ross Hunter tradition of opulence, in all his productions, Sandra wears a fabulous wardrobe of Jean Louis originals, and a breath - taking collection of real gems by Cartier. She lives in a mansion, and drives about in chauffeured limousines. She is, in short, the richest girl in the land — and it becomes her.

The comedy is of mixed - up identities, in which Sandra resourcefully palms off stranger Bob Goulet as proxy to her absentee fiance, Andy Williams, to please her supposedly dying (and dating) grandfather, Chevalier. But when grandfather recovers, instead, Sandra finds she has TWO fiances to cope with. And here the fun continues.

As an unusual story point, Sandra manifests a trait common to her maternal ancestors (one of whom married grandpa), in that her left hand and her toes curl up when she kisses the man she really loves. By this unique, foot-operated kiss test does she choose finally between her two beloveds. It is a more infallible method than by any computer that man could devise, and one cannot but conclude that every girl should be so gifted as Sandra is in this.

The marvel of it all is that, in view of the vocal attainments of the several male principals— the Messrs. Goulet, Williams and Chevalier, not to mention Gene Raymond, a song star once himself — the picture is not a musical. Only Williams is cast as an entertainer (albeit, a wealthy one). He thrills the audience singing solo a new number, "Almost There," by Jerry Keller and Gloria Shane, and two standards, "Where Are You?" and "It Had To Be You."

The singing talents of Goulet and Chevalier are not totally wasted. They form a trio with Williams to sing the new, catchy title tune by Richard Maltby, Jr., and David Shire, over the opening and closing titles.

Along with being the first starring vehicle for Andy Williams, it is only the second for Bob Goulet, and a great showcase for both. On the strength of their fine performances in this, it may be predicted that both have exceptionally bright futures in the screen medium. As for Chevalier, he is remarkably fine as the match-making grandparent who declines to die.

Funnymen Can't Always Be Funny

"The trouble with being a comedian," states Joe Flynn who stars in the full-length motion picture feature, "McHale's Navy," with Ernest Borgnine and Tim Conway, "is that people refuse to take you seriously. They expect you to make them laugh all the time."

Flynn, who plays the pathetic Captain Binghampton in Universal's PT boat color comedy, now in its second week at the Ute Theatre, claims that's the reason why you see so few funnymen out in public.

"We hate to disappoint people," he added. "It's simply that in our spare time we like to relax and be serious for a change."

"The difficulty comes when we go some place for a cup of coffee. The waitress takes our order, then hovers nearby to see if we're going to say something uproarious. If we don't, she's more than likely to tell her friends that 'Joe Flynn was in the other night and I didn't crack a smile the whole time."

Flynn summarized the rule most comedians follow in public.

"It's very simple," he added, "leave them laughing."

'Marnie' Is Held Over At Broadmoor

A major technical breakthrough in color lighting —achieving a near - flawless true-life naturalness — is introduced to the screen by Alfred Hitchcock in his suspenseful sex-mystery, "Marine," a Universal release starring 'Tippi' Hedren and Sean Connery. The film is now on view at the Broadmoor Theatre.

Perfected after months of exhaustive tests conducted by Hitchcock and cinematographer Robert Burks, the new lighting technique is credited with eliminating virtually all traces of the exaggerated theatrical effect customarily attending color photography.

Under standard illuminating procedures various hues in the spectrum tend to over - statement, resulting in an artificial quality varying radically from true color values, according to an Oscar winner for Hitchcock's "To Catch A Thief."

By use of the new technique not only is the full spectrum reproduced in natural balance and intensity, Burks points out, but one of the bugaboos of the entire photographic process — harsh contrast — is all but eliminated. "Marnie" is in Technicolor.

Shot in Dark Is Held Over At Sky-Vue

Peter Sellers gives one of the most hilarious demonstrations of bumbling billiards since W.C. Fields, in Blake Edwards' "A Shot in the Dark," a Mirisch Corporation Presentation for United Artists release in Panavision and Color by DeLuxe held over at the Sky-Vue Theatre. In a scene from the madcap comedy, Sellers is trying to impress multi - millionaire George Sanders, whose elegant mansion includes a billiard room, priceless works of art and a dazzling French maid portrayed by Elke Sommer.

It seems that most of the men in Elke's life wind up in the local police morgue, and Sellers as the inept Inspector Clouseau is determined to solve the mystery and keep her out of jail as the prime suspect. During one of his fact - finding excursions the Inspector talks things over with Sanders during a devasting game of billiards. The table takes most of the punishment.

STELLER ATTRACTION — Peter O'Toole and Richard Burton are starred in the highly-acclaimed "Becket" which is set as the next attraction at the Cooper Theatre here.

Aircadia Has Top Films Wednesday

The winners of three Academy Awards, "Lilies Of The Field" and "Hud" will start Wednesday at the Aircadia Drive - in Theatre.

Sidney Poitier who stars in 'Lilies Of The Field" was given the Oscar for the Best Actor Of The Year for his performance in this story of the runaway Catholic nuns and the Baptist country boy. "Lilies Of The Field" tells of five refugee nuns from behind the Iron Curtain and the American ex-GI who helped them raise a monument to faith in the Southwestern desert.

In "Hud", Patricia Neal was given the nod for the Best Supporting Actress and Melvyn Douglas was chosen as the Best Supporting Actor for his role as the old rancher who sees his life work, to build his ranch, come tumbling down. Paul Newman plays his wayward son.

Vista Vue Adds Two For Tonight

Two extra features have been added to the regular program for tonight's showing only at the Vista Vue Drive-In Theatre.

John Wayne, Dean Martin and Ricky Nelson head the stellar cast in the first hit, "Rio Bravo" in color. Ann - Margret is starred in "Bye, Bye Birdie" the second hit. First of the added features, "Marriff's Murderers" stars Jeff Chandler. The last feature on the late, late show, "Cattle Empire," stars Joel McCrea.

Real Cowboy

Rocky Shaken of "Rawhide" was born on a cattle ranch. He says he has been riding horses since he was "up high in a hay mow."

'Becket' Set To Open Next At Cooper

The martyred man of God, Thomas Becket, whom Laurence Olivier played on Broadway in 1960, will be acted in the movies by a younger actor who has displayed some of the Olivier luster — Richard Burton. The film "Becket," based on Jean Anouilh's trenchant historical drama, will open here as the next attraction at the Cooper theatre with Peter O'Toole, of "Lawrence of Arabia" fame, cast now as Britain's Henry II.

Behind its 12th-century pageantry, "Becket," filmed in color, pursues a timeless theme: the willingness of a man to die rather than compromise his beliefs. We first see Becket as the lusty companion of Henry II. Then, for political expediency, the king appoints Becket Archbishop of Canterbury. But his new religious role transforms the licentious Becket and he takes up the church's opposition to Henry's rule.

Produced by Hal Wallis for Paramount release, "Becket" has received the highest literary awards including Parents' magazine's special merit award, Scholastic Magazines' bell ringer award and "Picture of the Month" by Seventeen magazine. It will be shown at the Cooper theatre on a reserved seat basis with continuous performances and at the Cooper's regular admission prices.

Yale Graduate

Under the G.I. Bill, Wesley Lau of "Perry Mason" attended the University of Wisconsin and took his master's degree in Theater Arts at Yale.

NASA — Gilmore is looking for typhoons.

Three Films At Aircadia

A third and extra feature has been aded to the regular program at the Aircadia Drive-in Theatre tonight.

John Wayne and Capucine are starred in the first big hit, "North To Alaska" filmed in color. Shirley MacLaine, Paul Newman, Dean Martin and Robert Mitchum are starred in "What A Way To Go" in color. The third and bonus feature, "It's Wonderful To Be Young," stars Cliff Richard and Robert Morley.

Bob Walker Said Great As 'Pulver'

"Bob Walker is one of the brightest comedians on the scene. He is going very, very far in motion pictures."

These are the words of Joshua Logan, ace stage - and screen director who should know a comer when he sees one. It was Logan who picked Robert Walker for the name - role of "Ensign Pulver", new comedy-drama in Technicolor-Panavision which he produced and directed for Warner Bros. release. The role is the first full starring role in Walker's short acting career. Co-starred with him in "Ensign Pulver", which opens Wednesday at the Chief Theatre, are Burl Ives, Walter Matthau, Kay Medford, Millie Perkins and Tommy Sands.

At 28, Walker — son of Jennifer Jones and the late Robert Walker — is a shy, sensitive, publicity-shunning young man. He would rather be strumming his guitar in Europe, or beating the bongo drums in Greenwich Village, both which he has done. Actually, he started out to be a writer, but with a wife and two small children to support, he turned to the performing art. Logan, who knew him as an infant, discovered his comedic talents after Walker had appeared in only two other pictures.

Now that he's launched, he says, "I'm very glad to have the chance, I like acting and I intend to keep studying until I know more about it.

READY, AIM . . . —Walter Matthau as a ship's doctor watches closely as Robert Walker, playing the name role in "Ensign Pulver," prepares to avenge the crew by scoring a bullseye on the mean-spirited ship's captain played by Burl Ives in this scene from the film which starts Wednesday at the Chief.

Love Team Created in New Film

First Carbo & Gilbert, then Harlow & Gable. No screen team has come along with the same cinematic sizzle until now, and now the picture causing all the excitement is scheduled as the next attraction at the Peak Theatre. Joseph E. Levine's "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," stars Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni, making their first appearance together since individually achieving international stardom. Vittorio De Sica directed the romantic comedy, which Carlo Ponti produced.

Miss Loren, whose sensual face and voluptuous figure have become the most photographed of any woman in the world, first conquered Italian audiences, then those all around Europe . . .then turned American moviegoers into one huge Loren Fan Club. But the star wanted to prove she was more than a mobile ornament. She knew she could act, really act. She returned from Hollywood to Rome, where Vittorio De Sica directed her in a stark drama. It was not in color. She wore no glamorous furs, no jewelry. Her hair was not styled. The only makeup she wore was dirt. Her few cotten dresses were torn. She was never more beautiful. She glowed with the radiance of a true star. The film was Joseph E. Levine's "Two Women." She won the Academy Award as Best Actress.

Joseph E. Levine beamed. He had promised her that she would win the Academy Award for "Two Women" after seeing only 20 minutes of it in a screening room.

The trained eye of a master showman is quick to pick the winners. Levine was also among the first to mark Marcello Mastroianni for popularity with American audiences, and "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" is his fourth film which Embassy Pictures has released. Already a European favorite when Levine signed him, he built a following with American "art-house" audiences in Michelangelo Antonioni's "La Notte," Federico Fellini's "La Dolce Vita" and "Big Deal on Madonna Street." Levine distributed "The Law," "Bell 'Antonio," "Divorce — Italian Style" (for which Mastroianni won the Academy Award nomination for Best Actor) and Fellini's award winning masterpiece "8½".

Loren & Mastroianni are about the "hottest" performers in pictures today, all over the world. Teaming them was, for Levine, both inevitable and irresistable.

Noted for his many "Firsts" on the screen, Joseph E. Levine is happiest about this one. "I beat everybody to the punch," he says. "I have the greatest love team since Gilbert and Garbo.

Romy Has Six Hair Styles In Peak Film

Six new hair styles are introduced by Romy Schnieder in "Good Neighbor Sam" in which Dorothy Provine, now showing at the Peak Theatre. The comedy, a Columbia Pictures release in color, guest stars Edward G. Robinson and co-stars Michael Connors, Edward Andrews, Louis Nye and Robert Q. Lewis. It is a David Swift production.

Miss Schneider's hair styles were created by onetime paratrooper Frederic Jones, a New York hair stylist who also designed the hairdos she wore in Otto Preminger's "The Cardinal." A native of Atlanta, Ga., Jones studied hairdressing in New York and Paris under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

LOREN AND MASTROIANNI—Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni are starred in "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," scheduled as the next attraction at the Peak Theatre.

Patty Duke in 2nd Season

"The Patty Duke Show," ABC - TV's merry half-hour comedy series starring Academy Award winner Patty Duke in the dual role of Look-alike cousins, begins it second season on the network Wednesday on Channel 13.

In "The Green - Eyed Monster," the premiere episode, Patty meets handsome, brilliant, all - conference athlete - cadet colonel Geoffrey Davis III, and Richard, Patty's boyfriend, is faced with competition.

Robert Ryan to Narrate New World War I Series

Robert Ryan will be the narrator of the new "World War I" series on the CBS Television Network.

The distinguished actor of stage, screen and television will begin recording next week the narration for "The Summer of Sarajevo," which will be broadcast as the premiere episode of "World War I," Sept. 22.

As narrator for U.S. television's first full-scale documentary probe of the root War era, Ryan joins Morton Gould, noted composer and conductor, in the gifted all-camera talent team assigned to the production of "World War I." Gould as previously announced, is writing the original score for the entire series.

Ryan, who was born in Chicago on Nov. 11, 1909, began his acting career with a little theatre group in Chicago in 1937. He won critical acclaim for his role in the Broadway version of Clifford Odets' "Clash by Night" in 1941, which opened the Hollywood door for him.

His movie activities were shelved temporarily when he enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps. Until his discharge in November 1945, he served as infantry training instructor. The military knowledge he gained during his World War II service will stand Ryan in good stead in his assignment as narrator for the series documenting the turbulent military and social history of the first global conflict.

There are an estimated 8 million Spanish - speaking people in the United States.

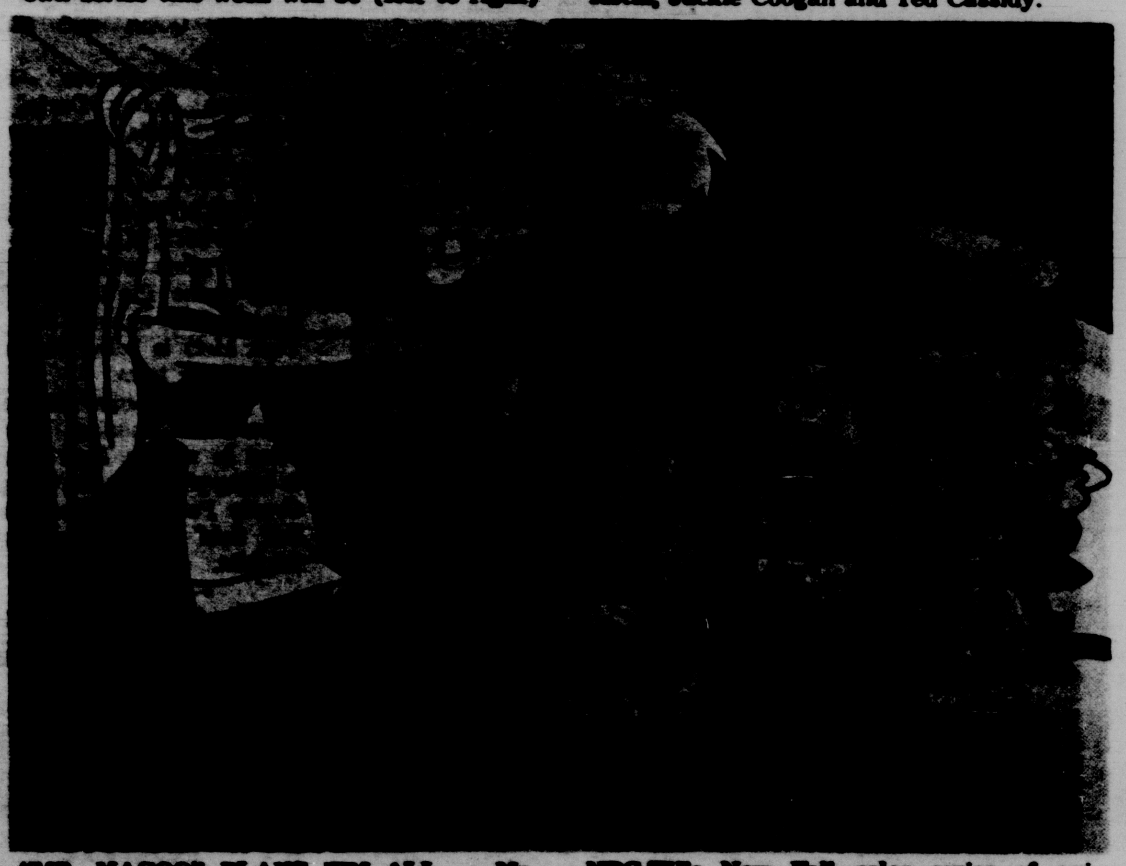
WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT — ABC-TV launches its 1964 season on Sunday with "ABC's Wide World of Entertainment"—a one-hour special starring Bing Crosby as host and featuring an outstanding array of the network's new stars this Fall. Among the stars who will appear on the show and who will also debut in their own series this week will be (left to right) Kathy Nolan, George Burns, Mickey Rooney, David Hedison, Walter Brennan, Richard Basehart and Connie Stevens. Also included in the galaxy on "ABC's Wide World of Entertainment" will be such ABC-TV stars as David Janssen, Gene Barry, Lawrence Welk, Tony Franciosa, Inger Stevens, Patty Duke, Jimmy Dean, Carolyn Jones, John Astin, Jackie Coogan and Ted Cassidy.



"MR. MAGOO" PLAYS 'EM ALL — Mr. Magoo will portray all seven dwarfs when the story of "Snow White" is presented on "The Famous Adventures of Mr. Magoo," NBC-TV's New Fall color series of animated dramatizations of favorite tales Saturdays on Channel 5. Jim Backus will be the voice of Mr. Magoo.

Bing Crosby Hosts Gala ABC Showcase Sunday

A unique overture to ABC-TV's 1964-65 season will come from the stage of the Hollywood Palace Theatre when "ABC's Wide World of Entertainment" is telecast on Sunday.

With Bing Crosby as host, the gala special will present more than 30 of the industry's leading stars, toppers on ABC's outstanding lineup of new and returning shows.

From the curtain - raiser presenting Crosby and showcasing each star, the singers and cancers in a specially written number, "The ABC - TV Schedule Song," to the hour's closer, "The Old Soft Shoe," the minutes teem with entertainment.

Highlights of the gala will include Bing backed by Mickey Rooney, Ernest Borgnine, Sammy Jackson, Richard Basehart, David Hedison, and Tony Franciosa singing "I Ain't Go Nocboyd"; Connie Stevens in a dance set to "Hello Dolly" and "Cottonfields"; and Kathy Nolan singing "Too Long at the Fair."

There'll be a happy group of hoofers from ABC-TV's "Shindig" offering a sampling of their steps, and Crosby, Rooney, an David Janssen swing out in a cantata captioned "Style."

For glamour there will be Bing's teta - a - tetes with Inger Stevens and Patty Duke, and for sharp contrast, a couple of "Outer Limits" monsters invade the tube, and Bing drops in for a cozy visit with "The Addams Family," encountering Carolyn Jones, as Morticia, John Astin, as her husband, Gomez, and immediate and collateral kin of this a typical Amerian family.

Gene Barry, the suave, Rolls Royce - riding hawkshaw of "Burke's Law," appears in the role of a burro chauffeur on "Wagon Train" after a go at the cards with John McIntire and Bob Fuller.

When Bing's baritone begins the witchery of "Bwitched," it brings forth Jimmy Dean, and the two, backed by The Champagne Music Maker, Lawrence Welk, swing out in "The Beer Barrel Polka."

Along the entertainment line the following will contribute to the ABC-TV jollity; Edward Andrews, Walter Brennan, Georbe Burns, Jackie Coogan, incent Edwards, The Flintstones, Sam Jaffe, Rick Jason, Robert Lansing, Lisa Loring, Dorothy Malone, Elizabeth Montgomery, Agnes Moorehead, Vic Morrow, Blossom Rock, Sammy Tong, Ken Weatherwax, Dick York and a host of others.

The Reporter Set Sept. 25 On CBS Net

Conceived by best - selling author-playwright Jerome Weidman, "The Reporter," new full - hour dramatic series revolving around an aggressive young newspaperman on a New York daily, will make its debut on the CBS Television Network Sept. 25.

Starring in the series as reporter-columnist Danny Taylor will be Harry Guardino, gifted actor who has been acclaimed for his performances on Broadway in "A Hatful of Rain" and "Natural Affection," for his work in such motion pictures as "Houseboat," "The Pigeon That Took Rome" and "King of Kings," and for his guest-star roles in numerous television dramas going back to "Studio One" and "Playhouse 90."

As "The Reporter," Guardino will portray the dynamic, restless product of a tough New York environment whose great zest for his profession leads him to complete physical and emotional involvement in every story he covers for the New York Globe.

Appearing in the series with Guardino will be Gary Merrill, distinguished film and television actor, who will play City Editor Lou Sheldon, Danny Taylor's conscience, mentor (and on occasion, tormentor) and the one person who understands him completely.

Featured cast regulars will be George O'Hanlon and Remo Pisani. O'Hanlon plays taxi driver Artie Burns, whose cab is always at Danny Taylor's disposal to take him to whatever New York City location is indicated by the story Danny is covering at the moment. Pisani appears as Ike Dawson, proprietor of the Globe's "oasis," The Press Box, and confidant of, father confessor to and message repository for the paper's star newsman.

Jerome Weidman, creator of "The Reporter," is the author of 20 published works, among them such best-sellers as "I Can Get It For You Wholesale," "I'll Never Go There Anymore" and "The Enemy Camp." He also wrote the book for the Pulitzer Prize-winning Broadway musical "Fiorello!" Weidman will serve as the series' creative supervisor and will contiue a number of scripts himself.8

FLYING TYCOON — Walter Brennan, one of America's most distinguished actors, returns to ABC-TV when he stars as Walter Andrews this fall in a new, half-hour comedy series, "The Tycoon," which premieres Tuesday on Channel 13. (9-9:30 P.M.,) Van Williams plays Pat Burns, pilot and aide to Walter Andrews.

Brennan Still Busy At Age 70

Walter Brennan, who has played septuagenarians since he was in his 30s, became 70 for real July 25 and scoffs at the thought of retirement.

"I'll never retire," exclaimed Brennan on the set of his new ABC-TV comedy series, "The Tycoon," premiering Tuesday. "I can't loaf. Sitting around is a lot of baloney."

Brennan's attitude is mirrored in the new character he plays. As Walter Andrews, founder and board chairman of a vast industrial empire, he casually offsets the efforts of younger men in the firm to force his retirement.

Minus the familiar limp and rustic wardrobe of Amos McCoy in "The Real McCoys," which he played for six seasons, Brennan now appears on camera nattily dressed in business suits which accentuate his healthy vigor. The tall, grey-haired New Englander drives 30 miles to the studio from his Ventura County home every morning and thrives on his work.

"This business has been good to me," said the three-time "Oscar" winner. "I've been in it 44 years, ever since they gave me a buck for falling off a horse in a western, and I count my blessings every day.

"I appreciate that at 70 I'm still vaunted. This is my hobby. I have no other."

Brennan and his wife, the former Ruth Wells, have been married 46 years. They have two sons, a daughter and 14 grandchildren. Mike, the elder son, manages the family ranches in Oregon. Andy is associate producer of "The Tycoon." Ruth is the wife of Cmdr. Dixon Lindsman, USN.

Peyton Place Drama Seen Twice Weekly

"Peyton Place," the dramatic story of life in a small New England town, as suggested by Grace Metalious' best-selling novel, premieres as a twice-weekly drama in a new concept of prime time television programming, Tuesday, on channel 13.

"Peyton Place" will be telecast each Tuesday and Thursday in the same time period.

In the premiere week, on Tuesday, Dr. Michael Rossi arrives to take up practice in Peyton Place, little suspecting how deeply he will become involved with the lives of several of its citizens.

On the brink of womanhood, and searching for love, 17-year-old Allison Mackenzie makes makes plans much against her mother's wishes.

On Thursday, September 17, Constance Mackenzie has a deep, secret well-spring of her life opened by meeting the town's new doctor, Michael Rossi.

Surf Action Featured on "Burke's Law"

With a lively surfing mystery complete with "hoe-dads," "Wipeouts" and dancers doing the "Watusi," "Burke's Law," starring Gene Barry as millionaire detective Amos Burke, returns for its second season on ABC-TV in a new time period, Wednesday.

In "Who Killed The Surf Board?" an ambitious young actress and surfing queen collapses and dies on emerging from the Malibu waves. After murder is established, Burke questions four suspects, including the victim's mother, played by guest Dorothy Lamour, a writer, a surf shop owner and the operator of a surfer's hangout.

Tim Tilson does undercover work while posing as a beach boy to help the investigations.

FIFTH AVE

SHELTON, Conn. (AP)—Scoring aces on the golf course is getting to be a habit for 69-year-old Leslie L. Bauer of Shelton.

He recorded the fifth of his golfing career recently at the Highland Golf Club, where he has been club champion 22 times. Using a seven-iron, he sank the ace on the 140-yard sixth hole. Bauer completed the nine holes in a par 36.

"FRIENDS"—Jim Coake (center) and the Everly Brothers, besides the guest cast for the premiere program in the new musical series, "Shindig," Wednesday on Channel 13.

SPECTRAL TUNE—Ernest Borgnine and Tim Conway engage in a bit of spirited music in "The Ghost of 73" on "McHale's Navy" season premiere Tuesday on Channel 13.

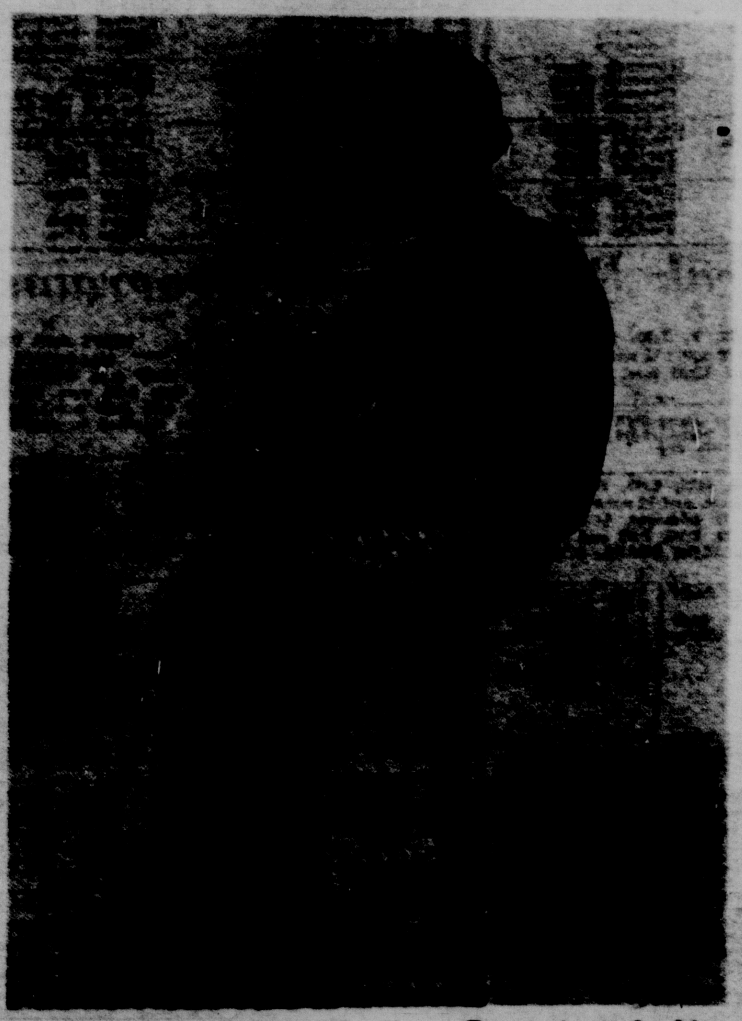
"SHINDIG"—Sam Cooke (center) and the Everly Brothers headline the guest cast for the premiere program in the new musical series, "Shindig," Wednesday on Channel 13.

NEW GUN IN TOWN—Gunfighter Emmett Ryker (Clu Gulager) has a drink with cowpoke (Berkeley Harris) after arriving in town in "Ryker," the premiere episode, as "The Virginian" begins its third colorcast season on NBC Wednesday on Channel 5. This episode introduces Gulager as a series regular.

NEW COMEDY TEAM—"Wendy and Me," debuting on ABC-TV Monday (9-9:30 p.m., EDT) on Channel 13, stars Connie Stevens in the title role. The "Me" of the title is the incomparable George Burns, who stars as himself—genial smile, cigar and all. "Wendy and Me" features the hard-to-believe antics of a girl who knows what she is doing all the time—but never tells a soul.



SWINGING INTO SECOND—Jimmy Dean returns for his second season on ABC-TV in the Thursday 10-11 p.m., EDT time period beginning this week on Channel 13.

Leisuretime Viewing

It's back to Atlantic City and Convention Hall TONIGHT for the 44th annual "Miss America Pageant" to be broadcast over CBS. Competing for the title will be 50 comely gals including Colorado's hopeful Kathleen Lenore Knight, 19-year old Deaverite. Marilyn Van Derbur, Colorado's winner of the title in 1958, will be among the judges. Another former Miss America, Bess Myerson, will help MC Bert Parks describe the event.

The pro football season gets kicked-off TODAY when CBS premieres its new Saturday full-hour series previewing in depth the full schedule of National Football League games to be played the following day. The show's title is "NFL-Countdown to Kickoff" and runs through Dec. 19. Tom Harmon is the anchor commentator for the series.

Highlights of the 42nd annual Pikes Peak Hill Climb will be presented on NBC's Sprots Special TODAY with Bud Palmer as program host.

Bing Crosby, who takes to the air MONDAY in his own series, hosts a special curtain raising festival SUNDAY on "ABC's Wide World of Entertainment." The launching will introduce some of the stars of the network's new shows and others whose shows weren't nicked in the bud last season. A peek at the other two major network's new shows makes one thing plain: ABC will be the front-runner this season.

"The Bing Crosby Show" on MONDAY will introduce the actor-singer as consulting engineer Bing Collins, husband of Ellie, played by Beverly Garland, and their two daughters, Joyce, 16, and Janice, 11, played by Carol Faylen and Diane Sherry. The situation comedy gets off to a good start with a wild night when the Collins try to recapture the fervor of their courting days. Frank McHugh plays a war-time buddy of Bing's who came to dinner and stayed for 10 years.

Another debut MONDAY over ABC is the saga of a super sub the Seaview, starring Richard Basehart. The time is set in 1973. Eddie Albert guest stars in the first episode "Eleven Days to Zero." The plot concerns the sub's mission to the North Pole to detonate a nuclear device at the precise instant of an accurately predicted earthquake.

CBS offers viewers a look at some of its stars of new comedy series SUNDAY over "The Celebrity Game." The show, with Carl Reiner as moderator, will continue its foremat, however, with such questions as: Is there too much emphasis on sex in America? and do too many men think of themselves as Casanovas? It has promise.

That hilarious novel - play - movie "No Time for Sergeants" has now been adapted for TV and makes its debut MONDAY over ABC with Sammy Jackson playing Will Stockdale, the hillbilly airman who finds new worlds to conquer in the Air Force.

It will be a nostalgic hour TUESDAY when CBS presents "The Frances Langford Show," a musical variety hour. Every man and woman who served in World War II will remember some of these entertainers who visited every theater of operations to add some humor to those days. Included in the stellar lineup are Jerry Colonna, guitarist Tony Romano, Edgar Bergen and Charlie, and of course Bob Hope.

NBC News will present a special TUESDAY entitled "Ganges - Sacred River," with narration by actor Michael Rennie. The show was filmed on location along the 1,500-mile course of the river, from its source high in the Hamalayas to its mouth in the Bay of Bengal.

"Shindig," a music series, makes its debut WEDNESDAY over ABC with singer Sam Cooke headlining a roster of top young singers and dancers. Jimmy O'Neill will be the series host.

"The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" begins its 13th season WEDNESDAY over ABC with a segment of the chronicle of the activities of the Nelsons entitled "Rick and the Girl Across the Hall."

"The Virginian" starts its third season WEDNESDAY over NBC with Clu Gulager playing "Ryker" who comes to Medicine Bow, Wyo., as a well-reputed gunfighter. This episode introduces Gulager as a regular who stays on as a deputy sheriff. Get the picture?

Movies are better than ever if NBC's offering on "WEDNESDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES" is any indication. The scheduled film is "To Catch a Thief" which starred Cary Grant and Grace Kelly.

"The Donna Reed Show" opens its seventh season THURSDAY over ABC when Donna and Alex celebrate their wedding anniversary.

Other shows will have their debuts within the next couple of weeks. Today's Leisuretime offers a hint of the goodies to come.-M.M.

Bob Cummings Loves Robot In New Series

Bob Cummings plays a space-agency psychiatrist who suddenly finds himself custodian of Rhoda, an Air Force top-secret robot, in the premiere episode of "My Living Doll," a new situation comedy series which makes its debut Sunday, on the CBS Television Network.

Statuesque Julie Newmar plays Rhoda, a robot constructed to the exact specifications of a human being and programmed to function like one.

Co-starring with Cummings, regarded as one of the best light comedians in the business and Miss Newmar, in her first television series, are Jack Mullaney, familiar to viewers, for his roles in such series as "Ensign O' Toole" and "The Ann Sothern Show," and Doris Dowling, whose early success was on the legitimate stage and in motion pictures.

In the premiere show Dr. Bob McDonald (Cummings), a consulting psychiatrist to a space-agency firm, learns from Dr. Carl Miller (Henry Beckman) that Miller's special project, known as AF 709, is missing somewhere in the agency building. Later, Cummings has a conversation with a statuesque beauty who wears only a sheet. He does not know that the beautiful girl is AF 709, a robot being readied for space research. When McDonald finally realizes that the girl in the sheet and the missing robot are one and the same, he sneaks out of the building and soon locates her on the street.

'Defenders' Moves Into Fourth Year

"The Defenders" is starting its fourth year with quite a few firsts, according to E. G. Marshall star of the Emmy-award winning CBS-TV series.

"The first is a new time period. Beginning September 24th, we will be on the air Thursdays from 10 to 11 PM (EDT), right after our old neighbor, "Perry Mason." We will open the season with a two-part story, "The Seven Hundred Year Old Gang,' in which Tom Poston plays a prominent lawyer whose aging father-in-law is an amateur bootlegger," says Marshall.

"Another first is that the firm of Preston & Preston will be up against a lady lawyer. Cloris Leachman will play this role in an episode to be seen early this season.

"Later in the season a major new development will be a two-part production that starts on "The Nurses" and ends on "The Defenders." It concerns a young boy who kills his teacher after viewing a violent movie. Forum programs and panel groups have previously discussed violence in television and movies, but I believe this is the first time that this has been the theme of a dramatic television program."

Some of the other Defenders scripts this season will deal with kidnapping, lyel and cannibalism. Guest stars will include Viveca Lindfors, Alfred Ryder, Allen MacMahon, Robert Redder, Phyllis Thaxter and Arthur Hill.

"We hope everyone will remember that the law firm of Preston and Preston will be open for business on Thursday nights instead of Saturdays, starting September 24th," adds Marshall.

Co$tly Ca$t

Otto Preminger's star payroll for his exciting film, "In Harm's Way," currently filming in Hawaii, is in the neighborhood of 3 million dollars. Why? John Wayne, Kirk Douglas, Henry Fonda and Tom Tryon are but a few in the cast. (Brother can you spare a dime?)

The first widower to be elected President was Thomas Jefferson. His wife, Martha, died in 1782 at the age of 33. Jefferson was inaugurated in 1801.

Started It All

Irene Ryan, Granny in "The Beverly Hillbillies," made her debut at age 11, when she won an amateur contest on a San Francisco stage.

McHale Sails Again On Tuesday

"McHale's Navy" returns for its third fun-filled cruise on the ABC-TV Network Tuesday.

In the opening episode, "The Ghosts of 73," Captain Binghamton tricks McHale's men into applying for transfers by convincing them that the PT-73 is a jinx ship. The crew learns of Binghamton's trickery too late, and it appears that the most successful collection of scroungers in Navy history will be scattered to the four winds and the seven seas.

'Defenders' Moves Into Fourth Year

"The Defenders" is starting its fourth year with quite a few firsts, according to E. G. Marshall star of the Emmy-award winning CBS-TV series.

"The first is a new time period. Beginning September 24th, we will be on the air Thursdays from 10 to 11 PM (EDT), right after our old neighbor, "Perry Mason." We will open the season with a two-part story, "The Seven Hundred Year Old Gang,' in which Tom Poston plays a prominent lawyer whose aging father-in-law is an amateur bootlegger," says Marshall.

"Another first is that the firm of Preston & Preston will be up against a lady lawyer. Cloris Leachman will play this role in an episode to be seen early this season.

"Later in the season a major new development will be a two-part production that starts on "The Nurses" and ends on "The Defenders." It concerns a young boy who kills his teacher after viewing a violent movie. Forum programs and panel groups have previously discussed violence in television and movies, but I believe this is the first time that this has been the theme of a dramatic television program."

Some of the other Defenders scripts this season will deal with kidnapping, livel and cannibalism. Guest stars will include Viveca Lindfors, Alfred Ryder, Aline MacMahon, Robert Redfor, Phyllis Thaxter and Arthur Hill.

"We hope everyone will remember that the law firm of Preston and Preston will be open for business on Thursday nights instead of Saturdays, starting September 24th," adds Marshall.

Co$tly Ca$t

Otto Preminger's star payroll for his exciting film, "In Harm's Way," currently filming in Hawaii, is in the neighborhood of 3 million dollars. Why? John Wayne, Kirk Douglas, Henry Fonda and Tom Tryon are but a few in the cast. (Brother can you spare a dime?)

The first widower to be elected President was Thomas Jefferson. His wife, Martha, died in 1792 at the age of 33, Jefferson was inaugurated in 1801.

Comedy Is the Keynote; 35 New Shows to Debut

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)— The moguls of the miniature movieland that is television have decreed that viewers will laugh if it kills them when the new season rolls around.

The season begins officially on Sunday, Sept. 13, when NBC telecasts "The Rogues." It is a season that:

—Marks the entry of big-name motion picture stars into weekly series. People like Charles Boyer, David Niven (NBC's "The Rogues"), Bing Crosy (ABC's "The Bing Crosby Show"), Mickey Rooney (ABC's "Mickey") and Carolyn Jones (ABC's "The Addams Family").

—Sees the return of 47 performers who have previously appeared on series. The three stars of "The Real McCoys" are back, Walter Brennen in ABC's "The Tycoon," Richard Crenna in CBS's "Slattery's People" and Kathy Nolan in "ABC's "Broadside." Dennis Weaver has left Chester's limp in Dodge City to play a horse trainer and reluctant father to a Chinese refugee in NBC's "Kentucky Jones." Craig ("Peter Gunn") Stevens is playing a suave, Gunny, Broadway public relations man in CBS's "Mr. Broadway."

—Launches a show that could be a major trend-setter, ABC's "Peyton Place." Adapted from, but not necessarily based on, the clinical Grace Metalious novel, "Peyton Place" will be telecast twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 9:30 p.m. Each episode, producer Richard Goldstone said, will be "an act of a play — the first 104-act play ever attempted. Our only problem will be long intermissions." Dorothy Malone, Ed Nelson, Ryan O'Neal, Mia Farrow, Warner Anderson and Patricia Breslin head a cast of 12 regulars. Reports are if the show is successful, it may go to three times a week in midseason.

—Hides three separate, half-hour situation comedies, "Karen," "Tom, Dick and Mary" and "Harris Against the World" under one title, "Ninety Bristol Court" (study those initials and you will have an idea of the network presenting the series). All the families involved in the shows live in a Los Angeles bungalow court. The stories are linked together by a snappy handy man given to talking to the camera.

But most important of all, the new season numbers 22 new half-hour situation comedies which, added to the holdover, makes 30 hours a week available for mass chuckling.

Among the comedies are two about the normal, ordinary monsters next door, ABC's "The Addams Family," with Carolyn Jones as Morticia, and CBS's "The Munsters," with Yvonne De Carlo as an All-American ghoul.

One of the most promising series, and one sought by all three networks, is ABC's "Bewitched," starring Elizabeth Montgomery as a "house-hunting, broomstick-riding, cauldron-stirring witch" married to advertising executive Dick York, who realizes all new marriages have their little problems to be worked out. One of the problems is Miss Montgomery's mother, another witch, played with great hammy humor by Agnes Moorehead.

ABC, which has the most new shows (16), also has the most new comedies (9). Besides those already mentioned, there is "No Time for Sergeants," starring an ingratiating newcomer, Sammy Jackson, as the ingenuous farm boy whose very innocence is an Army bottleneck; and "Valentine's Day," which derives its charm from Anthony Franciosa's portrayal of a publishing executive with his mind devoted to chasing females.

There are two hour-long, action-adventure series on ABC. "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" stars Richard Basehart and David Hedison and a far-out submarine that has picture windows. "12 O'Clock High," starring Robert Lansing, is a serious World War II-oriented series, based on the movie of the same name.

CBS has a dozen new shows, seven of which are comedies. "Living Doll" presents the droll idea that Juile Newmar is a robot. "Many Happy Returns" stars John McGiver as the head of a department store's complaint department. Cara Williams is back as a working wife. "Baileys of Balboa," with Paul Ford, is a wet "Beverly Hillbillies." "Gomer Pyle, USMC," is a spin-off from Andy Griffith's show, with Jim Nabors as a bewildered Marine trainee. "Gilligan's Island" is about a bunch of castaways on a desert island. One of them is Tina Louise, which should set male viewers dreaming.

CBS' serious effort is the hour-long "The Reporter," created by Jerome Weidman and starring Harry Guardino as a New York newspaper columnist and Gary Merrill as his managing editor.

NBC has the fewest new shows, seven, and is the one network to buck the half-hour comedy trend. Early Saturday is being turned over to family shows with the delightful, filmed-in-color "Flipper," followed by "Mr. Magoo," a cartoon series with the Quixotic hero (and Jim Backus' voice) starring in epics from Robin Hood to the Paul Revere story. "Kentucky Jones," Dennis Weaver's series, leads into "Saturday Night at the Movies," back at the same old stand.

Two of the brightest NBC shows appear to be a pair of tongue - in - cheek adventure shows. "The Rogues" is about a family of utterly charming connivers who will work very hard to get money illegally, but never lift a finger for a legitimately earned penny. Charles Boyer and David Niven are co-stars with Gig Young, but it is Young who will carry the acting burden. Gladys Cooper and Robert Coote complete the family.

"The Man From U.N.C.L.E." is bottled in Bond (James), and has Robert Vaughn as the suave, sleek, unruffled agent surrounded by beautiful women and madmen out to capture the world.

A sample of the sly dialogue comes when our hero and the beautiful-lady-of-the-week have been captured by a madman. They are handcuffed to and suspended from an iron pipe. Steam has been turned on so they will be cooked alive. "Your death will be slow," says the madman as he leaves. Says Vaughn to the lovely lady (tersely) "Sorry." She says (nobly), "I knew there was danger when I took the job. You mustn't blame yourself." He says (matter-of-factly), "I'm not blaming myself. Somebody had to do the job."

DANGEROUS ASSIGNMENT — Napolene Solo (Robert Vaughn), top agent of the undercover organization U.N.C.L.E., and Elaine Donaldson (Pat Crowley), the housewife he recruited as an agent, are chained to a pipe after being captured by subversive agents in "The Vulcan Affair," the premiere episode on NBC-TV's new series, "The Man From U.N.C.L.E.," Tuesday, Sept. 22 (8:30-9:30 p.m., NYT).

THE MUNSTERS — This happy looking family group could be your next-door suburban neighbors—and if they are you ought to be thinking about moving. They're the Munster family of monsters and they'll make their initial appearance in "The Munsters," new situation comedy series, Thursday, Sept. 24 on Channel 11. (7:30-8:00 PM, EDT). They are (front, left to right) Yvonne De Carlo, Beverly Owen and Al Lewis, and (rear) Fred Gwynne.

The Little Black Box Will Kick

MEET 'THE ROGUES'—These are "The Rogues"—Charles Boyer, Gig Young, David Niven and Robert Coote (standing, left to right) and Gladys Cooper. Young in heart, living by their wits in a world of wealth, the rogues are interested in the game, not the gain. They are the principals in a new full-hour suspense drama series in the Raffles tradition, "The Rogues," a weekly presentation on NBC-TV starting Sunday.

WITCHING MOTHER-IN-LAW — As a working witch, Agnes Moorehead performs a bit of her special magic somewhat startling to Dick York as her son-in-law, in ABC-TV's new merry-spirited comedy series, "Bewitched," taking to it broomstick Thursday, 9-9:30 p.m., EDT, on Channel 13.

SUBMARINE DRAMA—Richard Basehart (seated) stars as Admiral Harriman Nelson, USN (Ret.), designer of the advanced atomic submarine Seaview; David Hedison (l.) co-stars as Commander Lee Crane, the Seaview's captain; and guest star Eddie Albert is seismologist Dr. Fred Wilson, in "Eleven Days to Zero," the premiere episode in ABC-TV's new action-adventure series, "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," on Channel 13, Monday.

SHOULDER ARMS! — Tough sergeant Frank Hutton barks out commands to his naive recruit Jim Nabors in "Gomer Pyle—USMC," comedy series which makes its debut Friday, Sept. 25 (9:30-10:00 P.M., EDT) on Channel 11.

GORGEOUS GOVERNESS — ABC-TV's "The Farmer's Daughter," starring Inger Stevens as Kathie Holstrum, governess to a widowed Congressman's sons in Washington, returns for a second lighthearted season, when it moves to Friday, Sept. 18 on Channel 13.

* * * * * *

Farmer's Daughter Moves To Friday for New Season

"The Farmer's Daughter" will be seen on a new night Friday, and at a new time, 8:00-8:30 p.m. (EDT) when it begins its new season this week.

The half-hour comedy series is one of the outstanding successes of the past season. Although it began rather slowly it rose to become one of the top 10 rated shows of the year. The program also received many honors. There were five Emmy nominations, including one for Inger Stevens' performance; Inger also won the Golden Globe and the TV Guide awards as best actress of the year on television.

Several changes are planned this season, although the basic premise and characters will remain intact. The changes are mainly geared to make better use of the acknowledged fine talents of the leading actors who are regulars in the series. These include Miss Stevens, William Windom and Cathleen Nesbitt, all of whom are respected stage actors, as well as being TV and motion picture stars.

"We have instructed our writers to create characterizations that will better challenge the talents of our actors," says producer Peter Kortner. "In one program, for instance, Inger plays dual roles - her regular part of Katy Holstrum as well as Congressman Morley's first wife. In another she appears as Katy at 15 and again at 75. Windom likewise spans the age spectrum. These characterizations require more than makeup to make them believable. We are fortunate to have actors who can handle these jobs. We intend to make full use of their abilities this season."

Another subtle change will be in Inger's hair styles. Viewers have indicated an increasing interest in her appearance. Consequently, Leslie Blanchard, famous New York hair stylist, has been signed to develop six new designs Inger will use during the season. "I've always believed that appearance has a great deal to do with an actor's performance," observes Inger. "I must confess, however, that it throws me when someone writes to tell me how much they enjoyed my performance, especially my hairdo."

Combat Set To Open 3rd Season

Theodore Bikel guest starts as a war weary French hermit in the premiere episode of ABC-TV's "Combat!" beginning its third season, Tuesday, on Channel 13.

U. S. Olympic Ski Coach and ski expert on "ABC's Wide World of Sports" Bob Beattie makes his television debut on the premiere show as a German soldier who pursues an ski regular cast member Pierre Jalbert (Caje), a former ski champion from Canada. Snow locations for the episode were filmed in Squaw Valley, Calif., site of the 1960 Winter Olympic Games.

In the debut program, "Mountain Man," Lt. Hanley orders Sgt. Saunders and the squad on a special assignment to mark out a safe route for a division of American G. I.'s over treacherous snow-covered mountains.

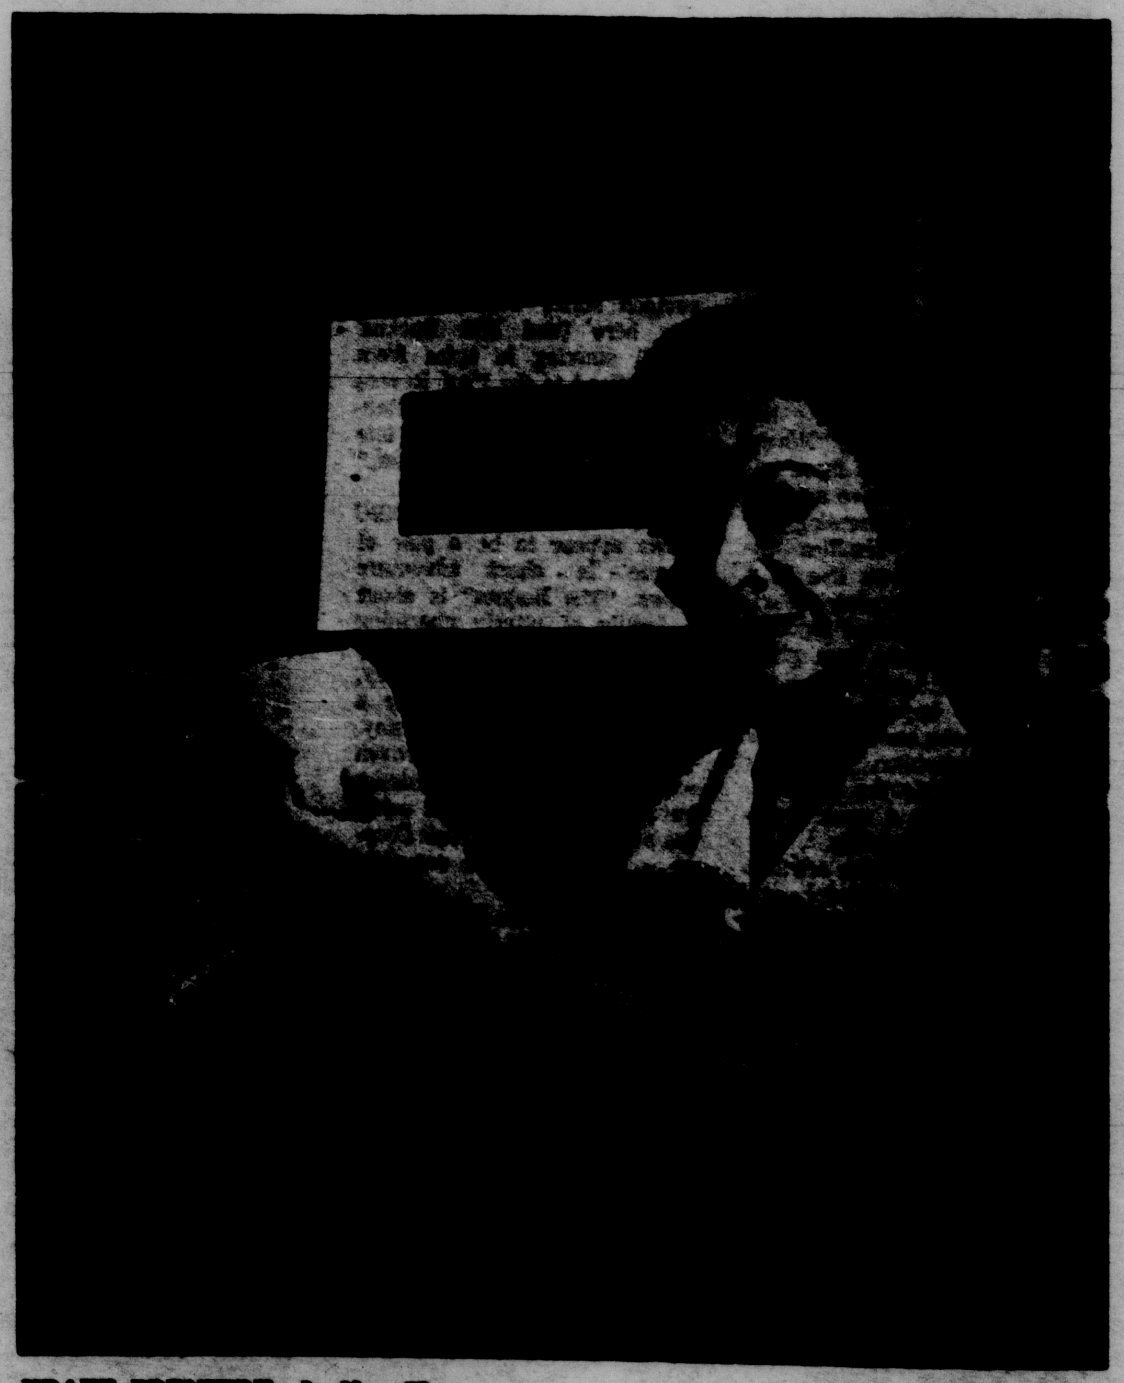
BOB'S PREMIERE — Bob Hope's powerhouse lineup for the first "Chrysler Presents A Bob Hope Comedy Special" on Friday, Sept. 25 on NBC-TV (8:30 PM, EDT.) includes Jack Benny, Milton Berle, Dean Martin and Phyllis Diller. Benny's own show follows Hope's on the NBC-TV network and the pair will remain back-to-back throughout the 1964-65 season. Les Brown and his Band of Renown also return to the Hope show.



KRAFT PREMIERE—Jo Van Fleet stars with Sal Mineo, Albert Dekker and Patricia Hyland in "The World I Want" which opens the season for Kraft Suspense Theatre, in color, Thursday, Oct. 1 at 10 p.m. (EDT) over NBC-TV. Portraying a deaf-mute, Mineo works in a cabinet shop run by Miss Van Fleet and her husband, played by Dekker. He will be framed for murder when the hate filled couple turns to violence to end their marriage and business. Miss Hyland plays the couple's niece who befriends Mineo and so becomes a tragic target for a second crime.

CBS News Sets Series Of Specials

Twelve one-hour CBS News special broadcasts covering a wide range of cultural, social and scientific subjects will alternate during the coming season with the highly acclaimed CBS REPORTS on Wednesday nights, on the CBS Television Network.

In addition, three transatlantic Town Meeting of the World broadcasts, transmitted via satellite, and 17 half-hour CBS News special reports, dealing both with cultural subjects and "hard news" stories, will be broadcast during the Wednesday 7:30-8:30 and 7:30-8:00 P.M., PDT time periods.

The 12 one-hour specials will range in subject matter from art, music and the theater to history, astronomy and social comment. The techniques to be employed will range from film to video-taped dramatic readings.

Typical of the hour-long specials will be "Pablo Casals and His World," tentatively scheduled for Dec. 16. The special will follow the famed 86-year-old cellist, conductor and teacher through a six-month itinerary. In November, CBS News will film a conversation which will reflect his musical philosophy and the effect his political experiences have had upon his career.

Other subjects to be included in the group of specials will be "The President: A Splendid Misery," starring Frederic March, Dana Andrews, Ed Begley, Joseph Cotten, E. G. Marshall, Jason Roberds Jr. and Robert Ryan, scheduled for Sept 28; "The Mystery of Stonehenge," a scientific detective story unveiling the mystery that has surrounded the ruins of Stonehenge for centuries; Tokyo Through Different Eyes," a follow-up to last season's highly acclaimed "Dublin: Through Different Eyes;" and pictorial portraits of leading figures in the arts, such as sculptor Henry Moore.

The bulk of the 12 specials will be broadcast after the November 3 election. Most of the Wednesday night broadcasts prior to that date will concern themselves with aspects of the campaign, the candidates and the issues in the coming election.

Crosby Show Set to Start First Season

Bing Crosby debuts as actor in a continuing role - consulting engineer Bing Collins, husband of devoted Ellie, and father of Joyce, 16, and Janice, 11 - when he starts on ABC-TV's new weekly series, "The Bing Crosby Show," Monday.

The series will be launched with "A Fine Romance," in which Janice remarks that the glow seems to have gone from her parents' relationship. The youngster's quip sparks a night of adventure for Bing and Ellie in which they try to recapture the fervor of their courting days in the exact spots in which they dated.

In a secluded meeting place, place, Bing sings "It Had to be You" for Ellie, and they get rousted by a group of necking teenagers. Later, when they try to waltz at their favorite tavern, they get caught up in a wild Watusi.

Written by Dan Beaumont, "A Fine Romance" was directed by James Sheldon,, series' director. John Scott Trotter is music supervisor.

A VENTURI PROTEGE

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — National Open champion Ken Venturi hasn't been to Long Island this year but he came up another winner when singer Johnny Johnston shot a 71 to take low net honors in the annual Queens County Chamber of Commerce tournament.

Johnston, who took golf lessons from Venturi, walked off with six handsome silver mugs.

RIDING INTO 7TH YEAR—The Stones, America's favorite TV family, begin the seventh season of their saga on ABC-TV's "The Donna Reed Show" with "Operation Anniversary," Thursday (8-8:30 p.m. EDT) on Channel 13. Making up the Stone menage are Paul Petersen as Jeff, Carl Betz as Dr. Alex, Donna Reed as Donna, and Patty Petersen as Trisha.

Donna's Clan Will Return On Thursday

It's wedding anniversary time for Donna and Alex Stone when ABC - TV's "The Donna Reed Show" opens its seventh season, Thursday.

In "Operation Anniversary," Donna and Alex plan to celebrate their wedding anniversary by spending the weekend away from home. Son Jeff, however, has worked hard to earn enough to treat his parents to a gourmet dinner. When parents and son learn of the other's intentions, each side switches plans, leading to misunderstandings.

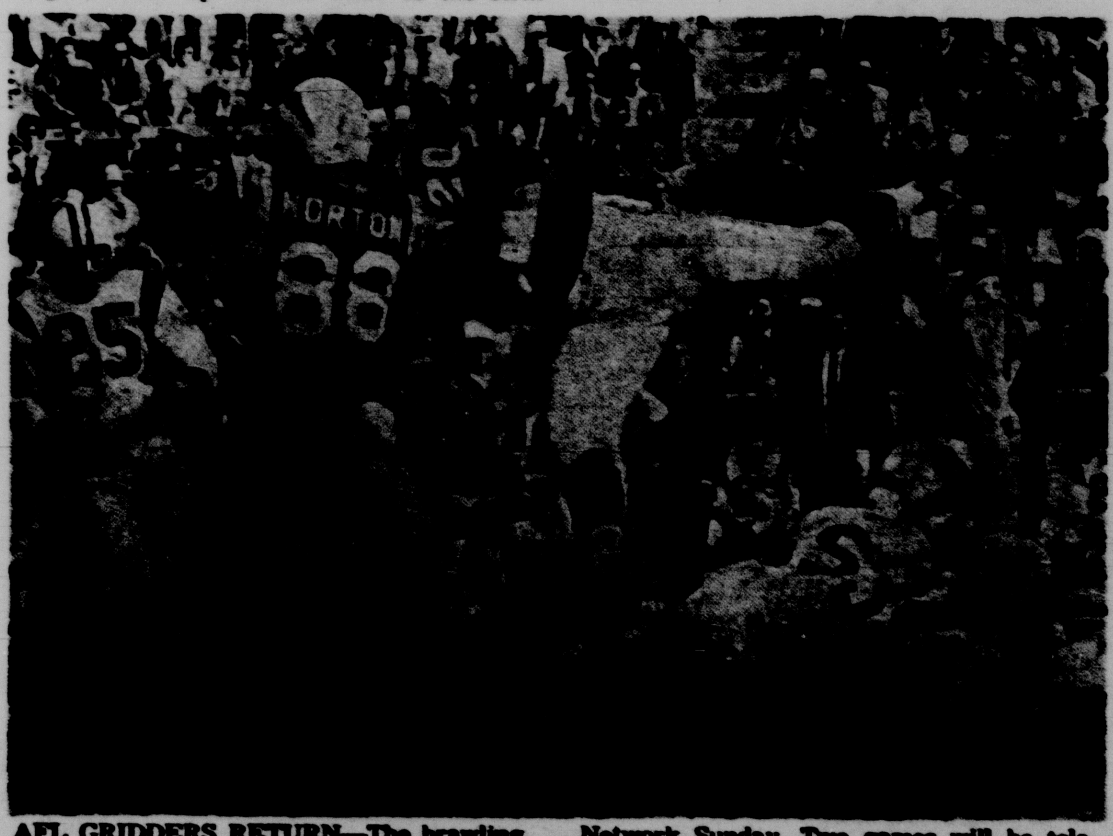
KRAFT PREMIERE—Jo Van Fleet stars with Sal Mineo, Albert Dekker and Patricia Hyland in "The World I Want" which opens the season for Kraft Suspense Theatre, in color, Thursday, Oct. 1 at 10 p.m. (EDT) over NBC-TV. Portraying a deaf-mute, Mineo works in a cabinet shop run by Miss Van Fleet and her husband, played by Dekker. He will be framed for murder when the hate filled couple turns to violence to end their marriage and business. Miss Hyland plays the couple's niece who befriends Mineo and so becomes a tragic target for a second crime.

FIFTH SEASON — Fred MacMurray, William Frawley and Tim Considine (left to right) chow up for the start of the fifth season for "My Three Sons" Thursday on Channel 13.



AFL GRIDDERS RETURN—The brawling, up and down action of the American Football League will be telecast for the fifth consecutive year over the ABC Television Network Sunday. Two games will be telecast regionally on the kickoff date, with Boston at Oakland broadcast in the Eastern time zone at 4:30 p.m., EDT.

"The Rogues" Stars Niven

David Niven and Gig Young will star in "The Personal Touch," the premiere episode of "The Rogues" on NBC-TV Sunday. Robert Coote and Gladys Cooper will co-star; Walter Matthau, Diana Merrill, Alfed Ryder and John Dehner will be guest stars.

The new weekly full-hour comedy-adventure series deals with a family of charming crooks who flourish by their wit, imagination and breeding. Niven, Young and Charles Boyer will alternate in weekly episodes and, when not starring will appear in cameo roles. Coote and Miss Cooper will be virtual every-week performers.

In the initial episode, which opens in Miami, Niven and Coote con an American swindler (Dehner) out of $35,000. This serves them as operating capital for the main caper that takes place on the Riviera. There they pose as tourists with the object of separating a greedy shipowner (Matthau) from his fortune. They also separate him from the girl he plans to marry (Miss Merrill).

CBS News Sets Series Of Specials

Twelve one-hour CBS News special broadcasts covering a wide range of cultural, social and scientific subjects will alternate during the coming season with the highly acclaimed CBS REPORTS on Wednesday nights, on the CBS Television Network.

In addition, three transatlantic Town Meeting of the World broadcasts, transmitted via satellite, and 17 half-hour CBS News special reports, dealing both with cultural subjects and "hard news" stores, will be broadcast during the Wednesday 7:30-8:30 and 7:30-8:00 P.M., PDT time periods.

The 12 one-hour specials will range in subject matter from art, music and the theater to history, astronomy and social comment. The techniques to be employed will range from film to video-taped dramatic readings.

Typical of the hour-long specials will be "Pablo Casals and His World," tentatively scheduled for Dec. 16. The special will follow the famed 88-year-old cellist, conductor and teacher through a six-month itinerary. In November, CBS News will film a conversation which will reflect his musical philosophy and the effect his political experiences have had upon his career.

Other subjects to be included in the group of specials will be "The President: A Splendid Misery," starring Frederic March, Dana Andrews, Ed Begley, Joseph Cotten, E. G. Marshall, Jason Robards Jr. and Robert Ryan, scheduled for Sept 23; "The Mystery of Stonehenge," a scientific detective story unveiling the mystery that has surrounded the ruins of Stonehenge for centuries; Tokyo Through Different Eyes," a follow-up to last season's highly acclaimed "Dublin: Through Different Eyes;" and pictorial portraits of leading figures in the arts, such as sculptor Henry Moore.

The bulk of the 12 specials will be broadcast after the November 3 election. Most of the Wednesday night broadcasts prior to that date will concern themselves with aspects of the campaign, the candidates and the issues in the coming election.

Crosby Show Set to Start First Season

Bing Crosby debuts as actor in a continuing role - consulting engineer Bing Collins, husband of devoted Ellie, and father of Joyce, 16, and Janice, 11 - when he starts on ABC-TV's new weekly series, "The Bing Crosby Show," Monday.

The series will be launched with "A Fine Romance," in which Janice remarks that the glow seems to have gone from her parents' relationship. The youngster's quip sparks a night of adventure for Bing and Ellie in which they try to recapture the fervor of their courting days in the exact spots in which they dated.

In a secluded meeting place, place, Bing sings "It Had to be You" for Ellie, and they get rousted by a group of necking teenagers. Later, when they try to waltz at their favorite tavern, they get caught up in a wild Watusi.

Written by Don Beaumont, "A Fine Romance" was directed by James Sheldon,, series' director. John Scott Trotter is music supervisor.

Nobody Ever Turns Down This Sherry Cream Pie

Who's the best cook in your town?

Years ago, when I was living in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, we thought Mrs. Coon was. She was the wife of a professor at the University of Alabama and her Sherry Cream Pie was one dessert no one ever turned down. We didn't count calories then.

One thing about making Mrs. Coon's pie is you can't dawdle around. She used to work like a cyclone when she got going on it, although the pie wasn't ready for the eating until eight hours later.

So if you want to make this delectable dessert, gird yourself, and prepare an assembly line of measured ingredients, and start in.

SHERRY CREAM PIE

1½ cups crisp chocolate cookies, crushed
¼ pound butter, melted
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold milk
3 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
1 cup milk
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup sherry
½ pint whipping cream.

First, mix the crushed cookies with melted butter and pat firmly into a 10-inch glass pie plate. Place the shell in the refrigerator for a one-hour chilling.

Now, are you ready? On your mark, get set: soften gelatin in cold milk. Put egg yolks in the top of a double boiler, beat slightly with wire whisk; add sugar, milk, cooking and stirring well for 10 minutes or until the mixture coats a spoon. Remove from stove.

Add gelatin mixture, salt and nutmeg to custard until gelatin is dissolved. Add the sherry, slowly and stirring constantly so it won't curdle. Place the custard filling in the refrigerator to thicken.

Beat the egg whites stiff and whip the cream to firm texture. Add the egg whites gently to the thickened custard, and then fold in, ever so gently, the whipped cream.

Fill the pie shell with the custard mix, sprinkle the top with grated sweet chocolate or crushed cookies, and return the pie to the refrigerator for eight hours.

What aging does for a good wine, so the same thing does for this pie.

Am and Fm . . . AMEN—by Don Bennet

The Only Change in Polo Is That Now It's on FM

By DON BENNET

The time is over two thousand years ago and horsemen of an ancient asiatic kingdom line up on a field 40 yards wide and 200 yards long. Ten men on each side start thrashing with long wooden mallets, as they charge across the field ... and if a man or horse falls and gets trampled the action continues uninterrupted. The name of the game ... POLO.

The time now is about two thousand years later on a field in Colorado Springs. The rules of Polo are much the same as centuries before ... the rider must hit the ball with a mallet through two poles at the end of a field, but this time four men oppose four other men on a field larger and better kept. And now also for the first time in this city, Polo is broadcast play-by-play over the radio, and we predict will be again and again.

With TV networks spending millions of dollars for football rights and even buying control of baseball teams outright and local AM and FM stations scrapping to cover local high school sporting events ... it seems that the interesting sport of Polo is a natural for increased coverage.

In the August 30th Country Sports Trophy match broadcast over KLST-Stereo-FM, the Colorado Springs team was smashed by a well trained Denver crew 18-3, but in spite of the one sided score the game had the speed of a horse race, the action plays of a hockey match, and occasionally the body contact of a football game. In short, it was fast and exciting both to watch live and to listen to as narrated by Dr. Herzberger, playing president of the Colorado Springs Polo Assn. who had to sit out the game due to injuries.

Another reason we believe polo will become increasingly popular is it's reasonable cost. Although not every kid in the block is going to rush right out and but a $10,000 polo pony, in the light of such sports as skiing, boating, and flying, polo could be considered fairly reasonable. The horse is probably the most expensive item ... the average cost of the horses in the challenge match was probably $500 with the range between $150 and $1000. The remaining equipment might run from $150 to $250 and include such things as helmet, saddle, boots and pads.

In fact you can probably count on AM and FM to have more and better sports coverage of all kinds at a local level and it won't be unusual for as many as three or more stations to do the same football games this fall as KSSS-AM will broadcast some AAA sports as well as KRDO-AM and KVOR-AM-FM. And even KYSN-AM plans to do some summary type on the scene sports reporting we've been told.

Also there will most likely be more sports done in stereo multiplex as have been done occasionally in the past and as far back as winter of 1962 by KLST-Stereo-FM contrary to erroneous reports in a Denver paper last year that KLIR-FM, Denver had done the first stereo sportscasts in the state.

So sports fans, stay tuned. The games: football, baseball, basketball, boxing, polo, golf, and hockey. The names: Jack Finlayson, Sam Aro, Eldon Helm ... to mention a few of the sportscasters. The place on the dial ... almost everywhere.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

One of our kennel club members has lost his trusted friend and companion. Mr. Earl Bollman's black and tan Cocker Spaniel, Dusty, has been missing for about two weeks. Apparently the gate was left open or opened by persons unknown and Dusty wandered off. He has been seen in the vicinity of the Colorado State School for the Deaf and Blind. A paper boy spotted him early in the morning. Mr. Bollman has been out searching for him early each morning before he goes to work and after he gets home at night.

Dusty is timid and probably would not go to strangers. If you spot him call Mr. Bollman at this number, 632-6668. If there is no answer, since both Mr. and Mrs. Bollman work, please call Mrs. Grace Manley at 632-5875.

Earl Bollman has been raising Cocker Spaniels since 1949 and has had many fine dogs but Dusty is a special friend and is greatly missed by his family.

The fact that Dusty is a black and tan may help those searching for him. There are only three or four of these Spaniels with this coloring in Colorado Springs. He is black with tan markings over his eyes, under his tail and on all four legs.

Mr. Bollman is offering a reward for information leading to the return of his pet.

The following are more excerpts from a booklet by Martha Jane Abbott, entitled, "What to Look For When Buying a Purebred Poodle."

From a reliable kennel you can expect the following:

1. A.K.C. Registration papers, or the blue slip for application of same. If this blue slip is not back from the American Kennel Club, you should have a signed statement from the breeder or seller that it WILL be furnished.

2. A three to five generation pedigree of the dog, and if a specimen for breeding or show purposes, this pedigree should give colors and sizes where known.

3. Feeding instructions and general instructions on care — a complete record of temporary and permanent inoculations for distemper, hepatitis and leptospirosis, when given and by whom and dates when further inoculations are due. This report should also include worming dates and reports.

4. A helpful attitude and answer to any questions you may have for the future well-being of your new dog or puppy — the breeder is more interested in the new home and the care of this puppy than you realize. A happy puppy and a mutually happy new owner is the best advertising any breeder can have.

5. Continued help and advice, especially if the dog was bought with breeding or show career in mind. The care, responsibility and expense is of course up to you, but advice and benefit of the breeder's experience should be expected and freely given.

6. A few things not to expect and do —

Do not expect the puppy to be housebroken. Even if it was previously in the house, it must adjust to your surroundings and a new home. A period of two weeks with patience, love and understanding is a MUST on your part. Otherwise, don't buy a dog in the first place.

Do not expect the puppy to be playful and completely at home right away. It is in a completely different world, uprooted from housemates and former masters, lost and unsure. Don't let children play with it at first, let it come to you and adjust gradually. Give it a box or bed of its won where it can cuddle up and be safe. Talk softly to it and go about your regular work and soon it will come out, ready for attention and ready to get into the scheme of things at your house. Don't try to feed it right away, but at regular feeding time fix a small amount of food given you by the breeder and let the puppy alone. Don't worry if it does not polish the dish even for a day or two.

7. Don't expect to purchase a pet at pet price and then decide to breed or show it.

8. Don't expect to have a show poodle without work, knowledge, expense, time, patience, professional help and trimming, and daily care under professional instruction. The very best specimen cannot win unless properly trained and presented.

9. Do expect to give a poodle just about the same care, attention and training that you give a child. They want to please and will learn almost anything if taught and loved, but, like any child, will get away with murder if they can wheedle you into doing things THEIR way. Don't Punish! TEACH!

WINNING POODLE

A young male poodle, owned by the Snowcap Kennels, 33 Maverick Rd., Black Forest, has chalked up an outstanding showing record in just one short year.

Jinny's Mitchell, is a black, toy poodle, twenty-two months old. His owners, Fran and Duke King, started showing their young dog in June, 1963. Mitchell has twenty-six firsts in class and six reserves to his credit.

The dog, which is handled by Mrs. Edna James of Denver has been shown in six different states since March of this year.

September 5 at the dog show held in Greeley, Colorado by the Greeley Kennel Club, Mitchell went Winners Dog against eleven dogs and took home two points.

At the Columbine State Poodle Specialty held at Lakewood, Colorado September 7 this fine, young dog walked off with a four-point major win to give him a total of six points in three days.

Choral Society Places Season Tickets on Sale

Season tickets for the Colorado Springs Choral Society's expanded four program season are now on sale.

The Choral Society will sponsor two prgrams with the remaining two to be performed by the Colorado Springs Chorale. All performances will be held at the Fine Arts Center.

The first program of the season will be the delightful Broadway musical "Finian's Rainbow". This gay musical, complete with leprachauns, legends, Irish accents, beautiful melodies and dances, is family entertainment.

It will be presented Nov., 5, 6, and 7.

Captain Thomas J. Smith is director for the entire program with David Porter serving as musical director and Norman Comick as choreographer. The cast features some of the area's most accomplished performers and will be performed with full orchestra accompaniment. Single tickets for this program will go on sale on Sept., 20 with season ticket holders receiving first choice of nights.

On Jan., 31, the Chorale will present its first regular program under the direction of David Porter. Again with full orchestra and noted soloists the dramatic oratorio of Felix Mendelssohn, "Elijah" will be performed. Rachel Hatton, Society President stated that this will be one of the musical highlights for the 1964-65 season.

Appearing on Feb., 21 for one performance only will be the famous "Mario Singers of Aspen". The Mario Singers will present a colorful program staged around opera favorites. They are currently booking shows in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico.

The final program of the season will be held May 21 and will again feature the Colorado Springs Chorale. The beautiful music of Brahms "Leibeslieder Waltzes" and the stirring "The Peaceable Kingdom" by Randall Thompson will be presented under the Porter's direction.

These four programs bring a variety of musical entertainment to season ticket holders, which according to Miss Hatton, is the aim of the Choral Society this season with the new venture of a complete Broadway musical and the sponsoring of an out-of-town group, in addition to the regular Chorale concerts.

LEISURETIME BOOKS by John Fetler

Individual Seeks Values In 20th Century Confusion

HERZOG, by Saul Bellow. Biking. $5.75.

Because this is the big novel on which the highly regarded Bellow has been working for some years, it should be said right at the start that its publication is no occasion for light-headed females, entertainment-seekers or curiosity - collectors.

In short, it is a literary novel; a demanding exercise of the reader's mind; a test of an accomplished author's ability to communicate with his intelligent peers; an equal test of the reader's comprehension.

It is a story about Moses Elkanah Herzog, a middle-aged professor with an Old World heritage, with a pardonable weakness of Adam - descended flesh and with a groping devotion to his world of scholarship and learning.

So far as the narrative is concerned, we find Moses at a crucial time. As a scholar he has not fulfilled his early promise, but may yet. As a man, he has been through a first divorce (Daisy and their son Marco are mere figures in the background and more recently, a second divorce (a devouring member of the intelligentsia named Madeleine, with their daughter June) and is vulnerable to another entanglement with a New York widow.

Moses is right on the edge of irrationality at this point, as he knows full well. Compulsively, he writes letters (but doesn't mail them) to many diverse figures, large and small, living and dead—and to himself. He makes a visit to Chicago to see little June, and undergoes a serlocomic adventure there. Finally he retreats to a decaying old house in the Berkshires to collect his wavering wits.

Herzog is more than the usual author's mouthpiece for social philosophical comment. He is partly a new Moses, perhaps doubting if there is a Promised Land; partly a new Everyman on a newly dangerous pilgrimage; partly Modern Man, battered by the pressures of our time (a perpetual loser to forces stronger than he can muster as a worried, overwhelmed indivi-ual); but particularly he is the preseny day intellectual, trapped between the human sense and a confused perplexity over shattered 20th Century values.

The writing is a dialogue between man as a person and man as a mind. It is a novel that is not easy to read, for it is anything but shallow. It also is is a novel that is not easy to forget.

AN AMERICAN IN ROME. By Michael Stern. Bernard Geis-Random. $4.95.

New York - born newspaperman Michael Stern arrived in Rome in 1944 as a war correspondent, and his book leaves the impression that neither he nor the Eternal City has been quite the same since.

Written in a sometimes breezy, sometimes serious style, the book is largely a series of reminiscences of Stern's 20 years as a Rome - based newspaperman, magazine writer and host to hundreds of the greater and lesser lights of show business, cafe society and journalism.

Some of her associates are fascinating and the rest are at least entertaining. But oddly enough, the most interesting ones to this reader are three that have the least to do with Rome.

Mr. Stern's coverage of the [illegible] of the Duchess [illegible] seems [illegible] of whom battered two SS guards to death as Stern looked on — and of the freeing of famed anti-Nazi pastor Martin Neimoller.

— The tracking down and interviewing of Sicilian "Robin Hood" bandit king Salvatore Guiliano, who wanted then President Harry S. Truman to send him tanks to help Sicily win independence.

— The execution of Anton Dostler, the first German general convicted of war crimes.

— The recap of what probably is Stern's most famous story, the slaying of U. S. Army Maj. William Holohan and the theft of $100,000 in gold, purportedly by two of Holohan's associates in a wartime OSS project to arm and organize Italian partisans for the liberation of Italy from Nazi rule.

Some of his comments and anecdotes on Roman life are equally readable—his difficulties with Italian landlords, for example—but several are marred by excessive length and others by Stern's less - than - successful attempts to wax lyrical or philosophical.

THE MAN. By Irving Wallace. Simon & Schuster. $5.95.

Wallace likes to write novels that are as big as a mountain and as vivid as a volcano. In the 766 pages of this book he has turned loose an eruption of words on a hotly topical theme.

The time is a few years in the future. The U. S. Senate, as a political sop to his race, has elected an unobtrusive Negro Senator as its president pro tempore. Then a heart attack kills the vice president, a freak accident eliminates the President and the speaker, and the United States has its first Negro President, Douglass Dilman.

Dilman is in an impossible situation, bound to create trouble in some quarter, no matter what he does. He is faced with a civil rights issue and a crisis over a radical Negro organization. There is a Soviet threat to a small African nation which the U. S. is backing. The Cabinet, led by a pompous secretary of state, is determined to force Dilman into following its version of his predecessor's policies.

There are problems in Dilman's personal life too — a daughter who has left the family to pass as a white woman and a son who is an unruly college student.

Before long a rabidly segregationist Congressman has launched a vicious attack on the President, and the climax comes in a tense impeachment trial.

A neurotic Southern belle, an idealistic Chicago lawyer and an heroic but disillusioned Secret Service man are among the many characters Wallace has packed into his story.

Once again the author is working with sensation material, but he succeeds in giving a veneer of plausibility to the action. "The Man" has more dramatic unity than "The Prize" or "The Three Sirens." Its main character, portrayed very sympathetically, is a strong one.

Here is a great big, gripping novel for the popular market, and undoubtedly it will be popular.

Nobody Ever Turns Down This Sherry Cream Pie

Who's the best cook in your town?

Years ago, when I was living in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, we thought Mrs. Coon was. She was the wife of a professor at the University of Alabama and her Sherry Cream Pie was one dessert no one ever turned down. We didn't count calories then.

One thing about making Mrs. Coon's pie is you can't dawdle around. She used to work like a cyclone when she got going on it, although the pie wasn't ready for the eating until eight hours later.

So if you want to make this delectable dessert, gird yourself, and prepare an assembly line of measured ingredients, and start in.

SHERRY CREAM PIE

1½ cups crisp chocolate cookies, crushed
¼ pound butter, melted
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold milk
3 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
1 cup milk
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup sherry
½ pint whipping cream.

First, mix the crushed cookies with melted butter and pat firmly into a 10-inch glass pie plate. Place the shell in the refrigerator for a one-hour chilling.

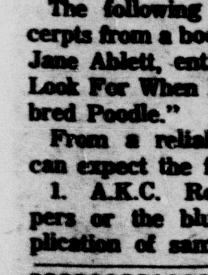
Now, are you ready? On your mark, get set: soften gelatin in cold milk. Put egg yolks in the top of a double boiler, beat slightly with wire whisk; add sugar, milk, cooking and stirring well for 10 minutes or until the mixture coats a spoon. Remove from stove.

Add gelatin mixture, salt and nutmeg to custard until gelatin is dissolved. Add the sherry, slowly and stirring constantly so it won't curdle. Place the custard filling in the refrigerator to thicken.

Beat the egg whites stiff and whip the cream to firm texture. Add the egg whites gently to the thickened custard, and then fold in, ever so gently, the whipped cream.

Fill the pie shell with the custard mix, sprinkle the top with grated sweet chocolate or crushed cookies, and return the pie to the refrigerator for eight hours.

What aging does for a good wine, so the same thing does for this pie.



COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

One of our kennel club members has lost his trusted friend and companion. Mr. Earl Bollman's black and tan Cocker Spaniel, Dusty, has been missing for about two weeks. Apparently the gate was left open or opened by persons unknown and Dusty wandered off. He has been seen in the vicinity of the Colorado State School for the Deaf and Blind. A paper boy spotted him early in the morning. Mr. Bollman has been out searching for him early each morning before he goes to work and after he gets home at night.

Dusty is timid and probably would not go to strangers. If you spot him call Mr. Bollman at this number, 632-9966. If there is no answer, since both Mr. and Mrs. Bollman work, please call Mrs. Grace Manley at 632-5875.

Earl Bollman has been raising Cocker Spaniels since 1949 and has had many fine dogs but Dusty is a special friend and is greatly missed by his family.

The fact that Dusty is a black and tan may help those searching for him. There are only three or four of these Spaniels with this coloring in Colorado Springs. He is black with tan markings over his eyes, under his tail and on all four legs.

Mr. Bollman is offering a reward for information leading to the return of his pet.

The following are more excerpts from a booklet by Martha Jane Ablett, entitled, "What to Look For When Buying a Purebred Poodle."

From a reliable kennel you can expect the following:

1. A.K.C. Registration papers or the blue slip for application of same. If this blue slip is not back from the American Kennel Club, you should have a signed statement from the breeder or seller that it WILL be furnished.

2. A three to five generation pedigree of the dog, and if a specimen for breeding or show purposes, this pedigree should give colors and sizes where known.

3. Feeding instructions and general instructions on care — a complete record of temporary and permanent inoculations for distemper, hepatitis and leptospirosis, when given and by whom and dates when further inoculations are due. This report should also include worming dates and reports.

4. A helpful attitude and answer to any questions you may have for the future well-being of your new dog or puppy — the breeder is more interested in the new home and the care of this puppy than you realize. A happy puppy and a mutually happy new owner is the best advertising any breeder can have.

5. Continued help and advice, especially if the dog was bought with breeding or show career in mind. The care, responsibility and expense is of course up to you, but advice and benefit of the breeder's experience should be expected and freely given.

6. A few things not to expect and do —

Do not expect the puppy to be housebroken. Even if it was previously in the house, it must adjust to your surroundings and a new home. A period of two weeks with patience, love and understanding is a MUST on your part. Otherwise, don't buy a dog in the first place.

Do not expect the puppy to be playful and completely at home right away. It is in a completely different world, uprooted from kennelmates and former masters, lost and unsure. Don't let children play with it at first, let it come to you and adjust gradually. Give it a box or bed of its own where it can cuddle up and be safe. Talk softly to it and go about your regular work and soon it will come out, ready for attention and ready to get into the scheme of things at your house. Don't try to feed it right away, but at regular feeding time fix a small amount of food given you by the breeder and let the puppy alone. Don't worry if it does not polish the dish even for a day or two.

7. Don't expect to purchase a pet at pet price and then decide to breed or show it.

8. Don't expect to have a show poodle without work, knowledge, expense, time, patience, professional help and trimming, and daily care under professional instruction. The very best specimen cannot win unless properly trained and presented.

9. Do expect to give a poodle just about the same care, attention and training that you give a child. They want to please and will learn almost anything if taught and loved, but, like any child, will get away with murder if they can wheedle you into doing things THEIR way. Don't Punish! TEACH!

WINNING POODLE

A young male poodle, owned by the Snowcap Kennels, 33 Maverick Rd., Black Forest, has chalked up an outstanding showing record in just one short year.

Jinny's Mitchell, is a black, toy poodle, twenty-two months old. His owners, Fran and Duke King, started showing their young dog in June, 1963. Mitchell has twenty-six firsts in class and six reserves to his credit.

The dog, which is handled by Mrs. Edna James of Denver has been shown in six different states since March of this year.

September 5 at the dog show held in Greeley, Colorado by the Greeley Kennel Club, Mitchell went Winners Dog against eleven dogs and took home two points.

At the Columbine State Poodle Specialty held at Lakewood, Colorado September 7 this fine, young dog walked off with a four-point major win to give him a total of six points in three days.

Am and Fm . . . AMEN—by Don Bennet

The Only Change in Polo Is That Now It's on FM

By DON BENNET

The time is over two thousand years ago and horsemen of an ancient asiatic kingdom line up on a field 40 yards wide and 200 yards long. Ten men on each side start thrashing with long wooden mallets, as they charge across the field ... and if a man or horse falls and gets trampled the action continues uninterrupted. The name of the game ... POLO.

The time now is about two thousand years later on a field in Colorado Springs. The rules of Polo are much the same as centuries before ... the rider must hit the ball with a mallet through two poles at the end of a field, but this time four men oppose four other men on a field larger and better kept. And now also for the first time in this city, Polo is broadcast play-by-play over the radio, and we predict will be again and again.

With TV networks spending millions of dollars for football rights and even buying control of baseball teams outright and local AM and FM stations scrapping to cover local high school sporting events ... it seems that the interesting sport of Polo is a natural for increased coverage.

In the August 30th Country Sports Trophy match broadcast over KLST-Stereo-FM, the Colorado Springs team was smashed by a well trained Denver crew 18-3, but in spite of the one sided score the game had the speed of a horse race, the action plays of a hockey match, and occasionally the body contact of a football game. In short, it was fast and exciting both to watch live and to listen to as narrated by Dr. Herzberger, playing president of the Colorado Springs Polo Assn. who had to sit out the game due to injuries.

Another reason we believe polo will become increasingly popular is it's reasonable cost. Although not every kid in the block is going to rush right out and but a $10,000 polo pony, in the light of such sports as skiing, boating, and flying, polo could be considered fairly reasonable. The horse is probably the most expensive item ... the average cost of the horses in the challenge match was probably $500 with the range between $150 and $1000. The remaining equipment might run from $150 to $250 and include such things as helmet, saddle, boots and pads.

In fact you can probably count on AM and FM to have more and better sports coverage of all kinds at a local level and it won't be unusual for as many as three or more stations to do the same football games this fall as KSSS-AM will broadcast some AAA sports as well as KRDO-AM and KVOR-AM-FM. And even KYSN-AM plans to do some summary type on the scene sports reporting we've been told.

Also there will most likely be more sports done in stereo multiplex as have been done occasionally in the past and as far back as winter of 1962 by KLST-Stereo-FM contrary to erroneous reports in a Denver paper last year that KLIR-FM, Denver had done the first stereo sportscasts in the state.

So sports fans, stay tuned. The games: football, baseball, basketball, boxing, polo, golf, and hockey. The names: Jack Finlayson, Sam Aro, Eldon Helm ... to mention a few of the sportscasters. The place on the dial ... almost everywhere.

Choral Society Places Season Tickets on Sale

Season tickets for the Colorado Springs Choral Society's expanded four program season are now on sale.

The Choral Society will sponsor two prgrams with the remaining two to be performed by the Colorado Springs Chorale. All performances will be held at the Fine Arts Center.

The first program of the season will be the delightful Broadway musical "Finian's Rainbow". This gay musical, complete with leprachauns, legends, Irish accents, beautiful melodies and dances, is family entertainment.

It will be presented Nov., 5, 6, and 7.

Captain Thomas J. Smith is director for the entire program with David Porter serving as musical director and Norman Comick as choreographer. The cast features some of the area's most accomplished performers and will be performed with full orchestra accompaniment. Single tickets for this program will go on sale on Sept., 20 with season ticket holders receiving first choice of nights.

On Jan., 31, the Chorale will present its first regular program under the direction of David Porter. Again with full orchestra and noted soloists the dramatic oratorio of Felix Mendelssohn, "Elijah" will be performed. Rachel Hatton, Society Presidents stated that this will be one of the musical highlights for the 1964-65 season.

Appearing on Feb., 21 for one performance only will be the famous "Mario Singers of Aspen". The Mario Singers will present a colorful program staged around opera favorites. They are currently booking shows in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico.

The final program of the season will be held May 21 and will again feature the Colorado Springs Chorale. The beautiful music of Brahms "Leibeslieder Waltzes" and the stirring "The Peaceable Kingdom" by Randall Thompson will be presented under the Porter's direction.

These four programs bring a variety of musical entertainment to season ticket holders, which according to Miss Hatton, is the aim of the Choral Society this season with the new venture of a complete Broadway musical and the sponsoring of an out-of-town group, in addition to the regular Chorale concerts.

New Interns Now Showing At the Chief

Powerful, compelling and frank in its approach to the facts of life, Columbia Pictures' "The New Interns," now showing at the Chief Theatre. "The New Interns," as its title implies, is the story of young people in an explosive world of man-woman excitement, of life brimming days and nights.

The problems faced by "The New Interns" are not only those they meet in their medical books' they also face the personal problems which directly affect their own futures, and what they can not learn from books, they learn from each other.

Michael Callan tops the star cast of "The New Interns," as a brash young girl chaser who acts as though the student nurses are around for his benefit alone, until he is tamed by pert blonde Barbara Eden.

Stefanie Powers appears as a graduate nurse newly wed to young obstetrician Dean Jones; their marriage is headed for the rocks, however, because the young doctor is unable to give her the babies they both so eagerly desire.

Telly Savalas, one of the screen's finest character actors, plays the gruff chief of staff who is prepared to fight with anybody around, but who reserves his biggest growls for rebellious young George Segal, playing a volatile young doctor in love with a social worker. And Inger Stevens, as the social worker, is raped by three hoodlums and winds up in the hospital out of her mind.

Kay Stevens, who has a tremendous and richly deserved reputation as a comedienne in the night club and television fields, appears in "The New Interns" as a nurse who throws a mild "baby party" for the pregnant wife of a new intern; it turns into a breathless, delightful wall to wall brawl when "The New Interns" exuberantly crash it . . . via ambulance, no less!

The separate, and still related, stories of the new interns, and the nurses around them, are deftly played, with elements of comedy and tragedy sharply delineated. Among the excitements, apart from the personality clashes suggested above, is the fight to save the life of a new born baby, and the emergency room aftermath of a gang "rumble," where Segal finally catches up with the hoods who had destroyed his girl.

New Square Dance Class Set to Start on Monday

Another class is announced for "Learn to Square Dance Week." Norman Chichester has a class to start next Monay at 8 p.m. at the Carriage Stop. Couples who wish to learn to square dance and haven't signed up yet can still get to this class; or if some other night is more convenient one of the other classes may be able to enroll another couple.

The Country Two Steppers got off to a whirling start with twelve sets filling Carpenters Hall last Wednesday night and Don Franklin calling. Many past members of the club were present and several couples joined the club. The Two Steppers are looking forward to an interesting and successful season. "Success" to a club doesn't necessarily mean a financialsuccess, but a lot of people dancing and a lot of fun. Butch Pritchett of Denver will call next Wednesday, and another good crowd is expected. All dancers are welcome.

The Carriage Stop was filled on Friday night when the Waggin Wheelers danced to their regular caller, Harold Palmer. Many guests and a number of the new dancers were out.

The Maddocks journeyed to Denver Saturday night and danced with the Red Rock Ramblers at the beautiful Rolling Hills recreation center. Callers were Burl Main and Dale Cassaday and 40 sets filled the hall to capacity. Pick up where to dance.

AN AMERICAN IN ROME. By Michael Stern. Bernard Geis-Random. $4.95.

New York - born newspaperman Michael Stern arrived in Rome in 1944 as a war correspondent, and his book leaves the impression that neither he nor the Eternal City has been quite the same since.

Written in a sometimes breezy, sometimes serious style, the book is largely a series of reminiscences of Stern's 20 years as a Rome - based newspaperman, magazine writer and host to hundreds of the greater and lesser lights of show business, cafe society and journalism.

Some of her anecdotes are fascinating and the rest are at least entertaining. But oddly enough, the most interesting ones to this reader are those that have the least to do with Rome:

— Stern's coverage of The liberation of the Dachau concentration camp inmates—some of whom battered two SS guards to death as Stern looked on — and of the freeing of famed anti-Nazi pastor Martin Neimoller.

— The tracking down and interviewing of Sicilian "Robin Hood" bandit king Salvatore Guiliano, who wanted then President Harry S. Truman to send him tanks to help Sicily win independence.

— The execution of Anton Dostler, the first German general convicted of war crimes.

— The recap of what probably is Stern's most famous story, the slaying of U. S. Army Maj. William Holohan and the theft of $100,000 in gold, purportedly by two of Holohan's associates in a wartime OSS project to arm and organize Italian partisans for the liberation of Italy from Nazi rule.

Some of his comments and anecdotes on Roman life are equally readable—his difficulties with Italian landlords, for example—but several are marred by excessive length and others by Stern's less - than - successful attempts to wax lyrical or philosophical.

THE MAN. By Irving Wallace. Simon & Schuster. $5.95.

Wallace likes to write novels that are as big as a mountain and as vivid as a volcano. In the 766 pages of this book he has turned loose an eruption of words on a hotly topical theme.

The time is a few years in the future. The U. S. Senate, as a political sop to his race, has elected an unobtrusive Negro Senator as its president pro tempore. Then a heart attack kills the vice president, a freak accident eliminates the President and the speaker, and the United States has its first Negro President, Douglass Dilman.

Dilman is in an impossible situation, bound to create trouble in some quarter, no matter what he does. He is faced with a civil rights issue and a crisis over a radical Negro organization. There is a Soviet threat to a small African nation which the U. S. is backing. The Cabinet, led by a pompous secretary of state, is determined to force Dilman into following its version of his predecessor's policies.

There are problems in Dilman's personal life too — a daughter who has left the family to pass as a white woman and a son who is an unruly college student.

Before long a rabidly segregationist Congressman has launched a vicious attack on the President, and the climax comes in a tense impeachment trial.

A neurotic Southern belle, an idealistic Chicago lawyer and an heroic but disillusioned Secret Service man are among the many characters Wallace has packed into his story.

Once again the author is working with sensation material, but he succeeds in giving a veneer of plausibility to the action. "The Man" has more dramatic unity than "The Prize" or "The Three Sirens." Its main character, portrayed very sympathetically, is a strong one.

Here is a great big, gripping novel for the popular market, and undoubtedly it will be popular.

their first performance for early December. Two works are planned: Mendelssohn: HYMN OF PRAISE and Vaughan Williams: FANTASIA ON CHRISTMAS CAROLS. Soloists will be selected from the Colorado Springs area and soloists and concert place and time will be announced later.

Conductor of the CU SINGERS which began late last spring is Mr. Archer Hayes. Hayes comes to Colorado Springs with a wide background in college vocal and choral music, college-community orchestras and choral societies, and church music, both part and full time.

His college work includes six years as Director of Vocal and Choral Music at Monmouth college, Monmouth, Illinois, where he taught private and class voice, choral conducting and arranging, Harmony, and conducted the College Choir, the Chorale, the Chorus, and the college-community Choral Society and Orchestra. During this time he was also Director of Music at the Second United Presbyterian Church, Monmouth.

Following his work at Monmouth College, Hayes became Director of Vocal and Choral Music at Nebraska State College, Chadron, Nebraska where he was conductor of the Northwest Nebraska in addition to directing the College Choir, Madrigal Singers, directing and singing in the Men's Octet, and teaching class and private voice. During his tenure at Nebraska State, he was appointed Chairman of Vocal Music for the Music Teachers National Association Nebraska State Organization and also Vice-Chairman of private teacher accreditation.

At Davenport, Iowa, Hayes was fulltime Director of Music at the First Presbyterian Church, administering one adult choir, six children's choirs, and an Englist Handbell Choir. He was also invited to become the Conductor of the Chamber Singers, a small professional caliber choral ensemble associated with the Friends of Chamber Music which was drawn from the Tri-City Symphony Orchestra.

Presently, Hayes is Chairman of Vocal Music at North Junior High School, Bass soloist and section leader in the Grace Episcopal Church Choir, an active member of the Colorado Springs Music Club and has been soloist with the Chorale and with the Opera Association.

ARTS CHRONICLE by John Fetler

Performing Arts in Springs Show Growth

Performing Arts Flourish — The development of the opera offers a most interesting example of a growing effort to establish it on a firm base, financially speaking, and engaging a wider listening audience, as well as engaging more of the community's talent for its growth.

We have heard that the estimated budget for this season's operatic effort will have to be some $20,000, which moves the Opera Assn. into the big league, at least as far as the community's overall musical picture is considered.

Not since the days when Dr. Frederick Boothroyd conducted the community's main musical efforts, has there been such a shift in the musical picture of the city, and the growth of the opera (as well as that of choruses) seems to bode good for the development of the city's musical culture.

Speaking, in regard to the performing arts in the community, there exists a triad which bears the main burden in providing opportunity for the performing arts.

1. The Civic Players, which under the direction of Orvis Grout and a solid board of directors has established what is probably the stablest cultural organization locally.

2. The Symphony Orchestra, which under the direction of Walter Eisenberg has not only increased its budget, but also developed the quality of the orchestra, and the community subscription to a high point.

3. The Opera Association, which has launched on an expansion drive, has engaged a wider community support than ever, and is on the way of creating a faithful, stable audience for its productions, not to mention the reservoir of community talent upon which it draws.

Another cultural resource should be added to this list, namely the dance theatre, which under the direction of Norman Cornick, has produced some of the finest dance concerts, with community and college material, and which promises to enter a new era of its development, not only in concerts as such, but also as an adjunct to the presentation of other cultural efforts, such as participating in opera, and in other musical events.

Also, the music department of the college, while working almost entirely with college material, does present to the community various events in the musical performing arts, thus benefiting from a loyal community audience as well as from the college audience itself, a policy which has been pursued for years by Dr. Max Lanner with highly beneficial results.

The development of the performing arts in Colorado Springs is of quite some importance, because for some years there seems to have been somewhat of a slump, partly due to the confusion of performance with perennial publicizing which more than once has been of a quite negative influence on performing organizations.

There is another musical performance field, that of singing in choruses, which is also undergoing a perhaps significant growth.

The organization of choruses has undergone various vicissitudes in the city, although the history of volunteer choirs (apart from those of the various churches) goes back almost to the founding of the city.

At present, there are three choruses in which residents of the community can participate.

One is the Colorado Springs Chorale, which is now preparing for the presentation of a musical show.

Another one is the chorus organized under the auspices of the University of Colorado Extension Division in Colorado Springs, which meets in the Lehmberg chapel of the First Methodist Church, and which is planning for present works of a purely choral nature.

The third is the standing chorus of the Colorado Springs Opera Assn., which is essential for the presentation of operas in Colorado Springs. The opera, by the way, this year has moved to the Wasson High auditorium, and has scheduled Gounod's Faust, a very popular work, for its first production this season.

These choruses, of course, are composed of volunteers from the community, and thus offer splendid outlets for those who wish to do something more creative than watching, passively, television shows, or engage in similar spectator sports. And it is this that choir singing proves to be an excellent medium, for it involves not only participation, not only "doing" something, but also is a medium for learning music, as well as good physical exercise.

In addition to these choruses, there are others in the region, of course, but they are of a different nature: The Aradcom chorus, for instance, which has its home - base here, and which travels throughout the country presenting programs in what could be called a public relations program for Aradcom, and a very successful showcase, too.

There is also the Colorado College chorus, which under the direction of Donald Jenkins in the past few years has been developed into a fine choral instrument. There are also choruses at Ent Air Base, such as the Officers' Wives' Chorus, as well as choral work done at Ft. Carson, and the Air Academy Glee Club, or chorus, with the Academy developing a tradition of its own, even as it has been done at Annapolis and West Point.

Nelson Family Embarks on 13th Season

"The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" premieres its 13th season on network television Wednesday, on channel 13.

In the new season opener, "Rick and Tim Visit Across The Hall," Rick's wife Kris becomes concerned when she learns of an attractive girl who moves across the hall from Rick's office where Rick is employed.

The series, which will mark a first time in chronicling the activities of the Nelsons in the 1964-65 season, features all the real-life members of the Nelson family — Ozzie and Harriet and their adult sons, Dave and Rick. During the new season, Kris, Rick's wife is pregnant, so will be seen frequently on the TV screen.

Other continuing characters include Lyle Waffel as next door neighbor Joe Randolph, Henry Jones Cook as his wife, Frances Ely Young as Wilma, and Frank Cady as Doc Williams.

New Interns Now Showing At the Chief

Powerful, compelling and frank in its approach to the facts of life, Columbia Pictures' "The New Interns," now showing at the Chief Theatre. "The New Interns," as its title implies, is the story of young people in an explosive workd of man-woman excitement, of life brimming days and nights.

The problems faced by "The New Interns" are not only those they meet in their medical books' they also face the personal problems which directly affect their own futures, and what they can not learn from books, they learn from each other.

Michael Callan tops the star cast of "The New Interns," as a brash young girl chaser who acts as though the student nurses are aound for his benefit alone, until he is tamed by pert blonde Barbara Eden.

Stefanie Powers appears as a graduate nurse newly wed to young obstetrician Dean Jones; their marriage is headed for the rocks, however, because the young doctor is unable to give her the babies they both so eagerly desire.

Telly Savalas, one of the screen's finest character actors, plays the gruff chief of staff who is prepared to fight with anybody around, but who reserves his biggest growls for rebellious young George Segal, playing a volatile young doctor in love with a social worker. And Inger Stevens, as the social worker, is raped by three hoodlums and winds up in the hospital out of her mind.

Kay Stevens, who has a tremendous and richly deserved reputation as a comedienne in the night club and television fields, appears in "The New Interns" as a nurse who throws a mild "baby party" for the pregnant wife of a new intern; it turns into a breathless, delightful wall to wall brawl when "The New Interns" exuberantly crash it . . . via ambulance, no less!

The separate, and still related, stories of the new interns, and the nurses around them, are deftly played, with elements of comedy and tragedy sharply delineated. Among the excitements, apart from the personality clashes suggested above, is the fight to save the life of a new born baby, and the emergency room aftermath of a gang "rumble," where Segal finally catches up with the hoods who had destroyed his girl.

New Square Dance Class Set to Start on Monday

Another class is announced for "Learn to Square Dance Week." Norman Chichester has a class to start next Monay at 8 p.m. at the Carriage Stop. Couples who wish to learn to square dance and haven't signed up yet can still get to this class; or if some other night is more convenient one of the other classes may be able to enroll another couple.

The Country Two Steppers got off to a whirling start with twelve sets filling Carpenters Hall last Wednesday night and Don Franklin calling. Many past members of the club were present and several couples joined the club. The Two Steppers are looking forward to an interesting and successful season. "Success" to a club doesn't necessarily mean a financialsuccess, but a lot of people dancing and a lot of fun. Butch Pritchett of Denver will call next Wednesday, and another good crowd is expected. All dancers are welcome.

The Carriage Stop was filled on Friday night when the Waggin Wheelers danced to their regular caller, Harold Palmer. Many guests and a number of the new dancers were out.

The Maddocks journeyed to Denver Saturday night and danced with the Red Rock Ramblers at the beautiful Rolling Hills recreation center. Callers were Burl Main and Dale Casseday and 40 sets filled the hall to capacity. Pick up where to dance.
